BROOKLYN, Oct. 3 (AP)—Ancient Sal Maglie, culled from the scrap heap to pitch Brooklyn to a pennant, finally won a world series game at the age of 39 today, striking out 10 New York Yankees for a 6-3 opening victory with the aid of homers by Gil Hodges and Jackie Robinson.

Two Sophs Placed on Probation

The subcommittee on discipline of the Senate Committee on Student Affairs has approved a recommendation by Tribunal that two sophomores be placed on disciplinary probation for the remainder of the academic year.

However, the subcommittee decided that the students will have to wait until their eighth semester to petition for removal of notations from their records. Tribunal recommended they be permitted to ask for the removal at the end of the probationary period.

The students were accused of causing disturbances and damaging University property in a West Residence hall they visited on two separate occasions during Orientation Week. The case went before Tribunal Sept. 25.

The students, a mechanical engineering major and a mineral industries major, were also ordered to make restitution to the University for the damaged property, which amounted to approximately $14, according to the office of the dean of men.

Under disciplinary probation, a student may not participate in any extracurricular activity, but may continue to maintain membership in organizations without holding office or committee positions.

While President Eisenhower and members of his Cabinet watched from a box near the Dodger dugout, Sal came through in the clutches. Although nicked for nine hits, the crafty curve ball artist from Niagara Falls, N.Y., had his strikeout pitch when it was needed.

As the crowd of 34,479 stood and cheered while the President left, waving to the stands, the name of Maglie still was on the lips of all.

Remarkable Sight

It was a remarkable sight for those who remembered the years when Maglie, the New York Giants' "Barber," was the most hated man in Brooklyn.

All through the sunny, cool afternoon the Dodger bullpen toiled diligently. First it was Don Bessent, then Clem Labine and finally both of them in the seventh, eighth and ninth. Although Manager Walter Alton twice visited the mound to confer with Maglie, who had thrown a no-hitter at the Phillies Sept. 25, he stuck with Sal.

Starts on Shocking Note

Maglie's greatest day started on a shocking note. Mickey Mantle slugged a two-run homer over the right field wall in the first inning. Except for another homer by Billy Martin in the fourth, Maglie shut out the favored American League champions.

Three times he threw the third strike past Gil McDougald, the Yankee shortstop, and he fanned two of Manager Casey Stengel's pinch hitters, George Wilson and Joe Collins.

Mantle Doubled Up

To end the game with a flourish, Maglie made Mantle hit into a double play that brought the Dodgers rushing to the hill to pump his hand and slap him on the back.

Sal has been sharper with his curve and his fast one had had more smoke but never did it mean more. This was his first series success.

Elections Group To Air Finances; Reschedule Voting

The financial status of political parties and a change in fall elections dates will be discussed by the All-University Elections committee at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in 218 Hetzel Union.

The amendment, with other recommendations passed, will be presented to All-University Cabinet for final approval before insertion into the Code.

The fall freshman-sophomore election dates were previously set Nov. 1 and 2. However, the committee has since learned that because of national elections, Nov. 12 will be the earliest date that voting machines can be obtained.

Adlai Hits Ike's 'Misstatement'

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 3 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson tonight accused President Dwight D. Eisenhower of a "gross misstatement of the record" in saying the Republicans should be credited for enlarging the Social Security program.

The Democratic presidential nominee said Eisenhower made the statement in a campaign speech Monday at Cleveland. "I am sure he is an honorable man," Stevenson added, "and could hardly have deliberately intended the misrepresentations which his speech included."

Stevenson's television appearance was part of his swing through Pennsylvania in a bid for the state's 32 electoral votes.

He said he was happy to accept Eisenhower's challenge of Monday that the election will hinge on the question of which party had done more in recent years to help all the people meet their everyday problems.

"If the record is to be the test," Stevenson said, "let's get the record straight."

Stevenson's latest criticism of Eisenhower came in a speech prepared for a nationally televised broadcast. Stevenson had hastily prepared the broadcast in what his aides said was a "long-range debate" with the President.

Stevenson said the "fact is" that the Social Security program "was developed by Democrats against bitter Republican opposition."
