

Quakers Out to Halt 2-Year Losing Streak

A revamped University of Pennsylvania football team, probably Coach Steve Sebo's best, will be out not only to beat the Lions but also play the "law of averages" when it meets a favored Lion team Saturday at Franklin Field, Philadelphia.

Since Sebo has been head coach at Penn the Red and Blue have not won a game, losing 18 in a row, which, according to the law of averages, should come to a halt soon. This year Sebo is reported to have his most promising team with 15 lettermen returning and a host of sophomore aspirants.

AND BECAUSE of this Penn can't be taken lightly, especially since its opening game for both teams. It would be hardly difficult for the Quakers to pull an upset seeing that only two members of last year's squad will be in the starting lineup, which makes it quite difficult to have an accurate scouting report.

Without the accuracy usually required in a scouting report the strength of Penn can only be predicted. The best the Lion coaching staff can do is base its reports on the potential of the Quakers and few game films it has.

BUT FROM reports emerging out of the Penn training camp the Quaker strength is situated at quarterback and at end, where Rich Ross, Charley Gill, and Parker Jacoby prevail respectively.

Lion fans remember Ross from his past performances. The 5-11, 188 pound junior was a splendid signal caller and this year he is reported to be at his peak, espefavor of a passing attack, which could materialize with Gill and Jacoby at ends.

Last season Ross completed only 14 of 46 tosses and did not connect for one touchdown. But, in a recent practice skirmish with Bucknell he completed four of his first six passes, two for TD's.

Jacoby, a converted center, has learned the art of pass catching with extreme efficiency and is one of Ross' favorite receivers. Gill, on the other hand, is a defensive bulwark.

AS A JUNIOR he played 228 minutes, more than any other end. He is being counted on because of his experience and fine defensive playing.

The Penn strength is a carbon copy of the Lion's. The ends are Coach Rip Engle's strongest line points. Jack Farls, Les Walters, Doug Mechling, and Romeo Panozzo are leading candidates for the wing spots.

WALTERS and Mechling may be Engle's choice for Saturday, but Farls, a regular last year, is sure to see as much action as the both of them. Panozzo, an offensive standout, will see plenty of action in that capacity.

Plum is the number one choice at quarterback and will definitely be at that position when kickoff time rolls around.

Game time is 1:30 p.m. (EDT).

Spahn Keeps Milwaukee On Top With 20th Win

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25 (AP)—Warren Spahn assured Milwaukee of holding the National League lead alone for at least 24 more hours as he won his 20th game 7-1 today behind a 15-hit attack that virtually snuffed out Cincinnati's pennant hopes. The 35-year-old lefthander became the third pitcher in the National League history to win 20 or more in seven seasons, a feat topped only by Christy Mathewson (13) and Grover Cleveland Alexander (9).

Spahn, a stylish veteran of the 1948 champion Boston Braves, drove in enough runs to win his own game with a two-run double to left center that chased 36-year-old Larry Jansen in the second.

The Braves, who awoke from their hitting slumber against the Chicago Cubs last weekend, whacked a steady array of Cincinnati throwers for 15 hits, including 4 doubles and a triple and left 13 on base. It was the Braves' highest hit total since they collected 16 against New York July 26.

Birdie Tebbetts' Redlegs needed only one home run to tie the Giants' all-time major league record of 221, set in 1947, but the best they could do was a total of six hits, all singles.

BOSTON, Sept. 25 (AP)—Ted Williams drove in four runs with his 24th homer and a bases-loaded walk but lost ground in the American League batting race today as the Boston Red Sox pummeled Washington 10-4.
