

Rotation of 3-2 Ratio, Other Changes Proposed By Elections Committee

The All-University Elections Committee last night discussed plans to amend the Elections Code so that the 3-2 ratio between fraternity and independent officers would be rotated each year.

Members of the committee present favored the idea, but to amend the Code the committee must favor it by a two-thirds vote and it must also be accepted by All-University Cabinet.

At present the only office which is designated by the Code as to fraternity or independent affiliation is the All-University president.

The prospective change which was discussed also included the provision that a coin toss should decide any dispute which might arise between clique chairmen as to how to disperse the offices between fraternity and independent men.

Entire Revision Planned
The committee met to revise the entire Elections Code in any place where question might arise as to constitutionality, as did in the recent Spring elections when Lion party appealed Elections Committee's decisions to Cabinet and the Supreme Court.

They plan to hold several meetings in the next two weeks, the next being at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Collegian office. The entire proposed revision and recommendations of the committee will be presented to Cabinet May 10.

Location of Polls Discussed
Another discussed change was one to give the committee power to specify the places in which voting shall be held. The committee felt that this power should be included in the Code so that centralized voting could be used in one election and decentralized voting could be used in another. They felt that perhaps centralized voting could be used in the Fall elections coming up next year.

Another power which the committee proposed was the power to designate times the polls will open and close. This would allow for opening polls at night if needed. This year it was done in violation of the Code. The present Code says that the polls will be open between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Chem-Phys Will Hold Open House

More than 1500 high school students are expected to attend the open house and Science Fair of the College of Chemistry and Physics from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

The Science Fair, in which high school seniors will display their projects, will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in 309 Whitmore Lab. A $1000 scholarship will be awarded for the best exhibit.

All Facilities to Be Open

The open house itself will be held from 1:30 to 5 p.m. All of the laboratories and research facilities of the college will be open at this time.

During the afternoon, guided tours will be conducted through various exhibits and lecture-demonstrations will be presented at intervals. A lecture on the role of chemistry in crime detection is planned for 3 p.m.

Various Displays

The College of Agriculture will be represented with displays in zoology and anatomy. Bacteriology and medical technology students will demonstrate rapid blood count techniques and blood analysis.

The observatories will be open from 8 to 10 p.m. for the benefit of visitors who remain through the evening.

Livestock Readied For Participation In Annual Show

Approximately 100 head of purebred beef cattle, swine, sheep, and horses from University herds are being prepared to participate in the 39th annual Little International Livestock Exposition, which will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in the pavilion on Ag Hill.

Almost half the entries are beef cattle of the Angus, Hereford, and Shorthorn breeds, according to Donald Hutzel, beef superintendent of the show.

Hutzel will be in charge of the Shorthorns, assisted by Edward Woods for the Angus entries, and Ned Sittler for the Hereford entries.

In charge of the sheep division will be William Watkins, with Donald McCreight assisting. Vernon Hazlett is in charge of the swine, and Thomas Blose is his assistant. Albert Celecki is superintendent of horses. He will be assisted by Robert Kline.

NSA Confab To Highlight Workshops

National Student Association workshops will be the central part of the NSA Regional Convention to be held at the University tomorrow, Saturday, and Sunday.

Moderators will lead each of the workshops. Several groups will meet simultaneously to discuss the same topic.

Four sessions of different workshops will be conducted under this system.

Students from Pennsylvania and West Virginia will be attending the convention, and both member and non-member schools will send representatives. Barbara Hendel, NSA special arrangements chairman said 130 students are expected to attend the meetings.

Student Opinion Discussion
Workshop discussions will include "How can student opinion be exercised on policy-making committees, on student councils, on community governments? What can be done to insure a valuable student contribution?"

Another discussion will center around the topic "Why have student leadership and government? Can they contribute anything to the college? Where can student government and student leaders make a contribution?"

Leadership Training to Be Aired
Leadership training will take the floor for discussion when representatives discuss "How should student leaders be prepared for their responsibilities? What methods are available, such as orientation, retreats, and handbooks?"

The last of the four workshop discussions will be on the subjects of group dynamics, parliamentary procedure, and student body president, parliamentary chairman versus the policy maker.

Waring Walls Are Refinished

Workmen have removed the paint from the walls in Waring Hall in order to place a dado of green plastic.

Physical Plant had found that the paint was beginning to peel and getting scuffed off. The plastic strip will be more resistant to scuffing.

Workmen are also completing the new housing office being constructed where the information desk was formerly situated, according to Charles E. Lamm, director of the plant's maintenance division.

The new display case, formerly situated behind the information desk, is expected to be finished soon. The case is being constructed in place of the bulletin board, the bulletin board being moved to the wall opposite the post-office substitution.

Collegian Staff to Meet

The senior board of the Daily Collegian business staff will meet at 6:45 tonight in 11 Carnegie.

TIM Postpones Amendment Vote

Town Independent Men last night, for the second consecutive meeting, voted to defer a motion to amend the constitution to provide for a Board of Town Students.

The approval for deferment followed comment by Imerio Matos, who opposed creation of the board at the last meeting, that Lash Howes, sponsor of the amendment, was not present to express his views.

Robert Cole, TIM president, said attendance was not sufficient to reflect a majority opinion. Cole said the amendment will probably come up for a first vote at the election meeting of TIM, to be held at 7:30 p.m. May 9, in 203 Hetzel Union.

The proposed Board of Town Students would be vested with all executives and legislative power of TIM. Board meetings would replace regular TIM meetings.

Nominations Opened

Nominations for elections of next semester's officers were opened for the first time. Edward Leach was nominated for president; Fred Maut, vice president; William Dragon, secretary; and Charles Heinly, treasurer.

James Goodwin and Terry Leach were also nominated for secretary but declined. Nominations will be reopened before election held at the next meeting.

Cole said a list of rooming houses containing eight or more students were to be sent to the dean of men's office. The list will be submitted to the Alpha Fire Company for use in the inspection of the borough for possible fire hazards.

Mother's Day Dance

TIM will sponsor a Mother's Day dance starting at 9 p.m. May 12, in the Hetzel Union Ballroom. Admission is $1.50 per couple. Dress is semi-formal. The 18-piece AIM band will provide music.

Decorations will include a large sign spelling "mother" made of white carnations. A woman chosen from the State College area will be chosen to represent the mothers of all Penn State students.

Richard Norton was named to replace Phillip Levine as TIM representative at large to the AIM Board of Governors. Levine is student teaching. Charles Heinly was named to a similar post to replace Lash Howes, recently elected AIM president.

Daily Collegian Promotes Eleven to Junior Board

The senior board of The Daily Collegian Tuesday night promoted 11 sophomore boarders to the junior board.

Those promoted are Lianne Cordeiro, Louis Prato, Lynn Ward, Patricia Evans, Joseph Cheddar, Patricia O'Neill, Virginia Phillips, Barbara Martino, Carol Gibson, Joseph Boehret, and Robert Franklin.
