

Linksmen-Hoyas To Clash Today

By JOE CHEDDAR

The 6600-yard Colonial Golf Course in Washington, D.C., one of the toughest college golf courses in the East, is the scene of the meet between the Nittany Lion golf squad and the linksmen of Georgetown University at 1 p.m. today.

The golfers beat the Hoyas 7-0 on the same course last year.

The Lions put a 14-game win streak on the line in today's match against the always-tough Hoyas. The Nittanians also seek their 26th dual meet win in their last 27 starts. Not since midway through the season of 1954 have the Lion golfers lost a dual meet. And before that loss, to Colgate University, they had won 12 matches in succession.

The Georgetown squad will have the hungry desire to win that is usually reserved for a front runner in its mind when it faces the Lions today. It wants the win, and is well enough equipped to turn the trick. Four returning lettermen head the Hoya squad into today's action. They are experienced, competent golfers who can win if they get the breaks.

The four are Perky Cullinane, second in the Eastern championships last season, Owen Mandebille, Marion Vickerson, and Gene Howered. All played against the Lions in last year's match.

The Lion cast will include captain Jim Mayes, sophomore standout Pat Rielly, Gus Gerhart, Jim Ginsberg, Leo Kukkola, Johnny Boyanowski, and John Branish. All except Rielly and Branish were in the lineup for last year's tiff with the same club.

After today's match, the Lions complete their extra-long weekend by playing the University of Pennsylvania and Villanova University golf teams in a triangular meet tomorrow. The meet will be the first home engagement of the year for the Lions.

Stickmen Visit Penn

Penn State's twice-beaten lacrosse team makes its sixth straight appearance on foreign soil tomorrow when the University of Pennsylvania plays host to Coach Nick Thiel's stickmen of Philadelphia.

The Lion lacrosse men, who make their home debut next Saturday against Colgate, will be seeking their fifth victory of the current campaign and their second in a row over the Quakers.

Penn, after two successful seasons in 1953 and 1954, are in the process of rebuilding. Their coach, Bob Matthews, is in his second year at the helm of the lacrosse team and with only seven lettermen back from the 1955 squad, the Quaker coach is finding it hard to break into the win column.

In three starts thus far Penn has lost to Yale, the Philadelphia

Lacrosse Club, and Rutgers. Yale held the Quakers scoreless, while the Phillie Lacrosse Club let only one goal slip past its defense.

Missing from the Penn lineup this year is Ken Kirtz, the key offensive threat for the past two seasons.

Barbell Club Elects Givler, Three Others

Charles Givler was elected president of the Barbell Club Tuesday night.

Other newly-elected officers are George Boratta, vice president; John Mattern, treasurer; and Bill Crane, secretary.

Mullen First Lion Titlist

Phil Mullen, who achieved his distinction despite an artificial leg, represents the first rope climber ever to bring National Collegiate title honors to Penn State. The New Bloomfield sophomore turned the trick by climbing the 20-foot hemp in 3.5 seconds. This matched his best time of the year.
