

AIM Board to Discuss Snack Bar Proposal

The Association of Independent Men's Board of Governors will be asked to voice its approval tonight of a recommendation by Nittany Council that a Snack Bar be opened at the skating rink behind the Nittany-Pollock area.

AIM secretary Leonard Richards will make the recommendation as a part of the executive committee report at tonight's AIM meeting, 7 p.m. in the student government room of the Hetzel Union building.

Crossley Asks Appropriation from Council

An appropriation was requested for W3YA, student operated radio station, and three students were nominated for president of the Engineering Student Council last night.

Gilbert L. Crossley, assistant professor of electrical engineering, asked the council on behalf of the station, for as large a sum as the council saw fit to donate. The council, which gave $200 to W3YA last year, will discuss the allowance on March 13.

Crossley, under whose license the station operates, said that council appropriations are essentially the station's only income. The station is associated with the department of electrical engineering. The Engineering Council was the only one Crossley approached last year, but he said he plans to go to the other councils this year.

"I think the University is getting a lot of excellent publicity out of W3YA," Crossley told the council. He said the station was the official contact for Task Force 43 in Antarctica. It also represented the Army in the second Byrd expedition and the Kon Tiki raft attempt.

Edward Klevans, junior in electrical engineering from Roaring Springs, Herbert Knappenberger, junior in industrial engineering from West Leepport, and Donald Patterson, junior in aeronautics from New Castle, were nominated for council president. Further nominations and election will take place at the next meeting which was moved up to March 6.

Students May Apply For NSA Committees

Students may apply any day this week for the four National Student Association committees. Applications are available at the Hetzel Union desk from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Applications must be in by 5 p.m. Friday. The four committees are campus affairs, special arrangements, international and national affairs, and regional affairs. Interviews will also be held for the NSA secretariat.

Cabinet Personnel Interviewing Committee will interview all applicants.

Cabinet Rec Committee

The All-University Cabinet Committee on Sunday Night Recreation will meet at 7 tonight in 213 Hetzel Union.

The board will be asked to give its final approval to an appropriation of $138 for the purchase of a ditto machine from All-University Cabinet.

A new chairman will be appointed to the committee investigating the possibility of a community living arrangement at the University in future years. Ned Taylor, former chairman, has resigned.

Alpha Firemen Continue Check

The Alpha Fire Department hopes to continue its borough-wide fire hazard check this week. According to chief Thomas Sauers, the firemen made no further progress Saturday in their inspection. Sauers said that the volunteer teams have completed a check of the State College business area, except for one or two establishments.

Last week the firemen completed a check of six fraternities located on campus and reported no major hazards.

Following inspection of fraternities, the firemen will inspect private homes and rooming houses.

Collegian Staff to Meet

The sophomore board of the Daily Collegian circulation staff will meet at 6:30 tonight in the Collegian office.

Chess Club to Meet Tonight

The Penn State Chess Club will meet at 7 tonight in 7 Sparks.

3 Daily Papers To Be Available At HUB Desk

Editorial on page four
Two copies of the Philadelphia Inquirer, The Pittsburgh Press, and The New York Times will be available for student use at the Hetzel Union desk beginning Monday.

The newspapers will not be sold because students who buy the papers often leave them in the lounges which makes the building cluttered, according to George L. Donovan, director of associated student activities.

In order to obtain the newspapers, students must leave their matriculation cards at the desk while reading the papers.

Book Store Survey Aired By Ag Council

The Agriculture Student Council last night heard a report by a committee established to inquire into the possibilities of setting up a campus book store.

Irving Buck, committee chairman, stated that, according to a survey, the average student spends approximately $24 a semester on books. He emphasized that the survey results are not complete and have not been fully tabulated.

Student council officers will be elected March 13. Nominations may be made at this meeting.

Nominees for president are, Norman Schue and David Allison; vice president, Ronald Henderson and William Gericke; secretary, Russell Beatty and Duane Tobias; and treasurer, Robert Williams and Kenneth Sacks.

Votes from alternates will not be counted in the council elections, it was announced. The constitution was amended to allow the date for elections to be set by the Elections Committee, with council's approval.

A report on the student recruitment committee, established to investigate ways of increasing the enrollment in the college of agriculture, was heard.

The council voted to hold an "Ag hill softball league."

HEc Professor Succumbs at 71

Mabel C. McDowell, professor emerita of clothing extension for 27 years, died early yesterday at her home, 234 W. Ridge avenue. She was 71.

A charter member of the American Home Economics Association, Miss McDowell attended Michigan University for her first two years of college. Between her sophomore and junior years, she taught a three-month short course in home economics at the University.

She later received her B.S. degree from the University and her M.A. from Teachers College, Columbia University.

She retired from the University in 1949.

FCC Passes Rule On Transponders

Under a regulation passed this month by the Federal Communications Commission, unlicensed devices which radiate electricity—such as station WDFM's five transponders—may not be effective for more than 75 feet.

This seems to explain why students have difficulty picking up the station's AM signal in the dormitories. Also, two of the transponders, which are devices to change the FM signal to AM, are inoperative.

These two are in Atherton and McElwain dormitories, according to James Raleigh, station engineer.

The FCC's new rule permits the maximum radiating range of 75 feet for unlicensed devices. Such a range would include the dormitories on campus but would permit the use of only a weak beam.

Has FM License Only
Student operated WDFM is licensed by the FCC as an FM station but not AM.

Raleigh said the problem the station faces is that the transponders radiate into the airwaves and these go to other places besides dormitories.

Radio waves cannot be piped into a particular building as is electricity or steam, he said. The only thing to do is decrease the signal radiating from the transponders.

Why doesn't the station request a license to operate on the AM band? Raleigh says there are several disadvantages to this.

Long Broadcast Hours
As an AM station, WDFM would be required to operate, under FCC rules, at least two-thirds of the daylight hours. Students would be in class most of this time, as would the radio operators, Raleigh said.

Another factor against an AM license is that the AM band is crowded with commercial stations and many more are waiting to be designated a frequency, he said.

The three areas which have working transponders are McAllister, Women's Building, and West Dorms.

Raleigh said he is making plans to erect another on Grange sometime this spring.

He also said the inoperative transponder are being repaired.

Livestock Drawing For Annual Show To Be Tomorrow

Drawing for livestock to be shown at the Little International Livestock Exhibition will be held at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in 109 Armsby.

The 39th annual exhibition, sponsored by the Block and Bridle Club, will take place April 28.

The animal husbandry department will have livestock available for any student interested in participating in the exposition. Experience is not necessary to enter the competition, according to John Sink, manager of the show.

Drawings are made for sheep, beef cattle, swine, and horses. From the time of the drawing to the exhibition, each competitor trains and grooms his animal for the show.

Chaplain to Address Air Force Workshop

Chaplain Major Eugene S. Stump will speak on "The Religious Potentials in Military Life" at the "Blue Yonder Workshop" meeting at 7 tonight in 203 Willard.

Major Stump will show films and lead a discussion following his talk. The workshop is a course sponsored by Angel Flight for future air force wives and interested women.

TIM Screens Town Students For Committees

Town Independent Men committee appointment applicants are being interviewed in 203-G Hetzel Union, according to Robert Cole, TIM president.

A screening committee of Cole, William Norman, and Lash Howes is conducting the interviews. Appointments to social, projects, recreation, and publicity committees are open.

Any town student with a 2.0 All-University average may apply but will be appointed only after attending one meeting of TIM. No previous experience is necessary, Cole said.

The purpose of the interviews, Cole said, is to provide town students an opportunity to take part in TIM and to provide a basis for selection of officers, representatives, and committee chairmen in the April elections of TIM.

The opportunity exists, Cole said, for town students who desire to take part in TIM, to do so by showing an active interest in the organization.

Pitt Soc Dean To Give Talk

Wilbur I. Newstetter, dean of the school of social work, University of Pittsburgh, will speak on "Is Social Work for You?" at the Sociology club at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 213 Hetzel Union.

Miss Jean Reynolds, assistant professor of group work at the University of Pittsburgh, will also speak briefly.

The meeting is open to the public.

Dean Newstetter will hold interviews with students wishing to enter the University of Pittsburgh's graduate school in social work. The interviews will take place tomorrow afternoon and Friday morning.
