

Phi Mu Alpha to Initiate Waring Before Show

When Fred Waring comes to the campus tomorrow he will not only be welcomed by 5000 students in Recreation Hall, but will also become a member of Phi Mu Alpha, national men's music honorary tomorrow afternoon.

Waring will be initiated at 4 p.m. in the assembly room of the Hetzel Union Building. The ceremony will be open to members of Phi Mu Alpha only.

At the performance of his musical show "Hear! Hear!" tomorrow night, All-University president Earl Seely will present a miniature replica of the Nittany Lion to the alumnus and former member of the Board of Trustees.

The show, which is now on tour, offers the same kind of music for which Waring and his Pennsylvanians have gained honors and awards since their first days in radio.

Fred Waring Jr., freshman in hotel administration at the University last year, directs the Pennsylvanians' version of the dixieland "Sadistic Six," a group originated on campus last year by Waring and Dan Grove. He also plays trombone in the Waring orchestra, plays the banjo in "Minstrel Show," sings with the glee club, and dances in the Hillbilly sequence.

About 50 performers appear in the show, half are vocalists, and half instrumentalists. The first half program is divided into four sequences, each dealing with a segment of American music. The opening patriotic sequence will present songs closely affiliated with the nation.

In a folk song scene, Waring will present mountain and country music. Frank Davis, baritone, will be featured as a traveling preacher in a religious sequence, and the first half of the show will end with the minstrel

The second half will be a musical variety, in which Waring will play the type of music he is most noted for. In this segment of the musical, he will feature individual soloists and parts of his band. The finale will be "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

After the performance in Recreation Hall, Waring will move his 11 tons of scenery, costuming and lights, and 70-song repertoire to New York City and the Ed Sullivan show. From there the troupe will travel to Grand Rapids, Mich.

General admission tickets for the show on both the floor and the balcony of Rec Hall are still available at the Rec Hall ticket office or the Hetzel Union desk. The price is $1.10.

A few single reserved seats at $2.20 are still available at the ticket office.

Class Board Discusses Opinion Poll

Student opinion came under discussion at the Junior Class Advisory Board meeting last night when the board voted to conduct a poll of student opinion in the Junior class.

The poll was voted on as an amendment to an original motion to suggest to the next junior advisory board a concrete means of finding a way to bring suggestions from class members to the board.

It was decided that the poll would be conducted by advisory board members and would consist of three questions asking the junior class member if he would come to a junior class party, if he would be interested in working with foreign students, and would he come to an open meeting of the Junior Class Advisory Board.

A planning committee for the poll was set up to decide on the number of people to be interviewed, where they would come from and how the poll could be set up.

Susan Conklin, junior in arts and letters from Chevy Chase, Md., was appointed chairman of the committee. Other committee members are Jack Abele, Suzanne Scholl, Russell McNamee, Janet Roderick, Patricia Jones, Anne Caton, Mary Talarico, DeLores Keminsky, Susan Hill, Robert Sparado and Robert Krakoff.

Discussions arose over a method to bring foreign students closer to class members and activities. Robert Bahrenberg, junior class president, said he would ask a member of the International Club to speak to the advisory board at its next meeting.

A committee to work on the problem of foreign student integration was set up of which Daniel Watanabe, junior in bacteriology from Philadelphia, is chairman.

Other members appointed to the committee are Marjorie Blank, Ada Liggett, Susan Conklin, Peggy Leas, Susan Brainard, and Suzanne Loux.

Drawings to Be Held For Livestock Show

The drawings of livestock for "The Little Internationals" will be held at 7:30 p.m. March 1 in 109 Agriculture.

"The Little Internationals" is the annual livestock show sponsored by the Block and Bridle Club. The drawing is open to the public.

Triangle Completes Purchase of Station

The purchase of WFBG-TV, Altoona, was completed this week by Triangle Publications, Inc., of Philadelphia.

The University's Board of Trustees will decide what role the University will play in a new program arrangement planned for the station. The question may be decided at the board's executive committee meeting March 23.

However, among the changes contemplated is a series of programs scheduled to originate from the University.

One of these may be a "home and farm life" series, probably running Monday through Saturday from 12:30 to 1 p.m., according to Roger W. Clipp, general manager of the radio-television division of Triangle. Those presenting the series would call on the various colleges of the University to supplement the programs with presentations of their own.

Clipp said another campus production would be a weekly University chapel service to be broadcast simultaneously on both WFBF radio and WFBG-TV from 11 a.m. to noon Sundays.

Since these programs as well as other original programs from the University are still in the planning stage, inauguration dates for the campus telecasts have not been decided. If approved by the Board of Trustees, the programs may go into effect at the beginning of the fall semester.

Although a number of spot news television films have been taken at the University, the only live broadcasts were the two CBS football games last fall.

Commenting on this proposed agreement with the University, Clipp said:

"We view this as a far-reaching step in the development of educational television and we are gratified by the enthusiastic cooperation of Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower and his staff."

Triangle indicated it planned no sweeping changes in policy or WFBG personnel, but the community service and news programs will be expanded.

Contemporary Art, Japanese Prints, Shown at HUB

Pictures by contemporary artists and some Japanese prints are on display in the Hetzel Union Building this month.

The works by the contemporary artists were selected from a group of 200, a gift to the University in honor of the late Warren B. Mack, professor of horticulture. Mr. Mack died four years ago.

They are exhibited on the display screens facing the front court. The Japanese prints, which are from the collection of Andrew K. Grugan of Lock Haven, are on display in the art gallery. Grugan recently obtained the prints while in Japan.

The prints are a rarity, since most Japanese prints were made in the 18th and 19th centuries, according to Francis E. Hyslop Jr., associate professor of fine arts.

$32 Fines Levied By Traffic Court

Eight student traffic violators were fined a total of $32 Monday by Traffic Court.

Of the other five students to appear before the court, four were dismissed and one had his fine suspended.

The six students who failed to report lose their right to appeal their cases before the court and will be fined.

Home Economics Club Home Ec Club's clothing interest group will meet at 7:30 tonight in 117 Home Economics.

NSA Unit Applications Available

Students interested in working on National Student Association committees may get applications today and tomorrow at the Hetzel Union desk.

Applications must be in by 5 p.m. tomorrow at the HUB desk. Students will receive a post card telling them the time and the place for their interview.

Cabinet Personnel Interviewing Committee will interview applicants Tuesday night.

A student must have a 2.0 All-University average to be eligible.

The four committees and the secretariat will take members from the applicants. The committees are Campus Affairs, Special Arrangements, Regional and National Affairs, and International Affairs. Applicants may state a preference for one of the committees or the secretariat on their application blank.

The Regional and National Affairs committee will handle all NSA material on those levels. The International Affairs committee will work more with world problems and NSA work in this field. Political science majors might have particular interest in this phase of NSA according to James Musser, NSA Coordinator.

The Campus Affairs committee will handle NSA work on student government and student activities as well as many other things. The Special Arrangements committee will make preparations for conventions, seminars, and convocations.

Musser said typists will be needed for the secretariat which will handle all incoming and outgoing mail.

Books and Money Can Be Claimed

Students can still claim unsold books and money from books sold through the Used Book Agency today and tomorrow from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the television room located on the ground floor of the Hetzel Union Building.

Business has been good at the exchange this week, but there are still unclaimed books and money to return, John Knaff, manager of the agency, said.

Correction

The Frosh Hop will be held from 9 p.m. to midnight Saturday in the Hetzel Union ballroom and not Friday as was erroneously reported in Tuesday's Daily Collegian.

Counseling Service to Be Offered

The new counseling service for high school seniors and University freshmen, which will be offered for the first time in April, is designed to eliminate the transfer of upperclass students to curriculums for which they are better suited.

Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, who as director of the Student Advisory Service will direct the program, said that students often enroll in a curriculum not compatible with their interests, personality traits, or academic abilities.

Lose Interest in Studying

"Consequently," he continued, "they become dissatisfied with their choice, lose interest in studying, and fail to make passing grades."

C. O. Williams, dean of admissions, said the service will help new students with problems before they arrive on the campus, rather than after they have completed a major part of their freshman year.

For the convenience of the high school students, the tests will be offered at the University's 11 centers and on campus.

To Include Interest Tests The program, which will require a full day, will include interest tests designed to indicate whether the field of study the student has chosen is one in which he will have an enduring interest.

The applicant will also be given ability tests to determine whether he should plan for a four-year program, a two-year program, or a field that would include graduate work.

To Indicate Extra Help

The tests will indicate whether the student will need extra help in mathematics, English, and reading before he matriculates in the regular college program. It will determine those students whose skills in English will qualify them for exemption from the regular first semester English course.

Following the completion of the tests, the student and his parents will be asked to come to the campus to discuss the results of the tests with a professionally trained counselor. They also will have a chance to meet with faculty members and advisers in the college or department in which the student plans to enroll.

Dean's Office Gives Approval Of Probation

A Tribunal recommendation of office probation for a senior in arts and letters from Drexel Hill was approved yesterday by the dean of men's office.

The student was placed on office probation for giving a false town address in an attempt to get a permit for parking area 11.

He told Tribunal he had intended to move out of his fraternity house at the beginning of the Fall semester. At the time of registration he hadn't moved but wanted to give some address to get the permit.

He gave his address as 229 E. Irvin Avenue, where an alumnus of his house lives. He didn't tell the alumnus he had used his address, the student said.

He told Tribunal he lived at the fraternity house during the entire fall semester.

The student's fraternity house is inside the designated town area where parking permits are not given to students.

The Irvin Avenue address is outside the designated town area. On the basis of this address, Campus Patrol issued a permit to the student.

Soph Tryouts Set for March

Sophomores interested in trying out for the sophomore class talent show should sign up at the Hetzel Union desk before March 1.

Auditions will be held March 4 in the HUB assembly room and cash prizes will be awarded to the three top winners.

The talent show will be held during intermission of the sophomore class dance, March 10, in the HUB ballroom. Tickets for the dance are free and will be available at the HUB desk beginning March 1.

Music for the dance will be provided by the Tri-Tones. Dress is informal.
