

Injuries Sideline Perry, Pollard, May Miss Penn Relays

The charleyhorse, an old track malady that causes coaches throughout the country great concern, has made its appearance on the Penn State track scene, attacking two of the Lion standouts, Rod Perry and Art Pollard.

Both Perry and Pollard suffered charleyhorses while competing in last Saturday's Ohio State Relays at Columbus, Ohio.

Werner emphasized that although the injuries were not serious, they could play an important part in his deciding what entries to make in Saturday's Penn Relays at Philadelphia—an annual high spot on the cinder-men's schedule.

The injuries, which will hamper both men in this week's practice sessions, could be rather disastrous as far as Penn State hopes go since the event is noted for its star-studded field.

Withholds Comment

Werner withheld any comment as to his plans for the relay carnival, deciding to wait and see before making up his mind.

He did say, however, that he definitely would not take either of them to Philadelphia if they had not completely recovered. "This is only one program on our schedule—we have the rest of the season to think about," he said.

Expected to Play Key Roles

Both men had been expected to play key roles in Werner's relay plans. According to reports from the University of Pennsylvania, Pollard was expected to be one of the main challengers in the 100-yard dash, running against such standouts as Penn's John Haines and George Snyder of Villanova.

He is also capable of entering the sprint relays as well as the sprint medley event, the distance medley race, and the one-mile relay championship of America.

However, Werner and the charleyhorse have the final say as to what and whether he will run. If he recovers, there is a possibility that he may be restricted to the sprint relays and the distance medley affair.

Suffers 2nd Pre-Relay Injury

This is the second consecutive year that Pollard has suffered an injury immediately preceding the Relays. Last year he injured his leg, forcing him to be scratched from all events.

Perry will be rated as one of the top contenders for the hurdles crown, should he enter. He is also capable of running in the sprint relays, along with the shuttle hurdle relays.

Charlie Blockson proved to be a well-received surprise by winning first place in the Buckeye Relay discus throw with a 168'-6 1/2" toss. He is also expected to share the weight event assignment with sophomore John Tullar who placed third in the discus Saturday.

Betas Place 2 Semi-Finalists In Badminton

Beta Theta Pi has placed two players in the semi-final round of the Fraternity Intramural Badminton tournament.

George Ebert and Jerry Bijur attained semi-final status Monday night at Recreation Hall when each eliminated a player representing Delta Sigma Phi.

Ebert, flight 3 champ, won his fifth match of the tournament when he nipped Lloyd Mengel, 15-6, 8-15, 15-7.

Bijur, flight 6 winner, stopped Ronald Lentz, 15-6, 10-15, 15-6. Dick Goldbeck, Sigma Nu, nudged Edward Browning, Tau Phi Delta, 12-15, 15-10, 15-3, and will face Ebert. For the second time in five matches, Goldbeck was extended to three games.

Bijur's opponent will be John Wright, Alpha Zeta, of flight 8. Wright was pushed to the three-game limit for the first time in five matches as he defeated Bob Tetsell, Sigma Nu, 8-15, 15-11, 15-11.

The Goldbeck-Ebert winner will meet the Bijur-Wright winner tonight at 7 in Recreation Hall.

The independent league's regular schedule ended Monday night. Dean Mullin became champion of league B when he defeated David Chain. Mullin will face Terry Leach, league A's winner, for the independent title tonight.

Lions Meet Colgate Golf Squad Friday

Penn State's Nittany Lion golf squad will be out to upset a six-year streak when they meet the Red Raiders of Colgate University in a dual meet at Hamilton, N.Y., Friday.

Coach Jim Dalgety's Colgate squad has not lost a match on its local greens, the Seven Oaks Golf Course, since midway in the season of 1950 when the Lions turned the trick.

The Red Raiders, losers by a 7-0 score to the Lions last season, will field a veteran team for Friday's match. Leading the Raiders is Captain Jim Davidson, who was beaten by Gus Gerhart last year.

Backing Davidson are seniors Jim Smith, last year's captain, Bob Miller, Sherm Peterson and Ryer Schermerhorn, and junior letterman Jim Davis and Don Edwards. All but Miller were in the lineup for last year's match.

Smith was beaten by Watten Gittlen. Peterson lost to John Boyanowski, Schermerhorn to Leo Kukkola, Davis to Gus Gerhart, and Edwards to Jim Mayes.

The Colgate squad won 14 of 19 dual meets last season, and have played six thus far this season. In their latest effort, against Army at West Point, they were on the short end of a 5-2 score.

In the series with the Red Raiders over the years, Rutherford's Lions hold an 8-6 edge in 15 matches. One game was tied.

The Raider's coach Jim Dalgety has been the golf coach at Colgate since 1929 and is also the only coach the Raiders have ever had. Dalgety is the club pro at the Seven Oaks course where the Raiders play their home matches. He holds the course record of 65, and also the nine-hole record of four-under par 30 on the course.

The meet Friday is bound to be closely fought since both teams make a habit of breaking each other's win streaks. The Raiders first broke a Lion four-game streak in 1952, then after the Nittanians had compiled another streak—this one 12 games—the Colgate squad popped them off once again. Friday's match will give the Lions an opportunity to return the favor.

Future Tennis Great

A sophomore newcomer, Fred Trust, looms as a future great in Penn State tennis. Lion coach Sherm Fogg says the former Lower Merion High School ace "has all the shots he needs to forge to the front in college tennis."

DTD, Beta Entries Win Titles In Handball Doubles Tourney

Bob McMillan and Lloyd Arms, Delta Tau Delta, and Al Jacks and Bill McCann, Beta Theta Pi, won upset victories for the flight 7 and 8 championships in fraternity handball doubles Monday night. In other action, the Indies completed the final round of play in their three division, round-robin tourney.

Only one Indie division championship was determined Monday night. Ray Boarts and Joe McHugh earned the title in division C as they defeated Al Poydock and Chuck Sitch, 21-12, 21-0.

Don Millhouse and Ken Fehr laid claim to the division B honors last week when they finished the tourney with an undefeated 4-0 record.

But in division A, Ross Nickeron and Dan George upset the previously undefeated twosome of Paul Bauer and Jerry Moyer, 21-19, 20-21, 21-15. The win sent the two doubles team into a tie for first place with 3-1 cards. A play-off game was scheduled for last night.

DTD's underdog pairing of McMillan and Arms defeated Ken Sacks and Don Snyder, Alpha Zeta, 4-21, 21-4, 21-11. They join Schimmel and Schwartz, Riggs and Lynam, Rivers and Ferguson, Wright and Schue, Crum and Ritter, and Adams and Pepe as the remaining eight doubles teams in the fraternity tourney.

Jacks and McCann produced the biggest upset of the tourney as they won the flight 8 title. The Betas defeated Beta Sigma Rho's Shelly Amsel and Gil Freedman in the semi-final flight match and then eliminated Walt Fresch and Joe Hartnett, Tau Kappa Epsilon, 21-11, 21-14, in the finals.

Indies John Campbell and Ken Todd and Joe Gregory and Andy Pytel won the only other matches.

Checker Champ To Give Show

Noel Banks, blindfold checkers champion of the world, will give a demonstration at 8 p.m. today in the Hetzel Union card room.

Banks will give a simultaneous chess and checker exhibition. He will engage as many opponents at one time as wish to play chess and checkers, as well as play checkers blindfolded. Last spring, Banks gave a similar exhibition and defeated all opponents.
