

Debate Team Takes 2d Place in Tourney

The men's debate team took second place in the Eastern Forensic Debate Tournament last weekend with nine wins and three losses. Dartmouth College won the tournament.

The woman's debate team had a record of four wins and eight losses in the tournament and three wins and five losses at the Carnegie Institute of Technology Tartan Tournament, which was also held last weekend.

Varsity S Club To Raise Funds For Olympics

The Varsity S Club aided by the Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Kappa Gamma sororities will sell lollipops this week to raise money for the Olympic Fund.

The club hopes to raise $100 of the $1400 which coach Eugene Wettstone estimates would cover expenses for one contestant.

The lollipops will be sold at the Hetzel Union desk, in front of the Corner Room, and at the Mail bulletin board.

Paul Roberts, junior in hotel administration from Douglaston, N.Y., was elected president of the club.

The four officers that will assist him are Stamatis Flamporis, junior in business administration from Reading, vice president; Herbert Hollowell, junior in physical education from Keyport, N.J., recording secretary; Charles Fegley, junior in mechanical engineering from Laverock, corresponding secretary; and Harold Walz, senior in mechanical engineering from Jenkintown, treasurer.

Roberts is a member of the cross country and Varsity track teams, Flamporis and Walz are on the soccer team. Hollowell is a member of the varsity track squad, and Fegley is on the gymnastic squad.

Head-on Collision Kills Son, Mother Of English Prof

The seven-year-old son and mother of Mrs. Sylvia H. Hemstead, instructor in English composition, were killed in a two-car collision Friday near Selingsgrove.

Killed instantly in the head on collision was Mrs. Edna M. Scholl, 55. The youngster, Raymond, died a few hours later in the Sunbury Hospital, according to the Associated Press.

The driver of the other car, Carl Davis of St. Albans, W. Va., was critically injured and admitted to Sunbury Hospital.

A spokesman in the English composition department said Mrs. Scholl was taking her grandson home for the weekend when the accident occurred.

Blue Band Returns Tonight After Tour

The Concert Blue Band will return to the campus tonight after a tour of the state presenting music programs recently given at the University.

The 92-piece band, under the direction of James W. Dunlop, associate professor of music education, played five concerts yesterday and today at Knox, Sandy Lake, Jamestown, Farrell, and Slippery Rock State Teachers College.

The Men's Glee Club also began a tour yesterday, which will extend to Thursday. The 79 voices, directed by Frank Gullo, associate professor of music, will appear in McKeesport, Johnstown and York.

'Indian Giver' Wanders Off With His Car

Round and round we go, who has the car? Nobody knows.

That's the situation Arthur Stark, junior in pre-law from Philadelphia, found himself in last night when a car he had parked on the roadway between Thompson Hall and Sparks at 7 last night was missing when he came back at 8:30.

Stark had taken a fraternity brother, Stephen Simon, junior in business administration from Rydal, to the bus station. The car was Simon's.

When Stark found the car missing, he notified the Campus Patrol and his fraternity. Unknown to Stark, Simon had missed the bus, come up to campus, and took his car using a duplicate set of keys.

Meanwhile, Stark was in the Campus Patrol office looking through files to find the license number to give to state police.

One of his fraternity brothers saved the day. He called the Campus Patrol office and told Stark what had happened.

Yesterday was Stark's birthday. His present? A few grey hairs.

Thesis Production To Open Tonight In Little Theater

"Uncle Vanya," thesis production of Newell Stark, graduate student in theater arts from State College, will open at 8 tonight in the Little Theater in the basement of Old Main. It will also run tomorrow and Thursday nights.

Tickets for the show are available in the Green Room in Schwab Auditorium. Admission is free.

One of the highlights of the evening will be Robert D. Reifsnieder, associate professor of theater arts, playing the part of the professor in the play.

The story is based on the Russian landowner's class at the turn of the 19th century. The undercurrent of the play is concerned with the disillusionment of the characters who fail to measure up to their own standards.

The development of the characters is strengthened by the Russian way of expressing freely one's thoughts and emotions. The play centers around the action and character development more than around the story plot.

Choir Chooses Fought as Head

Donald Fought, junior in Aeronautical Engineering from Mechanicsburg, has been elected president of Chapel Choir. The election was announced at the annual Chapel Choir banquet April 6th.

Other officers are first vice president, Frank Podlieszek, junior in music education from Bethlehem; second vice president, Carolyn Stehly, junior in arts and letters from Bethlehem; secretary, Anne Limberger, junior in music education from West Chester; historian, Beau Barnes, sophomore in home economics from Arlington, Virginia.
