

TV Open House Set for Tuesday

Students will be able to see themselves on television, operate cameras, and view the backstage functions of the closed-circuit television system at the TV Open House at 7 p.m. Tuesday in 10 Sparks.

Joseph W. Alinsky, chief engineer of Dage Television Division of Thompson Products, Inc., will present a lecture-demonstration on "Application Problems in Industrial Television."

New Service For Counseling To Be Outlined

The new pre-registration testing and counseling service, which will start next month, will be outlined at the meeting of the American Association of University Professors at 7:30 tonight, in 316 Sparks.

Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, professor of psychology and director of the Student Advisory Service who head the program, will be the speaker.

The testing and counseling service will be made available to all high school graduates granted admission to the University. If they elect to utilize the program, they will take a series of tests on the main campus or at one of the 11 Penn State centers.

The student will then come to the campus for a discussion of the results of the tests with a professionally-trained counselor.

The meeting is open to the public.

Nine Register For 'Ugly Man'

Nine entrants were registered in the Ugly Man contest at the Hetzel Union desk as of yesterday. Registration will continue through Thursday.

The nine candidates entered in the contest to be held April 17 to 19 are Ronald Griffith, Alpha Chi Rho; Sheldon Chaiken, Beta Sigma Rho; Walter Cook, Phi Kappa Sigma; William Straub, Theta Xi; Joseph Hayes, Phi Kappa Psi; Karl Rush, Delta Theta Sigma; George Zafis, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Stanford Lieberman, Zeta Beta Tau; and Norman Miller, Pi Kappa Alpha.

Only graduating seniors may enter the contest. Each sponsoring organization registering a candidate must pay a $1 fee.

New Sorority May Form At University

Joanne Caruso, Panhellenic Council president, told council members last night that members of Sigma Kappa sorority on campus are trying to organize a chapter at the University.

They have already received permission from the Senate Committee on Student Affairs, she said. The next step is approval by Panhel. Miss Caruso asked each sorority to take the matter before its chapter. If approval is given the members must then get the approval of the national Sigma Kappa chapter.

Five Now on Campus
Mrs. R. Mae Shultz, adviser to Panhel, said that there are presently two members and three pledges of Sigma Kappa on campus.

She also quoted Pearl O. Weston, dean of women, as saying that there is room for two more sororities at the University because of increased enrollment and additional dormitory facilities which will provide for 24 suites. There are now 22 sororities on campus.

If the new sorority is accepted it will be given a year's probation on campus. Mrs. Shultz said that if approval is given for the group to organize it will be installed when the new dorms are completed in 1957.

May Take Action
Carolyn Cunningham, former Women's Student Government Association president, spoke about the necking problem in the dormitory lounges. She said that if some of the "indiscriminate" necking isn't ended WSGA may be forced to take action.

She expressed hope that this would not be necessary and said that she feels it would be wrong to legislate against morals.

The TV Open House will be sponsored by Penn State Electrical Engineering Society and the Instructional Research Program, which owns and operates the television program.

Urlick Gives Theme For Freedom Week

The theme for Academic Freedom Week, April 9 to 16, will be "Toward a Basic Definition of Academic Freedom."

Ronald Urlick, National Student Association chairman of regional and national affairs, announced the theme as he presented an outline for Academic Freedom Week activities to the NSA Committee Monday night.

Urlick said he plans to have qualified faculty members go into the living units Monday and Tuesday nights of that week to lead discussions on academic freedom.

A short speech, which will follow the theme for the week, is planned for Thursday night, April 12, according to Urlick.

Seminars Planned
Donna Cowder, NSA international affairs chairman, presented a report including plans for International Student Relations Seminars.

Miss Cowder said present plans include three seminars which will be held at week intervals right after Easter vacation.

Topics which Miss Cowder suggested for the three seminars are "A General Outline of Current Events of United States Policy," "The Relationship of United States Students to Other Students," and "Student Government Relations to the Community and NSA."

Atwater to Aid
Dr. Elton Atwater, head of the department of political science, will aid in the seminar program, according to Miss Cowder.

Lawrence McCabe and Mary Matzko, the two students who represented the University at the recent regional international relations seminar.

Coed Scholarship Deadline Extended

The application deadline for the Delta Delta Delta sorority scholarship is today.

This scholarship for an indefinite sum of money is offered to a regularly matriculated woman student of the University. The award is decided on the basis of need, scholarship, and character. Three letters of recommendation are needed for each application.

Application blanks are available in the dean of women's office, 105 Old Main.

WSGA Senate Will Meet

Members of both the new and old Women's Student Government Association Senate will meet 6:30 tonight in 218 Hetzel Union.
