

Students to Present Final Music Recital

The final student recital, sponsored by the department of music, will be held at 3:10 p.m. today in 117 Carnegie.

Verino Dandrea, playing the clarinet, accompanied by Norma Gloor at the piano, will present "Sonata for Clarinet and Piano in F Minor," Opus 120, No. 2 by Brahms.

336 Copies Of Lantern Purchased

Three hundred and thirty-six copies of The Lantern were sold yesterday, business manager Robert Nurock reported at the Liberal Arts Student Council last night.

Nurock also brought up the possibility of expanding the length of the magazine and the number of copies printed. The Council could not entirely finance the magazine if it expanded and various other sources of financing were discussed.

Advertising was ruled out as it was felt by the members that it would cheapen the standard of the magazine.

A motion was made and passed that the Council appropriate $325 for publishing costs of the Fall 1956 issue of The Lantern.

Next year's editor of the magazine will come up for approval at the next meeting of the Council.

Lynn Tyler, sophomore in arts and letters from Milwaukee, Wis., read a report on the big sister-little sister system that the College of Home Economics has.

It was decided that the Council will study this next fall and see if it is possible to work out a plan to use this system for incoming liberal arts freshman in September of 1957.

Jay Feldstein, freshman in arts and letters from Elizabeth, read a report on faculty evaluation sheets. A sample sheet was passed to the members of the Council.

Feldstein pointed out that the College of Liberal Arts had used faculty evaluation sheets six years ago, but there were no statistics available of their results.

The Council then passed a resolution that it would sponsor a faculty evaluation through the College of Liberal Arts for the fall semester of 1956.

A committee, made up of students and faculty members, will draw up the details of the evaluation.

The deadline for applications for the Liberal Arts Student Council Scholarship of $100 is this Saturday.

Club Places 2d In Chess Meet

The Penn State Chess Club placed second behind the University of Pennsylvania in the 1956 Pennsylvania Intercollegiate Tournament held Saturday and Sunday at the Jewish Community Center in Harrisburg.

Captained by Robert Dijaiffe, the team qualified for the finals by defeating Gettysburg College earlier this spring. Other finalists were the University of Pittsburgh, third place winner, and Muhlenberg College.

William Friedman was the only Penn State player to go through the entire tournament undefeated. The meet was sponsored by the Intercollegiate League of the Pennsylvania State Chess Federation.

Lantern Still Available, Sales Reported High

Copies of Lantern, literary magazine, are on sale for the last time today at the Hetzel Union Building, Carnegie bulletin board, Waring Hall, and the Corner Room.

Sales yesterday were "high above expectations," according to editor Jacqueline Hudgins, and publication of the magazine next year "is a certainty."

WRA Dance Group To Present Concert

The Modern Dance Concert Group of the Women's Recreation Association will present its annual spring concert at 8 p.m. Thursday and Saturday in the White Hall rhythm room.

Seven numbers with eight subtitles comprise the program of colorful movements varying from the abstractness of Huxley's arrangement to the gayness of American folk tunes.

Caprice vaguely depicts a gypsy caravan leaving a favorite spot. With black tights and vests, Phoebe English, Joyce Fullerton, Lorna Sweitzer, and Mary Lou Thomas perform the epitome.

Overture Presents 2 Themes

In Overture to Spring two themes, Prelude and Rhapsody—with smooth movements and flowery design—are danced to by Emily Anderson, Margaret Leuschner, Ethel Littles, Betty Love, Sheila Strain, Nancy Hibbs, and Wendy Mayer. The latter two form a duet for the Rhapsody routine.

A French folk song, Three Bells, casts Phoebe English, Alberta Hoffman, Constance Paulakos, Emilie Popp and Lorna Sweitzer, who portray birth, marriage, and death to the sound of each bell. Mrs. Alberta Nelson is the choreographer.

The fourth number is a folk suite, including American, Israeli, and Russian dances. Participating in a gay American country dance in long, full costumes are Emily Anderson, Phoebe English, Hope Evans, Joyce Fullerton, Lana Gerhardt, Margaret Leuschner, Betty Love, Marlene Malizia, and Mary Lou Thomas.

8 in Israeli Dance Emily Anderson, Phoebe English, Hope Evans, Lana Gerhardt, Joan Hickerson, Alberta Hoffman, Ethel Littles, and Emilie Popp create an Israeli atmosphere in With Happy Hearts, an Israeli folk song.

Trepak, from Tchaikowsky's Nutcracker Suite, is the music for Lana Gerhardt, Ethel Littles, Charlotte Starosick, Sheila Strain, Lorna Sweitzer, and Mary Lou Thomas in a fast-moving number. The next routine features Sheila Strain in a give-and-take Bongo Beat. She will be accompanied by William Lathan playing the bongo.

Huxley Routine Aldous Huxley's "Brave New World" is the source of three abstract, odd numbers. Margaret Leuschner, Ethel Littles, Hope Evans, and Charlotte Starosick dance to Thought Control. Great Beings features Emily Anderson and Rosetta Kearney, the lat-

Two Students Receive Grants Of $500 Each

Malcolm Stehman, senior in wood utilization from Lancaster, and Diane DuBois, freshman in arts and letters from Oneida, N.Y., have each been awarded $500 scholarships.

Stehman's scholarship is one of four sponsored by the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, and provides, in addition to the $500, ten weeks of on-the-job training at the Washington, D.C. laboratory of the Timber Engineering Co.

The purpose of the scholarship is to encourage more of the nation's top forestry students to seek employment in the private wood industries.

Miss DuBois has been awarded a New York State Elk's Association scholarship.

The award, made on the basis of scholarship, leadership, financial need, and character will be presented in New York next week.

The Camera Club will meet at 7 tonight in the Hetzel Union Building for a color slide competition. The meeting will be open to the public although the contest will be confined to members.

ter doing much of the directing for the number.

A Gramme of Soma is danced to by Emily Anderson, Hope Evans, Margaret Leuschner, Rosetta Kearney, and Charlotte Starosick.

Lana Gerhardt and Joan Hickerson dance a duet in A Fable by Thurber with a narrative accompaniment.

The Story of Job by Moussorgsky will be the closing number on the program. Betty Love will depict the part of Job, and Marlene Malizia will act as Satan.

The sons of Job will be portrayed by Rosetta Kearney, Emilie Popp, and Mary Lou Thomas.

Tickets are available in the White Hall office.

"I Love Thee," by Beethoven and "Dedication," by Robert Franz will be sung by Barbara Prestipino, soprano, with Fay Holden at the piano.

Instrumental Group Selections

"Intrade" and "Bal" by Pezel and "Folktune Suite for Brass Ensemble," arranged by Magill, will be presented by John Croft, baritone; Jere Fridy and Charles H. Springman, coronet; Kenneth Lesight, horn; Virginia Mensch, tympani; William C. Wilson, trombone; and Stanley Michalski, tuba. Eugene Magill will conduct the group.

Elfrieda Baven, soprano, and Harriet Learn at the piano will present "Velvet Shoes," by Thompson and "The Daisies" by Samuel Barber.

"Interlude" and "Humoresque" by Chalmers Clifton will be played by Arthur DeAngelis with the trumpet and Elaine Kloures at the piano.

Soprano Selection

Soprano Harryette Gerhart accompanied by Fay Holden at the piano will sing "The Doves" by Theodore Chanler.

A duet by two sopranos, Anne Limberger and Harryette Gerhart singing "Et in unam Dominum" by Bach, will be accompanied by Harriet Learn at the piano.

Two pieces, "Sonata from Eankelsangerlieder," anonymous, and "Two Ravens," by Melchior Franck, will be played by Ralph DeAngelis, trumpet; John Shaffer and Carson Rothrock, french horn; Clyde Scott, baritone; and John Croft, tuba.

Handbags for Mother's Day

Eliminate Size Problem

If you have your Mother's Day present already, you need not bother to read this ad—So don't!

But, if you still have to find a gift for Mom—read on.

Now here's a perfect idea—why not send her a handbag? There is no size problem, no exchange problem, no problem sat all (except the bill).

Simon's has new summer and spring straw and laminated bags.

●The straws present as cheerful a picture as a new May basket all decked out in flowers, sea shells, and ribbons.

●Or perhaps Mom would prefer a laminated bag in a gay print or beautiful design.

●Featured are the laminated bags lined with a Fuller fabric. Fuller has captured the famous artists, Picasso and Chagall, to do the designs. These are truly exciting gifts!
