

Erratic Netmen Host Engineers

By TOM WERNER

"We've got the losing habit," said Coach Sherm Fogg, appraising the chances against Lehigh's net squad this afternoon, "and it wouldn't surprise me if we drop another one."

The dispirited tennis mentor who regarded last Saturday's match against Georgetown as the season's turning point, claimed that he couldn't possibly foretell how today's match would go. "It'll be a miracle if we match last year's 7-5 record," he said.

Today's cross-court firing is due to start at 3:30 p.m. on the Beaver Field courts.

The Engineers will be the first match in the second half of the season—five matches remaining after this afternoon's clash.

Lehigh Has Singles Power

Last year the Engineers became the second win on the Lion record when the sophomore pair, Al Williams and Joe Eberly, won the deciding doubles point against a Lehigh squad that had been touted for its doubles strength.

This season, the Lehigh netters have defeated Rutgers, the only common opponent thus far, mainly on singles strength.

The Engineers will be headed by 1954's PIAA tennis champ Bill Starlett, who started the season in the middle of the line-up. A consistent winner, he has risen to head to team.

Christiansen to Face Champ
Facing Starlett will be Nittany Captain Chuck Christiansen, playing his first match in the lead-off position in continuance of Fogg's search for a winning number one man.

The steady top three of Ed Seiling, Fred Trust, and Dean Mullen—the hottest man on the team at this time—will follow in that order.

To round out the singles slate Larry Adler will be reinstated to the number five spot after sitting the last one out, and Doug Zuker, who has looked good at practice, will handle the number six Engineer.

Doubles Teams Shuffled
The doubles teams have been shuffled again by the harassed Fogg.

Christiansen and Joe Eberly; Seiling and Trust, an early season combination; and Jack Gruber and Dick Jacobs round out the doubles list.

Jacobs, a sophomore, will be playing in his first intercollegiate match in an attempt to bolster the team.
