

Finch to Present Last Lecture On 'Praise of Prometheus' Indian Music Group To Present Concert

Talk Scheduled For Tonight In 112 Buckhout

Dr. Henry A. Finch, associate professor of philosophy, will speak on "In Praise of Prometheus" at 7:30 tonight in 112 Buckhout Laboratory.

Dr. Finch will be the last speaker in the "Last Lecture Series" sponsored by Mortar Board, senior women's hat society. The lecture will be open to the public.

Prometheus was a hero in Greek mythology and literature who suffered because he stole fire from the gods and discovered many inventions to help man, according to Dr. Finch.

Attended Penn

Dr. Finch is a native of Patterson, N.J., and received his B.A. and Ph.D. degrees at the University of Pennsylvania.

While at the University of Pennsylvania he was honored with a Harrison Fellowship in philosophy. He is a member of the American Philosophical Association and American Association for the Advancement of Science.

In 1945 he came to the University. Previous to that time he taught at the University of Chicago.

Culture Is Series' Purpose

The purpose of the series is to enlarge the cultural opportunities available to students at the University, members of the society said.

Dr. Finch will be introduced by Carolyn Cunningham, president of the Women's Student Government Association and a member of the society.

DR. CHARLES E. LONG, head of the department of education, is presented with a brief case at the education student council coffee hour yesterday. Making the presentation is Judy Hance, junior in education from Glenside. Dr. Long left yesterday for a three month tour of South American schools. He is being sent as a consultant for the International Education Exchange Service.

81 Hat Society Cards Received

Eighty-one preference cards for men's hat societies have been received at the Hetzel Union desk.

The cards have been available since March 1, when the new tapping system for hat society membership began.

Under the new system, men fill out cards listing their name, campus address, extra-curricular activities, All-University average, and preference of society, if any.

The cards are filed in a continuous method regardless of whether the applicant is tapped or not. If he is not tapped in his junior year, the card is placed in the senior file making him eligible for a senior society the following fall.

This system was presented by Skull and Bones, senior society, to replace a system which required no honor since applicants had to request membership.

AIEE to Elect Officers

The American Institute of Industrial Engineers will meet at 7 tonight at Triangle fraternity to elect officers.

A student-faculty mixer will follow the meeting.

HiFi Phonograph Awarded to Coed In Filter Contest

A University coed won a high fidelity phonograph Thursday for submitting one of 50 top names for a new cigarette filter in a contest sponsored by the makers of Viceroy cigarettes.

Geraldine D'Alio, senior in home economics from Schuylkill, and Emil Haas, junior in journalism from Pottsville, submitted about 12 entries—half in Miss D'Alio's name and half in Haas' name.

Which one of Miss D'Alio's names won isn't known.

To enter the contest two pictures of the new filter had to be cut out of the cigarette pack for each name submitted. Haas said neither he nor Miss D'Alio smoke Viceroy cigarettes.

Eng Nominations Due

The deadline for self-nomination ballots for Engineering Student Council is extended until 5 tomorrow.

Engineering students except those in first, seventh or eighth semester are eligible. Ballots are available on departmental bulletin boards.

Dances, vocal and instrumental music of India will be presented at two programs tomorrow afternoon and evening by the India Centenary Choir.

The group will appear at 4 p.m. in Schwab Auditorium and at 8:15 p.m. at the Methodist church, E. College avenue.

The programs, open to the public at no charge, are presented as a community service under the sponsorship of about 10 area groups.

The choir is directed by Rev. Victor Sherring, who was educated in the United States. It is composed of 18 men and women of the Methodist church of India and Pakistan and is on a goodwill tour marking the 100th anniversary of the Methodist church in Southern Asia.

14 Instruments

The choir will bring drums and harmonium, the traditional Indian instruments of accompaniment, and also a dozen other instruments. The group, all graduates of universities and colleges, will also present typical dances of India.

The choir, which arrived in New York March 1, is on a concert tour of church and civic groups throughout the states, including the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist church in Minneapolis.

Product of 100 Years

"In a very real sense they are a product of a century of service Methodists have given to India, a milestone reached in October 1956," explained the Rev. Richard W. Nutt, of the Methodist church and a member of the committee in charge of arrangements.

He said that typical of young India today, the choir members bring a variety of interests and talent, from football to classical dance, from business administration and public relations to home economics, a nursery education and political science.

strongly react to the quickly paced events, such as when Miss Risler reveals her infatuation for him, he hardly reacts beyond a few facial quirks and small arm movements. One would like to see him picture the disgust he must be feeling instead of letting the audience practically imagine what he feels.

This seems to be a common fault of the rest of the cast—body and facial movements in the ultra-norm, as befits this type of play, seem lacking much of the time. This fault must be attributed to the director, Miss Risler, who seemed to concentrate so much upon her part, she couldn't devote too much time to the others in the cast.

David Thompson has a powerful voice and as Theremenes, the friend and servant of Taylor, comes out third in lending conviction to his part. Preceding him are Miss Risler and Gore. His big scene, which comes off very well, is when he excitingly describes the death of Taylor.
