STATE COLLEGE, PA., FRIDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 14, 1956

FIVE CENTS

Registration of 8032 Ahead of Last Year; Running 'Smoothly'

Editorial on page six

A total of 8032 students, topping last year's enrollment by 335, completed registration by 5 p.m. yesterday at Recreation Hall.

Registration opened Wednesday morning and will close with the registration of special students and University employees tomorrow.

Dean of Admissions C. O. Williams reported that registration went "very smoothly" with very few tardy registrations.

Casual Dress, Games Planned For Fun Night

Casual dress is in order for men and women students of the freshman class and transfer students at the Fun Night program from 7 to 11 p.m. tomorrow. Tickets may be purchased at the door. The program is sponsored by All-University Cabinet.

After some informal participation in ping pong, volleyball, shuffleboard, and basketball a formal program will be presented.

Entertainment Planned
The entertainment will include a presentation by David Boucher, president of the Outing Club; cheering led by the University cheerleaders; and a trampoline exhibition by Charles Fegley, senior in physical education.

A tumbling exhibition by William Paxton, senior in Forestry; singing led by Hummel Fishburn, professor of music and music education, and Frank Gullo, associate professor of music; and a dancing exhibition by the Bavarian Schuplatellers under the direction of Jack Biesterfeld. Master of Ceremonies for the program is Harold E. White, associate professor in physical education.

Huber's Orchestra
The program will run from 8 to 8:30 p.m. and will be followed by dancing to Jack Huber's orchestra. Besides social dancing there will also be some round and square dancing.

WRA Open House Set for Tonight

Freshmen and women students have been invited to the Women's Recreation Association open house from 6:45 to 9 tonight in White Hall.

Synchronized swimming and modern dance routines will be performed by club members, and a tour of the gymnasium will be conducted by members of Cwens, sophomore women's hat society.

Coeds are asked to wear Bermuda shorts and to bring swimming caps if they wish to swim. Ann Forester, WRA president, will welcome the guests.

Handbooks Available Today and Tomorrow

Freshmen and transfer students who did not receive their Student Handbooks at counselling sessions this week may pick them up today and tomorrow at the dean of men's office, 109 Old Main.

New Post Office Hours

Effective Monday, the windows of the University Park post office, located in the Hetzel Union Building, will open each weekday at 8:30 a.m. and will close Monday through Friday at 5:30 p.m. and Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

Daily Publication to Begin

The Daily Collegian will resume regular Tuesday through Saturday publication next Tuesday.

Customs Adds Freshman Oath

Editorial on page six

Freshman customs, an old University tradition, has had something new added to its usual list of rules and regulations—a freshman oath.

Customs are scheduled to begin at 7 a.m. Monday. Termination date will be set when the Freshman Customs Board feels overall spirit merits ending the customs period.

The oath, which freshmen are required to memorize and recite on request from an upperclassman, is a brief outline of the major regulations and purposes of the annual tradition.

The oath is as follows:
"In furthering the traditions of Penn State. I hereby promise to memorize our school songs and cheers, wear my dink and name card with pride, and learn the names and places of traditional interest. All of this I do for the betterment of The Pennsylvania State University."

Freshmen also are required to wear blue gabardine dinks displaying the University seal during the customs period. The dinks, traditional garb for customs, are on sale at $1.50 at the Book Exchange on the basement floor of Hetzel Union Building.

When a freshman receives his dink, his name will be checked on a master list and he will be given a 5-by-8-inch card on which he must print his name, hometown and major in black or dark blue lettering. Lettering must be at least an inch and a half high, and the card must be worn around the freshman's neck for the duration of the customs period.

Freshmen must wear their "dress customs" and carry the "freshman Bible," the student handbook, at all times. Dress customs end at 5:30 p.m. each Friday and begin at 7 a.m. Monday. Customs must be worn until noon on Saturday and to all intercollegiate athletic contests.

Customs need not be worn in dormitories, but freshman women must wear their dinks and cards at all times outside of the dormitory. Men may remove their dinks inside of buildings. Customs regulations will be observed both on campus, in classrooms and in the borough of State College.

Upperclasswomen will conduct customs for freshman women, and upperclassmen will regulate customs for freshman men. On several joint customs days, to be announced later, customs will be conducted jointly by men and women.

Members of men's and women's hat societies will actively encourage and support freshman customs on campus and in State College. They will act as liaison between upperclassmen and freshmen.

The Freshman Customs Board has urged upperclassmen to match the spirit of the freshmen during the customs period and indicated that freshman customs should be fun for everyone.

Freshmen who are exempt from observing customs are those fresh-

Walker Foils Froth Man -- And How!

Somewhere a Froth man is hiding on campus, his head buried in his hands.

And here's why:

Yesterday afternoon, when President-elect Dr. Eric A. Walker strolled into registration, he was approached by an eager beaver Froth salesman.

"How 'bout subscribing to Froth?" the solicitor asked.

To which the new president, playing it straight, replied: "What's Froth?"

There followed the usual sales pitch, which the new president took in stride because he thought the Froth peddler was kidding.

"No, thanks," said Dr. Walker, after the spiel, "I'll take my chances on getting a complimentary copy."

"A comp!" the Frothman exclaimed. "We don't give comp copies, do we?" he asked of a companion. He said not.

At this point, the new president, realizing that this was no act, played it straight.

"Maybe I'd better introduce myself," he said. "My name is Walker. What's yours?"

And the embarrassed Froth man exited with the line: "God! I hope you never find out."

Penn Ticket Sale Will Begin Tuesday

Tickets for the University of Pennsylvania-Penn State game go on sale to students Tuesday morning at the ticket booth on the third floor of Recreation Hall.

The game, which will be played Sept. 29 at Philadelphia, is the opening game of the season.

The ticket booth will be open weekdays from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4:30 p.m., and Saturdays, from 8 a.m. to noon.

The price of the tickets is $4. There is a limit of six tickets for each student.

Through the use of the alphabetizing time system, Dean Williams said that 1911 students passed through the line yesterday morning and 1922 in the afternoon.

Approximately 4000 new students have been admitted to the University this semester. This group includes 2700 freshmen, 700 transfer students from the various University centers and more than 500 transfers from other colleges.

May Obtain Aid
Dean Williams said that senior students having difficulty fitting courses necessary for graduation into their schedules should consult representatives of the dean's offices of their colleges, who will be stationed on the main floor.

These representatives will serve as mediators between the student and the registration official in determining a satisfactory solution to senior scheduling problems.

"Few students realize how valuable these center stations are because 90 per cent of them don't need it," Dean Williams explained.

Walker Inspects Process
Dr. Eric A. Walker, president-elect of the University, inspected the registration system yesterday afternoon and was concerned with the method of controlling the size of each section.

The section enrollment is regulated by each department holding the number of course cards equal to the maximum number of students allowed in the section. When the last card is taken, the section is closed.

This semester will mark the ninth time that centralized registration has been used. Through the magic of the IBM machine each course card is received by the designated department within one hour after the student submits it to the desk.

It is essential that information contained on the master card is correct because this controls the IBM operation and the by-product of registration. Machines punch the master card information onto the other cards.

Class Roll Soon Ready
This information is received by the departments and enables them not only to have a class roll Monday morning but also to equalize large classes.

WMAJ to Air WDFM Programs

By JUDY HARKISON

Student radio station WDFM will begin Oct. 1 to broadcast six hours of its weekly evening program schedule over local radio station WMAJ. The experiment was announced yesterday by WDFM, WMAJ, and the University.

WDFM programs, prepared by students and faculty, will originate in the station's campus studios and will be carried to WMAJ through a line installed and maintained by WMAJ.

Campus News Broadcast
National and campus news will be broadcast Monday through Thursday from 9:45 to 10 p.m. Included in these programs Tuesday and Thursday will be a five minute news program translated in the Romance languages.

"As You Believe," a fifteen-minute program presented alternately by the Hillel Foundation, University Christian Association, and the Newman Club, will be heard Thursday evenings at 8 p.m.

A thirty minute news program at 9 p.m. Friday nights will feature interviews with the people who are making the top campus news.

3 Hours of Music
Three hours of music will be heard Saturday nights with live music by student 'combos' from 8 to 8:30 originating in the Hetzel Union auditorium. An hour long record show will follow "Hubzapoppin'" and an hour and a half of high fidelity classical music will be broadcast until 11 p.m.

In addition to the above simultaneous AM-FM programs, WDFM will continue to broadcast its 7 p.m. to 11 p.m. FM schedule.

If the combined broadcasts prove successful, there is a possibility that the AM programming will be increased, a WDFM spokesman said.

Other special events on campus will be carried by WMAJ, whenever possible, it was announced. Occasionally used will be a remote console donated to the HUB by WMAJ.

WDFM will begin its broadcasting schedule for this semester at 6:55 p.m. Monday.

First Aired in 1953
WDFM went on the air from its Sparks building studios in December of 1953 with equipment purchased through gifts of the classes of 1951-52.

This semester's FM programming will include among other things special events, classical music, dramatic productions, campus news, and sports.

Moyle Gets Editorship Of Collegian

Michael Moyle, senior in journalism from Winburne, has been named acting editor of The Daily Collegian, effective today.

Moyle replaces Roger Alexander, senior in journalism from Metuchen, N.J., who has been placed on academic probation for the fall semester.

Other Posts Filled
Other persons named or re-named to positions Wednesday night at a special meeting of the Collegian senior board are:

Susan Conklin, senior in arts and letters from Chevy Chase, Md., managing editor; Edward Dubbs, junior in journalism from Waynesboro, city editor; Francis Fanucci, senior in journalism from Jessup, sports editor.

More Position Changes
Rebecca Zahm, senior in journalism from Johnstown, copy editor; Vincent Carocci, junior in journalism from Scranton, assistant sports editor; Evelyn Onsa, senior in arts and letters from Bryn Athyn, feature editor; and David Bavar, senior in business administration from Jamestown, N.Y., photography editor.

Miss Conklin, formerly personnel and make-up editor, will assume her old duties and also assist the editor with the editorial page under the new title of managing editor.

Dubbs Moves Up
Dubbs, formerly assistant city editor, moves up to the city editor spot vacated by Ronald Gatehouse, who expects to return to the University in January. Fanucci's position of sports editor was not changed.

Miss Zahm, formerly exchange editor, assumed the copy editor post vacated by Moyle. She will be assisted by Miss Onsa, who will also serve as exchange editor and librarian under the title of feature editor.

Carocci's position as assistant sports editor remains the same, as does Bavar's post of photography editor.

Partly Cloudy, Mild Forecast for Today

Partly cloudy and mild weather, with a chance of scattered thundershowers, has been forecast for today.

The high today is expected to reach the 80's, and the low this morning was forecast in the 60's.

The general outlook for the state seems to be partly cloudy and mild with chances of thundershowers in the central, northwest, and western sections, and warm and humid in the southeastern part of the state.
