

Encampment Suggests Extra Hours in Future

By JUDY HARKISON

If the increasing enrollment at the University necessitates extra class hours, a Student Encampment workshop recommended the hours to be extended from noon to 1 p.m. and 5 to 6 p.m., and, as a last resort, night classes.

At the present time, however, the group saw no necessity to alter the present scheduling system.

Another recommendation was an investigation concerning the possibility of increasing the ten minute time allowance between classes. This was suggested because of the difficulty many students have in traveling from class to class.

Parking Fee Recommended

Considering the parking problem, the workshop, "Penn State's future," recommended that students and possibly faculty who own cars pay a small rental fee for a parking space. This fee, they said, would not only reserve a parking space but also help to ease the financial burden created by the expansion of facilities.

To preserve and strengthen campus unity among the student population, the group urged an intensification of the freshman customs program, the returning of customs enforcement to hat societies, and encouragement through the various colleges to unite and orient their specific groups.

Recommend Entrance Exams

Concerning admission policies, the group felt that an entrance examination should be required for all prospective students. Although this should be the major criterion for admission, they said, continued use should be made of high school class rank, counseling interviews, etc., as supplementary guides.

The workshop also discussed the problem of retaining a well qualified and stimulating faculty. In addition to raising salaries, they suggested the following:

1. Allowance of more time for personal research for self-betterment.
2. Better housing accommodations for self and family.
3. Closer spirit of cooperation between students and faculty, to be brought about through the student councils.

Air Transportation Discussed

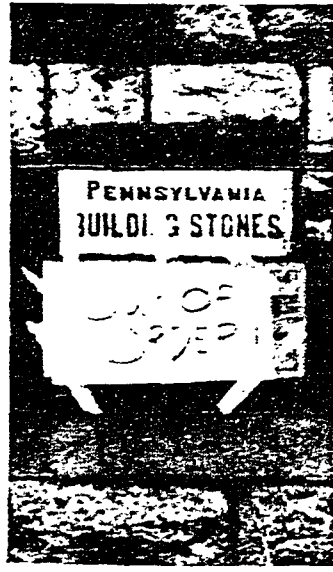

To utilize more fully the advantages of the University's residential situation, it was recommended that the University join State College in a concerted attempt to provide adequate air transportation in and out of the community.

The workshop also recommended that the University assume further responsibility for providing housing on a temporary basis for graduate students, new faculty and staff.

Two Students Placed On Disciplinary Probation

The Dean of Men's office yesterday accepted a recommendation by Tribunal that two sophomores be placed on disciplinary probation for the remainder of the academic year.

The students were accused of causing disturbances and damaging University property in a West Residence hall they visited on two separate occasions during Orientation Week.

Under disciplinary probation, a student may not participate in any extracurricular activity, but may continue to maintain membership in organizations without holding office or committee posts.

Notations will be placed on the students' records. According to the Tribunal recommendation, they may petition to have them removed at the end of the probationary period, if the probation has been satisfactory.

Case to Be Reviewed

The case will be reviewed by the Senate subcommittee on discipline of the Committee on Student Affairs. If the students appeal the case, they will be granted a hearing before the subcommittee.

The students, a mechanical engineering major and a mineral industries major, appeared before Tribunal Tuesday night.

According to a report of the dean of men's office, the two sophomores, with a third student, visited the residence hall where they lived last year, on September 10. They allegedly twice opened a room with a key kept from last year, threw a lighted cigarette into a counselor's room, and turned out room lights from a hall switchbox.

Returned September 12

According to the report, the three students returned September 12 to the same area with a fourth student. They reportedly twisted 10 towelracks in one of the washrooms and removed eight faucet handles from the building.

They confessed to drinking beer at a fraternity house before both incidents, according to the report, but said they were not influenced by the alcoholic beverages.

Duff, Clark Debate Predicted Doubtful

Chances for a debate at the University between Senator James F. Duff, Republican, and Joseph Clark, former Democratic mayor of Philadelphia, are slim, according to Ralph Volpe, president of Young Democratic Club.

The Young Democrats and Young Republicans are attempting to arrange the debate. Duff and Clark will face each other in the race for junior State Senator in November.

Volpe said neither man can agree on a definite date for the debate.

PhysEd Council May Provide Rink Teachers

The Physical Education Student Council decided to supply student ice skating instructors for the University Skating Rink if students can be found to give lessons voluntarily or at a slight reimbursement by the council.

The decision followed a discussion of ways of increasing interest in the rink. Elizabeth Elliott was appointed chairman and Jack Michel and Edwin Shellenberger were named members of a committee to find instructors.

2 More Appointed

Ann Farrell, president, also appointed Robert S. Hoover chairman, and Patricia Barnitz to a committee in charge of freshman council elections.

In further action, the council approved the constitution of the student Major Club.

Reports Requested

Michael Shapiro, editor of Discobolus, the physical education magazine, requested that a representative of each of the college organizations submit a report to him.

Phi Epsilon Kappa, physical education professional honorary, will hold its organizational meeting on Oct. 2 in Recreation Hall.

Smith Will Head HomeEc Group

Susanne Smith, junior in home economics from Bellefonte, has been named chairman of the Home Economics elections committee.

The committee, which will set up and regulate the election of freshman representatives to the council, has set no date for the elections.

Eleanor Judy, sophomore in home economics from Cochranville, Suzanne Scholl, senior in home economics from Glenshaw, and Roberta Brown, senior in home economics from Altoona, will serve on the committee.

The Woman's Recreation Association bowling club will hold an organizational meeting at 7 tonight in the bowling alleys in White Hall. The meeting is open to freshmen and upperclass women.

Campus Chest to Begin Drive

Campus Chest, an organization similar to nation-wide Community Chest groups, will conduct its annual solicitations campaign Nov. 12 to 16.

The card preference system, employed for the first time in last year's drive, will again be in effect. By use of this system, each student can designate for which of five charities he wants his contributions used.

The five charities which will benefit from this year's campaign include World University Service, American Heart Association, Pennsylvania Cerebral Palsy, American Cancer Society, and Penn State Student Scholarship Fund.

5 Chosen Will Aid Students

Robert Gellman, chairman, said these five charities were chosen because the committee felt they would benefit more University students for a greater length of time than other charities.

Gellman also said that a strong promotion and publicity campaign is being launched for the November drive to aid the committee in reaching its goal.

$1 Expected of Each Student
This year the committee hopes to receive $1 from each University student. The success of the drive, Gellman said, will determine if future campaigns will be conducted at the University.

The campaign is being divided into two main areas of concentration, direct solicitations and special events.

Top Greeks to Get Trophies

Present plans indicate that trophies will be awarded to the fraternity and sorority that collect the greatest amount of contributions per capita. Last year was the first time such presentations were made.

A booklet is currently being edited by Judith Harkison as to what campus chest is and an explanation of the charities that will be aided by the drive.

$3616.90 Netted Last Year

Last year's drive netted $3616.90 for campus chest including solicitations and special events. This was a sum considerably less than the proceeds from the 1954 campaign which amounted to $4160.00.

Gellman said that approximately 800 solicitors will be necessary for this year's drive. Members of Alpha Phi Omega and Gamma Sigma, service fraternity and sorority, will help in the drive as well as members of various hat societies.

19 Committee Members

Committee members in addition to Gellman include: Edward Long, tabulations; Lawrence McCabe, solicitations; Dennis McArver and Dorothy DeMay, special events; Paul Kaufman, advertising; David Allison, men's dormitories; John Bote, freshman men's dormitories; Barbara Hendel, women's dormitories; Katherine Dickson, Anne Nitrauer, and Jean Melvin, sororities; Jane Reid, town women; Glen Elder, Alpha Phi Omega; Esther Donovan, Gamma Sigma; Judith Harkison, booklet; Addy Macamer, World University Service; Thomas Hollander, fraternities; and Adam Crist, World University Service.

The committee will meet at 6:30 p.m. every Tuesday in 214 Hetzel Union until the drive gets underway.

Farrell to Be Guest Speaker At Convocation

Dr. M. A. Farrell, associate dean of the College of Agriculture and director of the Agricultural Experiment Station will be the principal speaker at the annual Convocation of the Graduate School at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

Dr. Luther Harshbarger, University chaplain, will give the invocation and Lawrence Dennis, University provost, will welcome new students to the University.

Following the Convocation an informal dance and mixer will be held in the Hetzel Union ballroom. Music will be provided by a full orchestra and refreshments will be served.

During the intermission the election of college representatives to the Graduate Student Association Council will be conducted.

The Convocation is designed to acquaint students with the objectives of the Graduate School and to meet with the faculty.
