Dr. George B. Kistiskowsky, who opened the series Monday, will present the lecture. His topic will be "Reaction Rates."

Lectures are open to the public.

The first routine, Autumn, will be portrayed by coeds wearing red, yellow, and green leaves on their caps, hands, and feet, and swimming in wavy-like movements to depict autumn leaves.

Chinatown Atmosphere

Two Chinese couples—girls dressed in black suits and wearing roses in their hair, and boys sporting pigtailed with their black suits—set the costume for Chinatown Fantasy, an act of fast, choppy stunts, hybrid strokes, and syncopated crawls.

Sophistication enters the water in Tea Dance at the Savoy when three couples dressed in ruffled, colored hats and long-black gloves swim to the measures of Lisbon Antiqua.

The aquacade turns humans into tigers when eight coeds, dressed in clashing orange and black striped costumes, and emphasizing their five-foot tails in their movements, roar and plunge in the water to the music of Toy Tigers.

Central Park Denoted

Sixteen swimmers will take a stroll in the water with colored parasols and yellow ruffled-blue suits when they stroke to Central Park.

A trio of swimmers will depict the rivers of New York in a flowing style of movements for The Rivers act.

A Manhattan mambo on the deck will begin the Nightclub number. Six coeds, costumed in maroon and yellow suits with flowers on their arms, will swim to a starlike, syncopated touch on a mambo beat.

Sequences Give Effect
Sequin-covered feet and sequined hats produce sparkling effects under the water as they aim to give Impressions at the Museum, a fast moving, ballet-type routine.

Two swimmers produce a shadowy effect when they swim in a very close duet number, Streets at Night.

The finale is United Nations in which 16 coeds, dressed in blue and white, will join hands and feet to form an accordion across the pool, depicting the unity of the UN.

Tickets can be obtained from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today in the main office at White Hall.

William Evans, graduate student in theater arts from Pittsburgh, directed and produced the show as a part of his thesis. The scene above depicts an old man telling an old woman, the maid of Helen of Troy, of the fall of Troy.

Modern family minus electricity

What would you do without low-price electricity in your home? Well—you could use candles. And build fires. And substitute elbow-grease for all the jobs electricity does automatically. If you did, you would be reminded quickly—and forcefully—how much electricity does for so little cost.

Electricity is the biggest bargain in your family budget. What else gives you such value in comfort, health, ease and fun?

Keeping electricity high in usefulness, low in price is the main job of independent electric companies like this one.
