

Ike Supports Nixon As Running Mate; Defies Wedging Try

WASHINGTON, March 14 (AP)—President Dwight D. Eisenhower declared today Vice President Richard M. Nixon is like a brother to him and: "I would be happy to be on any political ticket in which I was a candidate with him."

This seemed mighty close to an endorsement of Nixon as Eisenhower's running mate. It left the door open, however, for Nixon—already invited by the President to chart his own political future—to bow out if Nixon thought it politically advisable.

Defies Wedging Attempt

Eisenhower spoke out vehemently in favor of Nixon—and defied anyone to try driving a wedge between them—at a news conference in which he also:

1. Pledged for moderation on both sides in the dispute over race integration in Southern schools. He said the country would get to "a very bad spot" if there were any move toward "nullification" of the Supreme Court's antisegregation ruling.

Eisenhower said he had no thought of using force but that the Supreme Court had ordered gradual progress and "we are simply going to uphold the Constitution of the United States, see that the progress made as ordered by them is carried out."

Speaks on Cyprus Riots

2. Pledged this country will do anything "reasonable and practicable" to help solve the Cyprus dispute. But he said "the solution is going to have to be reached by the persons most greatly concerned"—Britain and Greece.

He walked without an umbrella through a heavy rain across the street from the White House to this news conference—which took place, by coincidence, on the 43rd anniversary of the day President Wilson first met under similar circumstances with newsmen and thereby established the news conference tradition.

Shows He Was Irked

Eisenhower made no attempt to hide that he was irked by some of the interpretations that have been placed on his recent statements regarding Nixon.

He snapped to alertness when a reporter asked how he interpreted the remarkably large write-in vote for Nixon in yesterday's New Hampshire primary.

"Apparently," said the President, there are "lots of people in New Hampshire that agree with what I have told you about Dick Nixon."

Asians Ask University For Books

The University Committee on International Understanding has received a request from the Asia Foundation to support its "Books for Asian Students" program. Student councils have been asked to consider donating unused scientific and technical books and periodicals.

The books will be sent to colleges and libraries throughout Asia where there is a critical need for them. Donations should be made by March 28 so that the books may reach their destination this year.

Books may be brought to the following places: 211 Main Engineering, 4 Mineral Science, 101 Osmond, or to a box in the main lobby of Osmond.

Anyone interested in further information may contact Professor Amos J. Shaler, Professor Gerald K. Gillan, Professor David W. Russell, Professor Palmer C. Weaver, Professor Richard C. Maloney, Assistant Professor Werner F. Striedieck, Assistant Professor Vernon Aspaturian, Professor Franklin B. Krauss, Lawrence E. Dennis, University provost; H. H. Pyle, in charge of Informal Instruction Division; Assistant Professor Elton Atwater, Assistant Professor Vaclav Mares, Professor Hazel M. Hatcher, Assistant Professor Eugene Wettstone, Frank Anthony, instructor in agriculture education; or Helen H. Webb, instructor in physics.

Senate Passes Bill For Ag Subsidation

The state Senate unanimously approved a bill appropriating $50,000 to the College of Agriculture for research and study of the diseases of mushrooms and their effects on the mushroom industry Tuesday night.

The vote was 44 to 1. Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the college, said yesterday that the bill was introduced on behalf of the mushroom industry in the state and not the College of Agriculture. The House has not voted on the measure yet.

Colder Weather, Snow Predicted for Today

Partly cloudy, colder, and snow flurries with moderate northwestern winds is the forecast for today, according to the students in the department of meteorology.

The predicted high for today is 40 degrees while the low should be about 31. Yesterday there was .07 inches of precipitation and a high wind of 41 miles per hour. The maximum was 35 and the low was 24.

Lion Steering Committee

The Lion party steering committee will meet at 2 p.m. Sunday in 217 Willard. Members and election candidates are required to attend, according to Robert Spadaro, clique chairman.

Cabinet to Discuss Budget Allotments

All-University Cabinet, which only two weeks ago approved compensation for student leaders, will discuss tonight next year's operating budget, containing an appropriation of almost $2000 for compensation of next year's cabinet.

Philip Beard, chairman of the inter-class finance board, will present the proposed budget to Cabinet. Beard said that it will be more explicit than previous budgets to clear up the confusion that has arisen from time to time.

Several new categories will be set up under the new budget to provide operating funds for programs which previously drew funds from Cabinet's appropriation, Beard said.

The proposed budget for next year totals $11,280, approximately $700 more than the present budget. The expected income for the budget which is received through student fees, will amount to approximately $10,500, Beard said. The remaining deficit will be covered by the profits realized through the Junior and Senior class dances which usually net Cabinet an additional $1500, he said.

The major change in the proposed budget lies in Cabinet's own appropriation, which will be slashed from $2500 to $1000 for operating expenses. The $1500

Two-Party Man Is Sure Winner In Both Parties

A newcomer to campus politics found himself a man with two parties and appointed posts in both parties.

Marc Spector, sophomore in business administration from Philadelphia, who just wanted to work with a (one) party in the spring elections, found himself in a middle of a muddle with two parties.

Spector sought an appointed position from Robert Spadaro, Lion party clique chairman, and Spadaro promised him a job.

However, Spadaro was a little too slow for Spector, who thought he wasn't going to get the job.

So he turned to the Campus party, and got an appointed post from William Snyder, Campus party clique chairman.

Now with two parties, it looks like he'll have to choose between them.

Spector said Monday that he would accept the Campus party post.

Students Use HUB Papers

Approximately 12 to 24 students daily have been reading the New York Times, the Philadelphia Inquirer, and The Pittsburgh Post Gazette, available at the Hetzel Union desk since last Monday, according to a desk attendant.

The Philadelphia Inquirer has proven the most popular among undergraduate students while most of the graduate students have been borrowing The New York Times. The Pittsburgh Post Gazette was used for the first time Thursday.

In order to borrow the newspapers, students must leave their matriculation cards at the desk.

Loan Fund Supplies Answer to Problems

Students in need of funds to carry them through a semester may find the answer to their problems in the student loan fund.

Thousands of dollars of income made on the interest of over $320,000 in endowed or invested funds are available through the deans' offices to students sporting acceptable motives for needing money.

Fraction of Funds Available

Only a fraction of the $320,000 is available for loan use since the University only gives students money made on the interest produced each year on the main loan funds themselves.

Students, especially Korean veterans and seniors, are becoming increasingly more aware of the advantages offered by the loan funds. Over the eight months alone between July 1 of last year and March 1, 513 loans have been made. This is a little less than one-tenth of the 5608 loans made from July 1, 1921 to March 1.

In these past eight months, $56,698 have been loaned out, averaging $110.52 per student. But for the 35 years since the start of the program, $455,951 were placed on loan. This averages out to $74.49 a student.

Private Loan Fund

Veterans and seniors are able to obtain loans easier than other students. In fact, they may choose a loan from their own private loan fund on conditions likely to appeal to them more than those of any other fund.

This fund, the Bernard Kunkle fund, provides that veterans and seniors do not need written permission from a member of their families as other funds do.

Also, the rate of interest, two per cent, is lower than the usual six to seven per cent of other funds.

Need 2.0 Average

Only students with All-University averages of 2.0 or above may apply for a loan, thus providing some assurance to the University a student will not withdraw for academic reasons before the loan is repaid.

Usually loans are paid out on a two or three month basis but may be extended to as much as six months if either of the deans' offices think the situation warrants it.

Students may borrow from approximately 38 funds given to the University in the past 35 years. A loan request is referred to H. R. Kinley, administrative assistant in charge of loans and scholarships, who decides which of the funds is most applicable to a student.

Snack Bar OK Awaited By Council

Decision from the dean of men's office on whether or not a year-around snack bar for east area residents can be operated at the ice skating rink is expected this week.

George Mauler, Nittany Council president, told council Monday that he expects the decision by 4 p.m. Friday.

Approval by the dean of men's office must be received before any action can be taken.

The council voted to purchase a bluebook file with Pollock Council on the condition that its share does not exceed $45.

Pollock Council will vote on this proposal tonight.

Mauler told members that no dormitory meeting may be called for the purpose of listening to candidates and platforms of either campus political party.

Dormitory residents must be informed that party candidates will be campaigning before a meeting may be called, Mauler said.

Richard Lawless, sophomore in arts and letters from Havertown, suggested that council consider the planting of trees on the Jordan Fertility Plot side of Pollock road to act as windbreakers during the winter season.

Lawless said that the trees would extend from the one end of the plot to the other and would cost approximately $35.

Final vote was tabled on this suggestion in order that council may check into the Administration's opinion on the plan.

WSGA Holds Final Elections

Final elections for Women's Student Government Association officers, senators, May Day Queen, and Maid of Honor will be held from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. today in women's dormitories.

Runners-up for May Queen and Maid of Honor will serve as senior and freshman attendants. Junior and sophomore attendants were elected Tuesday, but names will not be released until results of all positions are known.

The names of Barbara Kinnier, sophomore in education from Danboro, and Susanne Smith, sophomore in home economics from Bellefonte, candidates for WSGA vice president, and Suzanne Aiken, sophomore in home economics from Edgewood, candidates for WSGA junior senator, were omitted from the list of WSGA candidates in yesterday's Daily Collegian.

Women in Woman's Building, Grange, and town women will vote in McAllister Hall.

All women may vote for May Queen, Maid of Honor, and WSGA officers.

Home Art Group to Meet

The Home Art Interest Group will meet at 7 tonight in 220 Home Economics.

Interested persons may attend.
