

AIM Joins Protest To Parking Ban

The Association of Independent Men Board of Governors last night endorsed a Interfraternity Council resolution protesting a 2 to 6 a.m. State College parking ban to become effective Nov. 1.

Presenting the endorsement, Harry Martini, junior class president, said the ban will involve approximately 60 streets.

If the ban becomes effective, Martini said, students will have to move automobiles to other parking places between 2 and 6 a.m.

Ban Reasons Given

The borough, he said, passed the ban to facilitate street cleaning, ice removal in the winter, and possible fire congestion.

Martini said as parking lot spaces become filled, parking lot owners will raise prices to students.

Robert Seyler, AIM freshman car screening committee chairman, said if the ban goes into effect the borough will be throwing the parking problem at the University.

University Said Aiding

He said one of the reasons the University bans freshman cars is to alleviate the parking problem in the borough.

In other legislation, the board approved a policy statement containing two major revisions for the AIM band.

The AIM band will play a maximum of five engagements each year for AIM and its councils, West Halls, Nittany, Pollock, and TIM at their own request.

Will Cost $35

The five engagements will cost the councils $35 each.

AIM and its councils may schedule other dances with the band but at a cost of $150 each.

Seyler said the revision enables band members to earn additional money playing weekends at other engagements.

Last year, he said, band members were forced to cancel previous engagements to perform for the councils often at very short notice.

Another revision provides for the creation of an AIM dance committee to handle all business, scheduling, and records for the band.

Engagements will be scheduled at least a month in advance, Seyler said.

Nominations To Be Held By Parties

The fall elections program will get under way Sunday when both Lion and Campus parties open nominations for class and clique officers during the first general meeting.

The meetings will be held at 7 p.m. with Lion party in 121 Sparks and Campus party in 10 Sparks.

At the Lion meeting, students may nominate themselves for freshman, sophomore, junior and senior clique officers in the party, and freshman and sophomore class officers.

Class Clique Officers

Class clique officers will be elected at the second general meeting tentatively slated for Oct. 14. At the third meeting, Oct. 21, the party's candidates for freshman and sophomore class officers will be named.

To be eligible to vote for the slate of class officers, a student must attend one of the two previous meetings, Byron LaVan, clique chairman, said yesterday.

No Stuffed Ballot

"This will eliminate the possibility of a stuffed ballot box," he said, "because students won't be able to walk into the meeting at random and vote."

Campus party Sunday night will hold nominations and elections for class clique officers and preliminary nominations for freshman and sophomore class officers.

Thomas Hollander, clique chairman, said that attendance is mandatory for final voting on candidates.

PhysEd Students Plan Convocation

Competitive games, volleyball, ping pong, baseball, and soccer are planned for the afternoon's events. A picnic supper will be served.

2800 View Courses by Television

Approximately 2800 students are being taught 10 regular courses by television this semester in Sparks.

About the same number were enrolled last semester in regular televised courses. Leslie P. Greenhill, associate director of the instructional research project, has announced.

10 Courses Listed

The 10 courses being given by television and the number of students in each course include: Psychology 2, 392; Psychology 17, 170; Music 5, 260; Education 1, 172; Sociology 1, 169; German 1, 81; Economics 2, 185; Accounting 1, 220; Political Science 3, 266; and Air Science, 810 (both sections.)

The group taking air science is the largest taught at the same time by television, with 540 students in one of the two sections.

Addition Time Reserved

In addition to these 10 courses, time is being reserved for the occasional use of television facilities for journalism, drama, and archaeology courses. Greenhill said.

Two other courses, chemistry and electrical engineering, will probably use television occasionally for demonstrations, it was announced.

The enrollment figures for these courses are not included in the total number of students in television courses because the extent the facilities will be used for chemistry and electrical engineering has not yet been determined.

Committee Sets Up Year-Long Program For Campus Chest

A long-range series of events to extend for the entire school year is being planned by Campus Chest committee members.

The focal spot of the Chest's activities is the solicitations drive scheduled for Nov. 12 to 16.

Proceeds from the drive will be contributed to World University Service, American Heart Association, Pennsylvania Cerebral Palsy, American Cancer Society, and Penn State Student Scholarship Fund.

The charities were chosen because they would probably affect more University students over a greater period of time than other organizations, Robert Gellman, chairman, said.

Trophies To Be Awarded

Trophies will be awarded to the fraternity, sorority, and individual solicitor who collects the greatest amount of money per capita.

The American Heart Association, American Cancer Society and World University Service have been contacted to aid in planning advertising campaigns for the drive.

The committee currently plans to have one solicitor contact 15 University students. A solicitations meeting will be held Nov. 7 and 8 in the Hetzel Union ballroom to outline the Campus Chest program to the solicitors and to teach them techniques in approaching students.

In previous years, the annual contributions campaigns have been the main source of revenue for the Campus Chest. This year, Gellman said, the committee is planning a more diversified schedule of events.

Suggestions Received at Meeting

Suggestions received at a Tuesday night meeting for year-round projects included open house at fraternities with admission being charged, poster contests, "Mile of Dimes," in downtown State College or on the Mall, films, and girls, serving as waitresses at fraternities.

A traveling agent from the World University Service is scheduled to speak to Campus Chest personnel during the next few weeks.

It was suggested that graduate students who are living in dormitories be contacted for contributions during the solicitations drive.

Solicitation from town women will be collected by Gamma Sigma, national service sorority. The town women program is in charge of Janet Reid, Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will solicit contributions from town men.
