

Cabinet Motion Allows NSA to Select More National Congress Delegates

All-University Cabinet unanimously passed a motion last night allowing the National Student Association committee to choose additional delegates from Cabinet groups to attend the NSA National Congress this summer.

Cabinet also referred the Spring Week final report presented by Richard Seng, chairman, to next year's Spring Week committee. A progress report on committee recommenda-

Von Circus To Perform On Monday

The circus is coming to town. This pastime, popular with children from nine to 90, will be held at the Community Athletic Field on Monday, with two shows, one at 3 p.m. and another at 8 p.m.

The event is being sponsored by the State College Junior Chamber of Commerce for its Youth Welfare Fund. This is the first time in two years that the Jay-Cees have sponsored a circus.

Big Top Seats 2000
The circus, by name, the Von Brothers Circus, has its headquarters in Wilkes-Barre. It has a full three rings and seats 2000 people in the big top.

Fraternities and sororities of the University have been asked to contribute to the JayCees' Youth Welfare Fund for the purpose of buying tickets to the circus for underprivileged children. The money for tickets collected by the Junior Chamber of Commerce is then turned over to the Welfare Department in Bellefonte or to small central schools in outlying districts.

$500 Collected Yesterday
Five hundred dollars was collected by yesterday, according to Luther Reitmeyer, chairman of the drive for the JayCees. He said that they are hoping to get much more than that through advertising by banners and a big radio drive which will be carried on this weekend.

Besides sponsoring this circus for underprivileged children, the JayCees' Welfare Fund supports such community projects as a teen-age radio contest, the "I Speak for Democracy" contest for high school students, and a community center project.

FTA Group Holds Annual Banquet In HUB Tuesday

The annual banquet of the Marion R. Trabue Chapter of the Future Teachers of America was held Tuesday night at the Hetzel Union Building.

Bonnie Cole, junior in education from Havertown, was introduced as the newly elected president of FTA.

Other officers are James Werkman, junior in education from Scottsdale, vice president; Audrey Jersun, freshman in education from McKees Rocks, recording secretary; Patricia Herring, junior in education from Lewisburg, corresponding secretary; Michael Forosisky, junior in business administration from Johnstown, treasurer; and Carolyn Dimmick, sophomore in home economics from Haddon Heights, N.J., librarian.

Guests of honor at the banquet were Dean and Mrs. Marion R. Trabue, Dr. Robert B. Patrick, associate professor of education, and Mrs. Patrick and Dr. Donald G. McGarey, professor of education, and Mrs. McGarey.

Collegian Promotes 5 on 'Photo' Staff

Five students have been promoted on the photography staff of The Daily Collegian.

Joseph Patton, freshman in chemistry from Washington, Pa., Norma Molinari, junior in education from Duquesne, and Harry Furminger, junior in the division of intermediate registration from Washington, D.C., have been promoted to junior board.

Charles Zandt, junior in business administration from Millintown, and William Greene, freshman in electrical engineering from Lewistown, have been promoted to sophomore board.

tions from the 1955 student encampment was distributed without discussion and Charles Witmer, former president of the Business Administration Student Council, presented a report of the Book Exchange committee.

James Musser, NSA committee chairman, submitted the names of five delegates to represent the University at the NSA National Congress. They were Susan Hill, Leonard Richards, Edward Long, Lawrence McCabe, and Barbara Hendel. The University is allowed a maximum of seven voting delegates.

He added an alternate delegate, Daniel Land, Interfraternity Council president, on the possibility that one of the five delegates would be sponsored by another group.

Six individual groups, the Chemistry-Physics, Education, Engineering Student Councils, and Panhellenic Council and the Women's Student Government Association said that they also wish to send a delegate.

'Delegates Should Not Vote'
Roger Alexander, The Daily Collegian editor, said that representatives from specific councils should go as observers and not voting delegates because "they don't know enough about NSA."

If seven delegates represent the University, other groups sponsoring delegates should be allowed "to get what they want for that group," Land said.

Musser explained that both the delegates and alternates will attend the meetings, and the voting delegates will only vote on national officers and special issues.

Concern National Issues
Samuel Wolcott, who attended the Congress last summer, said that the discussions concern national problems such as legislation and education. "There is little said where one can vote concerning one little organization," he added.

After a question was raised on the selection of the University sponsored delegates, Musser said they were chosen from members of the NSA committee and Cabinet, and added that "the committee had the understanding that Cabinet would approve the delegates."

Last Jazz Concert To Be Held Tonight

By GINNY PHILLIPS

Jimmy McPartland and his All Stars will present two Dixieland concerts of Chicago jazz at 7 and 9:30 tonight in Schwab Auditorium. This will be the last jazz concert of the semester.

Sponsored by the Jazz Club, this concert deviates from its practice of presenting modern experimental jazz.

Next year the group plans to bring Gene Krupa, the Australian Jazz Quintet, and Louis Armstrong for a repeat performance to campus.

Jazz groups previously heard at the University have included Louis Armstrong, Dave Brubeck and his Quartet, Stan Kenton, Chris Connor, the Modern Jazz Quartet, Kai Winding and J. J. Johnson, and Charlie Mingus.

Started by Richards
The club was started one and one-half years ago when Theodore Richards, assistant professor of agricultural extension and advisor to the Cornell Rhythm Club before he came to the University, decided to form a jazz club.

Richards, Ronald Hoopes, and John Valentine, two students who graduated in 1955, collaborated and planned for the first meeting of the Jazz Club.

Few Expected
Since they only expected a few students to show up for the meeting, they arranged to use one of the smaller rooms in Carnegie Hall and to play tape recordings of a Stan Kenton concert that was held at Cornell.

Much to their surprise over 150 students arrived and many had to remain in the halls.

Elected Officers
From this start the group elected officers and drew up a constitution. Richards was elected adviser and has remained in that position ever since.

The club sponsored its first concert with the Campus Chest when it brought Max Kaminsky to campus. The Louis Armstrong Concerts added tremendously to the success of the club since Schwab Auditorium was packed for both performances.

Over 600 Members
Today the Jazz Club has over 600 members. They donate records to the Hetzel Union desk and place records in juke boxes in the HUB ballroom and Lion's Den.

During the year the group held jam sessions open to members and provided entertainment by local jazz groups after business meetings.

Faculty Luncheon Club

Maurice K. Goddard, State Secretary of Forests and Waters, will address the Faculty Luncheon Club Monday in the Hetzel Union Building.

Osborn Speaks To Members Of MI Council

Students have the chance through the Mineral Industries Student council to make their own rules and regulations, and to express their opinions about college functions, according to Elbert F. Osborn, dean of the College of Mineral Industries.

Functions of Council
Osborn spoke to new members of the council Wednesday night concerning the function of the council.

He pointed out to council members that their open house and high school counseling days were good opportunities for the new students in the college to get acquainted.

The Council discussed the placement of the Ellen Steidle Plaque, presented in honor of the past dean's wife to the outstanding senior and junior in the Mineral Industries College. The possibility of placing benches in the MI art gallery was also discussed.

Co-Editors Are Named

Ralph Kauffman, council president, appointed John Diefenbach, sophomore in petroleum and natural gas engineering from Harrisburg, and Roger Levin, sophomore in petroleum and natural gas engineering from Glen Richey, co-editors of the Prospector, a publication affiliated with the Mineral Industries College.

Don Crage, junior in petroleum and natural gas engineering from Barnesboro, wa. appointed chairman of the council's election committee.

LSA to Hear Guest Chaplain

Dr. David Braemer, chaplain of Muhlenberg College, will be guest speaker at the annual senior banquet of the Lutheran Student Association at 6:15 tonight in the student center.

Installation of the student council for the next school year, and the presentation of gifts to the graduating seniors will follow the banquet.

The Wesley Foundation will hold a banquet at 6:30 tonight in the Hetzel Union dining room A. A dance will be held following the dinner at 8:45 p.m. in the gymnasium of St. Paul's Methodist Church.

The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship will meet at 7:30 tonight in 405 Old Main.

It happens every spring

SPRING IS THE TIME when a young man's fancy turns to things besides studying for finals. Because the Armed Forces Day Parade was called off yesterday, students from Nittany and Pollock dorms paraded through the West Dorms area with drums and a near riot situation was caused. Dean of Men Frank J. Simes (insert) was one of several administrative members who helped calm down the students.
