

IFC - Panhel Weekend Opens

Les Elgart To Play At Ball Tonight

Les Elgart and his orchestra, with the well-known 'Sophisticated Swing', will play from 9 to 1 tonight at the semi-formal IFC-Panhel Ball in Recreation Hall.

The Ball is the first event of the spring IFC-Panhel weekend, and according to the weather report, the traditional big weekend snow may well threaten the campus.

Late Permissions

Freshman women will receive 12 and 1 o'clock permissions which may be taken either Friday or Saturday night.

Upperclass women have a 2 o'clock tonight and a 1 o'clock tomorrow night.

Tickets are still available at the Hetzel Union desk and also tonight at the door. The price is $5 per couple.

Music to Be Broadcast

Station WDFM will remain on the air an hour and half longer to broadcast Elgart and his music from 10:30 to midnight. The second half of the IFC-Panhel Ball will be broadcast directly from Rec Hall.

The show is being presented in response to requests made by many fraternities that plan to listen to the dance music.

John Russell is chairman of the IFC-Panhel Ball committee. Other members are Barbara Nicholls, David Adam, Susan Brainerd, Jack Gruber, and Marjorie Hopp. The committee has recommended that no corsages or flowers be worn.

Cinderella Ballroom Theme

"Cinderella Ballroom" is the theme of the ball, and will be carried out in the decorations and dance programs.

Dark blue fabric will be draped overhead forming a ceiling. The sides will be covered with white drapes, and large chandeliers will hang from the ceiling.

On each side of the dance floor will be columns, illuminated inside by colored lights. Sidewall chandeliers will also be placed between the columns.

The "Varsity Quartet," of the Men's Glee Club, will sing at 10:30 during intermission.

Pollock Council Moves to Ratify New Constitution

Pollock Council amended its new constitution again Wednesday night in an effort to get it ratified.

The amendment provides that the constitution be ratified upon approval of three-fourths of the Pollock dormitory units.

The council has been unable to get the constitution ratified thus far because of the lack of interest shown by students.

Many of the units have not even been able to muster a vote on the constitution, and before the latest amendment all units had to vote on it.

In other business, Joseph Tomei, sophomore in electrical engineering from McIntyre, was appointed vice president of the council.

Robert Valastiak, junior in mechanical engineering from Bear Lake, and Alton Kendall, freshman in electrical engineering from Reading, were elected delegates to the council by their dormitory units.

2 Racial Problems Cited at Discussion

Two major problems at the University—housing and barber shop service—resemble the situation at Tuscaloosa, Ala., Dr. Rustom Roy, associate professor of geochemistry, said last night.

Cabinet Asks --

b. To allow students to occupy seats in the section assigned to them on a first-come, first occupy basis.

2. Cabinet will take whatever steps it can to curb student misbehavior at Beaver Field.

Although McCoy submitted the two plans to Cabinet, he reserved the right to select whichever plan he deems most feasible. Douglas Moorhead, president of the Athletic Association, who presented the two plans to Cabinet, said the chances that the Athletic officials will revert back to the old seating arrangement is almost nil.

McCoy's first plan was the one suggested last fall but dropped after widespread student disapproval. It proposed that each student be given tickets for one reserved seat which he would occupy for every game.

The student could sit with his friends if they all got their tickets at the same time at registration. Moorhead explained that students would be allowed into Recreation Hall after they had registered to get their tickets in a group. Or, he continued, one person could get as many tickets as he had cards.

In answer to inquiries, Moorhead agreed that the big disadvantage to this would be that students would have to sit with the same persons throughout the season.

McCoy's second plan was the "compromise system" used last fall, whereby students would be given tickets in alphabetical order at registration. The chief complaint about this proposal was that upperclassmen who register late may get seats "on the 10-yard line."

Moorhead then told Cabinet members that the athletic officials said they may have to revert back to the first plan "to handle the crowds."

Myron Feinsilber, editor of The Daily Collegian, recommended that Cabinet propose the 1954 seating arrangement since it was offered the "choice between two equally undesirable plans." This statement was received with a round of applause.

Earl Seely, All-University president, tentatively set a meeting for Sunday night to discuss Cabinet's proposal with McCoy.

Carnival Forms Due After Recess

Spring Week carnival forms will be due at noon April 5 at the Hetzel Union desk.

Groups wishing to participate in the carnival should fill out application forms in detail, according to Richard Seng, chairman of Spring Week committee.

If one category receives too many applicants, the second choice will be used. Applications which are received first will be given priority, Seng said.

One of the regulations governing carnival activities requires each booth to have a fire extinguisher, Seng said.

Compensations Committee Instructed to Consider CPA

By AL KLIMCKE

The All-University Cabinet committee on compensations was instructed to review the possibility of granting compensations to members of Central Promotion Agency last night.

The action came after Cabinet approved for the second time the proposed budget of the Interclass Finance Board for 1956-57.

Athletic Association President Douglas Moorhead asked why no compensation was allotted for CPA in the report since, he said, CPA is a subsidiary group of Cabinet.

Feinsilber Disagrees

Myron Feinsilber, editor of The Daily Collegian, however, said CPA is no more a subsidiary of Cabinet than is campus radio station WDFM, or any other independent organization.

Director of Associated Student Affairs George L. Donovan supported Feinsilber on this point.

All-University President Earl Seely pointed out that CPA is self-sustaining, in that it picks its own chairman each year, rather than having him appointed by Cabinet.

Beard Requests Time

All-University secretary-treasurer Phillip Beard requested a week in which to investigate the situation and Interfraternity Council President Robert Bullock moved to have the committee on compensations do this.

In other business, 10 members of next year's Cabinet were installed by Tribunal Chairman Lynn Meyers.
