

Borough May Build All-Weather Airport

State College Borough Council took the first step toward giving this area a sorely-needed all-weather airport when it authorized formation of a borough airport authority Monday night.

Through the years, many groups—town and University—have studied the possibility of establishing an airport as the

3 Students Injured In Car Crash

Three University students were injured, one seriously, when a car in which they were riding, swerved into a ditch, overturned, and threw the trio clear Sunday night near Titusville.

A fourth student, jammed in the car, escaped uninjured.

Lynne Oberman, freshman in arts and letters from Titusville, suffered a minor fractured skull and facial bruises. Bernard Magdovitz, freshman in business administration from Titusville, and owner of the car, was treated at Titusville Hospital for a bruised shoulder, while Susan Chapman, freshman in education from New York City was x-rayed for a possible fractured thumb.

The students were taken to the hospital by friends.

The hospital immediately released Martin Scherr, freshman in chemical engineering from Yardley, who was driving the car. Scherr was the only student who was not thrown from the car.

According to Scherr, the group had left Tionsta for Titusville, and were traveling on route 227.

The road was slippery because of early evening dew, Scherr said, and the car skidded off the road as he drove around an unfamiliar curve. After running into the ditch, it rolled over once, and landed right side up, he added.

Scherr, Miss Chapman, and Magdovitz have been released from the hospital. Miss Oberman was admitted. She is scheduled to leave in approximately two weeks.

Dry Weather Seen Today

It's going to be a little cooler than yesterday, but not cold enough to get out the winter clothing as yet.

According to the University weather station, it will be cool and dry, despite the possibility of showers last night.

A high of 65 to 70 degrees is predicted for today. Last night's low was 40 to 45 degrees.

It's all pretty confusing to the Nittany Lion, but he's going to relax and enjoy it while it lasts. "Who knows," he thinks, "maybe there will be a blizzard tomorrow."

Lion Party Posts To Be Assigned

Appointments for the school year will be made at the Lion party steering committee meeting at 2 p.m. Sunday in 217 Willard.

The Committee will also set up the party structure for the coming fall elections. Byron LaVan, party clique chairman, said yesterday there is a possibility some of the organizational structures may be revised.

solution to this area's transportation problem. All sent up a cry for an airport, but that's as far as the groups got.

At present, the only direct way of reaching the town is by car. The nearest airport is at Tyrone, while the trains leave passengers at Lewistown—the remaining 30 miles to be travelled by bus.

The council's action cleared the way for the borough solicitor to start the paperwork for the Authority.

Letter Received

The action came after receipt of a letter from Philip J. Freed, Raymond and Brown, Inc. vice president, which urged a "renewed effort to obtain a modern, all-weather, 24-hour-a-day airport."

Freed suggested the Authority would be charged with establishing and operating an airport for State College and Bellefonte. The funds, he said, would probably be available from both state and federal sources for the improvement of an airport, once it is established.

University Included

While speaking of funds, Freed included the University in future plans for the airport. It is possible, he said, that the University might be in a position to offer "a variety of assists." He did not say whether he thought the assistance should be financial.

In return, Freed said, the University could make use of the airport's facilities in its aeronautical engineering, agricultural and other curricula, in addition to providing a location for its Reserve Officers Training Corps training.

"The growth of the University, the expansion of the community with its many modern industries, and the continued advances made by aviation," Freed said, "indicate a great need for a new airport at a location which would not endanger the growing residential sections of the community."

23 Violators Fined By Traffic Court

Traffic Court assessed a total of $73 in fines Monday night.

Nineteen persons appeared before the court. They were fined a total of $55.

Failure to register vehicles resulted in fines totaling $40. Traffic and parking violation fines amounted to $15.

Four students were automatically fined a total of $18. They lost their right to appeal by failing to appear before the court.

Homecoming Photos Due

Homecoming Queen photographs are due by 5 p.m. today at the Hetzel Union desk.

Social Pro Asked For SAE; 4 Fined

By BOB FRANKLIN

The Interfraternity Council Board of Control last night fined four fraternities a total of $135 and recommended to the subcommittee on discipline of the Senate Committee on Student Affairs that one, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, be placed on social probation for three weeks.

The other fraternities are Alpha Chi Rho, Tau Phi Delta, and Alpha Epsilon Pi. Sigma Alpha Epsilon was found guilty of pledging a man without a 2.0 average last

—Daily Collegian Photo by Chuck Zandt

UNIVERSITY OFFICIALS and guests take time for a chat during an orientation meeting of the University trustees yesterday in the Nittany Lion Inn. Enjoying the "Seventh Inning Stretch" are, left to right, State Secretary of Agriculture William L. Henning; Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of the University; Dr. Charles Boehm, a guest of the trustees; and Richardson Dilworth, mayor of Philadelphia. The trustees will meet again during Homecoming, Oct. 12.

'Low Grade' Writing Hurts Marks, Survey Discovers

It might be a good idea to get a typewriter. That is if you want to get ahead in those courses that require a lot of writing, a survey shows.

The survey indicated that "low grade" handwriting may be the cause of some failures in college courses, according to The New York Times.

It showed that no matter how objective the average professor tries to be in marking papers, a good measure of hostility against students with illegible or messy handwriting inevitably creeps into the professional outlook.

Unconscious Penalties Cited Also, such writing will result in unconscious penalties against the student.

The survey assessed teacher attitudes toward handwriting in colleges and universities in all parts of the country.

All teachers agreed that they are inevitably annoyed at the person who hands in sloppy looking work, and said their attitude was definitely affected.

An assistant professor of medicine at Northwestern said: "Teachers tend to become impatient with illegible scrawls and, despite due diligence, they may miss meanings of paragraphs and sentences as a result of such impatience."

A professor of psychology at Harvard said, "Handwriting is getting worse—I have a hard time reading my own."

LA Student Worst According to the survey, the liberal arts student is the worst offender in the matter of handwriting. The business, journalism, and law schools are more strict in their handwriting requirements.

In the liberal arts college or university, however, the undergraduate level of writing causes real professional anguish.

semester, a violation of Section 3, Article 3 of the IFC Rushing Code.

The board fined Sigma Alpha Epsilon $50 and recommended that the probation extend from midnight Thursday to midnight October 25.

If the Senate subcommittee approves the probation recommendation against Sigma Alpha Epsilon, no social functions whatsoever may be held at the house.

Alpha Chi Rho was fined $35 for late pledge registration. The fraternity failed to turn in names of pledges due last semester until this semester, Richard Shillinger, board of control chairman, said.

Two Fined $25

Both Tau Phi Delta and Alpha Epsilon Pi were fined $25 and placed on Board of Control probation for four weeks for failure to have two men on door duty Saturday night.

Under Board of Control probation, the fraternities will be subject to greatly intensified observation during the probation period, and any further violation of the rushing code will be considered in cases arising during the period.

Guilty on All Charges Shillinger said last night all four fraternities were found guilty of all the charges brought before them by the board.

The cases were the first to be tried by the board this year.

If the senate subcommittee approves the social probation recommendation, it will be the first such action since that taken last semester against three fraternities which failed to make a 2.0 average.

Traffic Problem Will Be Aired By AIM Board

The Association of Independent Men Board of Governors will vote tonight on an executive committee recommendation that a campus patrolman be placed at the intersection of Entrance and Pollock Roads.

AIM will meet at 8 tonight in 203 Hetzel Union.

The executive committee made the recommendation Monday night following a request by Melvin Weaver, Nittany Council president.

The committee recommended that a patrolman be placed at the intersection during the hours of 8 a.m. noon, and 5 p.m.

Presenting the motion before Nittany Council, Weaver described the three hours as "rush hours."

In other legislation, the board will vote on approval for the AIM dance band of a statement of policy containing two major revisions.

The revised statement permits AIM and its councils, West Halls, Nittany, Pollock, and TIM to schedule a maximum of five dances at their own request.

UBA Will Begin Return Of Book Sale Proceeds

The Used Book Agency will return money for sold books this week in the television room of the Hetzel Union Building.

The UBA is open from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Stevenson Levels Sharp Attack at Ike

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Oct. 2 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson accused President Dwight D. Eisenhower tonight of four years of "words without action whenever human interests are at stake."

Stevenson delivered a sharp-shooting attack on Eisenhower and a scattershot attack on the Republican party to climax a day which saw the presidential race turn a big corner.

Eisenhower's "wicked nonsense" crack at the Democrats brought Stevenson out, gloves off and catch as catch can. To be called nonsense was one thing, Stevenson said, but to be labeled wicked was another.

At a rally on the historic green of Morristown, N.J., Stevenson said:

"I am afraid that this is becoming part of the political looseness, that previously was identified with the vice presidential candidate (Richard Nixon) who always talks about the opponents in terms of 'appeasement' and 'communism' and 'treachery' and words like that. I do hope the vice presidential taste for extreme and loose language is not becoming contagious."

Aides said Stevenson's strategy has been to "get Eisenhower off his pedestal" so their man can slug toe-to-toe with him on the issues. Eisenhower gave them the chance yesterday at Cleveland when he said Democratic claims that only Democratic care for the working man were "wicked nonsense."

It was disclosed meanwhile that Stevenson had bought 15 minutes of nationwide television time on the CBS television network to answer Eisenhower's Cleveland address. Stevenson will speak on TV at 10 p.m., EST, tomorrow from Johnstown, Pa.