

Players Will Stage Comedy as Opener

By PAT HUNTER

The opening Players' production of the season, the comedy success "My 3 Angels," will begin a six-week run Oct. 12 at Center Stage.

Written by Sam and Bella Spewack, authors of "Kiss Me Kate," "Boy Meets Girl," and other musical scripts, the play enjoyed a 43-week run on Broadway.

Ranz Gets Grant for Air Study

A grant of $39,000 has been received by Dr. William E. Ranz, professor of engineering research, from the U.S. Public Health Service to study certain mist and dust collection equipment and to measure its relative effectiveness and efficiency under varying conditions.

Prevention of Fumes
Dr. Ranz and his associates said they are convinced that the answer to air pollution lies in prevention of the escape of fumes and dust into the air. Thus their main interest is in studying machines and apparatus which are designed to collect the particles at the source in the industrial plant.

The main kind of removal equipment to be studied at the University is known as the "inertial separation" type.

This type works on the principle of driving the dirty gases around a sharp bend so that the heavier particles causing air pollution are thrown out onto a collecting surface.

Equipment Has Limitations
Dr. Ranz said there are certain limitations to this type of equipment since particles below a certain size pass through it.

One of the primary aims of the project is to develop practical and uniform test procedures which can be used in making comparative analyses among a large number of different types of mist and dust removal equipment.

Hillel to Offer Free Courses On Judaism

The Hillel Foundation has announced the fall semester's list of courses in Jewish studies to be offered to students, faculty, and townspeople without charge.

Five language courses will be given. They are: Hebrew reading, writing, and simple translation for beginners; conversational Hebrew; intermediate Hebrew; advanced Hebrew; and Yiddish language and conversation.

In addition, Rabbi Benjamin Kahn, director of the Foundation, will continue his course on Bible texts, lectures, and discussions of English texts and their meanings, beginning with Chapter 20 of the Book of Exodus.

A training course in Chanting of the Services will also be given.

The courses will be given once a week, to be determined on the basis of the schedule of registrants. Registration should be made by 1 p.m. Tuesday. Blanks may be obtained at the Hillel office, 224 Locust Lane.

From the following courses one other will be selected according to preference. The three possibilities are Basic Concepts of Judaism, a "Meet the Faculty" coffee hour, and a series on the State of Israel with films and speakers.

Concert Association To Begin Campaign

By GINNY PHILLIPS

The annual membership campaign of the State College Concert Association will begin with a kick-off meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday in dining rooms B and C of the Hetzel Union building.

The student campaign is headed by Mary Tassia, senior in arts and letters from York.

Student groups representing the association are: Association of Independent Men, Richard Davis and John Morgan; Leonides, Rosetta Kearney and Barbara John; Panhellenic Council, Mary Dorman and Mary Tassia; and Inter-Fraternity Council, Thurmond Larrick and John Kivala.

The campaign for members will begin Monday and will continue through the week unless the quota is subscribed before that time. Headquarters for the campaign will be established in the lobby of the Hetzel Union building.

The memberships will sell for $7, which will provide the subscriber with a ticket for the entire series. No tickets will be sold for individual concerts and there are no reserved seats.

Eileen Farrell, soprano with the San Francisco Opera Association, will open the series on Oct. 29 in Schwab Auditorium.

Other concerts already booked include the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra on Nov. 20 and the Westminster Choir on Feb. 20. It is expected that one or two other programs will be arranged after the close of the campaign.

Born in Willimantic, Conn., Miss Farrell has received all of her training in this country. She established herself as one of the great sopranos with her Carnegie Hall recital in 1950, and 61 solo performances followed in five separate engagements with the New York Philharmonic Society.

Miss Farrell has appeared on "The Telephone Hour" and other radio and television programs. "Interrupted Melody," the motion picture biography of Metropolitan Opera Soprano Marjorie Lawrence, featured Miss Farrell's voice on the sound track singing a virtuoso of arias and songs.

Miss Farrell became an opera star herself this year, debuting as Leonora in "Il Trovatore" with the San Francisco Opera Association.

Through the Looking Glass

by jan

Wasn't that awful about half holiday, but I did manage to get a ride to Penn after my Saturday morning eight o'clock. (I goofed at registration, couldn't get out of it.) I should arrive in Philadelphia in time for the game, if not, I'll definitely be there for the parties Saturday night.

Before I started packing, though, I went into Ethel's and browsed, as usual. Have you been there yet? It's really a fantastic place. I found the greatest little things for traveling (I've been thinking of Army, Ohio, or Syracuse—poor Saturday class.)

SHINE 'EM UP

That's just what it said on the round leather case—so I opened it. Shoe polish and a flannel cloth were inside. Just the right size for packing in the corner of a suitcase. There was another case there too. This one had a lambswool buffer on the outside and a shoe horn. Inside were the same utensils as in the smaller edition. A perfect gift for the happy wanderer who has everything.

BRUSH 'EM UP

Then a peculiar looking object caught my eye. At first I thought it was just a leather covered clothes brush. Then I saw the zipper. As usual, curiosity got the better of me, and I opened it to find a miniature toiletries kit—comb, nail clippers, scissors, file and tweezers. Beside it was a slightly larger version for men.

On my way out I noticed some cute, little plaid drawstring bags. I thought they would be just perfect for carrying beer pretzels to class. Was I surprised when I found leather scuffs with foamy plaid insoles (to match the bag). These are really "swish" even without a belt in the back. Oh, well, C'est la vie! Will just have to devise a new way to get those pretzels to class.

P.S. I'll be looking for you at Ethel's—I'm always browsing around.
