

Up-Lifted Dodgers Turn Yanks' Error Into Rally; Win Second Game, 13-8

BROOKLYN, Oct. 5 (AP)—The aroused Brooklyn Dodgers staged the greatest winning rally in a World Series game since the 1929 Philadelphia A's today to erase a six-run deficit and whipe the pitching-poor New York Yankees 13-8 for their second straight Series victory.

Trailing 6-0 after Yogi Berra's grand slam homer in the second, the Dodgers thrilled 36,217 Ebbets Field fans with a six-run spurt in the second, capped by Duke Snider's 10th Series homer with two on. Joe Collins' costly error on a potential double play ball opened the gates.

Yanks Used Seven Pitchers

While Manager Casey Stengel paraded seven pitchers to the mound for a record in the longest nine-inning Series game ever played, the Dodgers went on to win on a pair of two-run doubles by quiet Gil Hodges. Junior Gilliam's two-run single in the eighth completed the rout of the proud Yanks.

Records fluttered from the press box microphone like leaves from a stricken oak during the wild ball game that packaged a weird mixture of base hits, walks and errors. When the last out was recorded, three hours and 26 minutes after the start, many of the customers already were on the way back to their warm hotel rooms.

Storied Rally Told

As the Brooks rallied in the second, greybeards of the press coop recalled the storied rally by the Athletics who came up with 10 runs in the seventh inning Oct. 12, 1929 to overcome an 8-0 Chicago Cub lead. That game, 27 years ago, was the famous contest in which Hack Wilson lost Mule Haas' fly ball in the sun for a three-run homer.

With the exception of Don Besant, the Dodgers' talented reliever who became the winning pitcher after big Don Newcombe was chased, the pitchers involved should hang their heads and go stand in the corner. Never have so many accomplished so little.

Snider's tenth Homer

Those who search Series games for heroes can have their choice. Snider broke his own National League Series record by hitting his tenth homer, tying Lou Gehrig among the all-time greats. Only Babe Ruth's 15 in ten Series tops it. And this is only the Duke's fifth Series.

Approval Sought On Flash Cards

System Pushed For Saturday; Frosh to Flash

By HANNAH YASHAN

The University may finally get its long-planned flash-card system for home football games.

Hat society Council voted unanimously Thursday night to support and administer such a system.

John Kersh, Hat Society Council president, said the council hopes to put the system into effect for the Holy Cross game next Saturday.

The plan must be approved by Harold R. Gilbert, assistant director to the athletic business manager, before the system goes into effect. Gilbert was not available for comment last night.

Merle Brooks, Scrolls member, and Sally Jervis, Cwens member, are in charge of drawing up the plans for the system.

Three hundred-four freshmen volunteers, seated in the middle of the freshman section, will perform the tricks. Each person will have a card.

These cards will be navy blue on one side and white on the other. The directions will be written on the cards.

For the first game or two the tricks will consist only of words and phrases, such as "Roar Lions Roar." After the students become more experienced, comic tricks will be used.

Freshman volunteers will meet at 6:45 Thursday in 121 Sparks. An explanation and practice session will be held at that time. A second and final practice will be held just prior to game time on Oct. 13.

Hat Society members will have charge of leading the freshmen. Four members from each Society will act as ushers and directors of the system at the games.

Hat Society member volunteers will meet at 8:15 Tuesday in 233 Sparks to discuss actual working plans.

THE SPARKS TV sets are popular things these World Series days

ICCB Sets Oct. 30, 31 Voting Dates

In a reversal of its earlier decision to set no date for fall student council elections, the Inter-Collegiate Conference Board decided Thursday night the elections should be held Oct. 30 and 31.

The change was made because the board members said they felt a uniform election date would eliminate needless confusion for students as well as for the councils.

No Date Originally

The original plan was to allow each of the nine college councils to set its own election date. This would have freed the councils from constitutional provisions requiring them to elect representatives on a date set by the board.

Some of the councils have no such provisions, and have always been free to act independently. If no date had been set, all the councils would have had equal freedom to schedule elections.

More Students May Vote

After further consideration of this plan, the board decided the councils would benefit more from holding elections at the same time than from being allowed to set their own election date. An increased percentage of students voting and better understanding of council functions are expected to result, Donald Patterson, ICCB president, said.

ICCB is still planning to set a date for spring council elections.

The board is made up of the presidents of the nine college student councils, and is designed to work on All-University Cabinet projects and keep in contact with the classes and the hat societies.

Fraternity Man Will Be Elected Soph President

The affiliation of the sophomore class president this year will be fraternity with the vice president independent, the All-University Elections Committee decided last night.

Both freshman candidates will be independents. The Committee approved the affiliations. However, they are subject to the approval of the party clique chairman.

Election Dates Set

Election dates will be Nov. 14 and 15 with the polls open both days from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The election was previously set Nov. 1 and 2 but, due to the conflict of national elections, voting machines were not available.

Campaigns will officially begin midnight, Nov. 4. Posters containing pictures of candidates, to be displayed at the polls, will be due Nov. 13.

Elections Committee will review party platforms Oct. 14. William Johnson, chairman, said that parties will be unable to use platforms if they are not completed and submitted by that date.

Committee to Meet

The committee will meet with the clique chairman the night before elections and also the night the polls close to answer a ny questions, clarify the Elections Code, or hear any complaint of code violations.

Elections Committee will meet at 6 p.m. tomorrow in 121 Sparks.

Public Can View Series in Sparks

For the first time, the television facilities in Sparks are being thrown open to present a regular telecast: the World Series baseball games.

The viewing rooms will be open from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. today, and from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Seven rooms, with a total capacity of 400, have been scheduled for use. They are 1, 2, 10, 11, 12, 18, and 19. Other rooms will be opened if necessary.

The telecasts will be open to the public without charge.

Alum Fund Ranks First in Country In Contributions

The University Alumni Fund has been ranked first in the nation among colleges and universities in the amount of money received last year.

Contributions to the 1955 Centennial Alumni Fund from 12,134 alumni associations totaled $234,196.79.

Twenty-eight per cent of the associations solicited contributed to the fund. The University was ranked tenth in the nation in the number of contributors.

Contributions received through the Alumni Fund are used for projects for which money from other sources is not available.

Cabinet Discusses Grant To Aid Foreign Student

All-University Cabinet may sponsor a room and board scholarship enabling a foreign student to attend the University next year for one academic year.

The proposal was presented to the group at Thursday night's meeting by Barbara Hendel, National Student Association representative. After discussion the request, Cabinet postponed action until Thursday night's meeting.

Miss Hendel told Cabinet the University gives eight scholarships a year—totaling $580 apiece—to foreign students. "I have been assured," she said, "that if we vote a scholarship for room and board for one student, the University will see that he gets one of the $580 scholarships for tuition and fees."

She told the group a room and board scholarship would total approximately $700.

The proposed scholarship would coincide with NSA's Foreign Student Leadership Project. This project, Miss Hendel said, realizes that leadership is at a premium in many foreign countries. If a student could come to this country, take part in student government at one of our Universities, and then report back to his country, she said, he would be able to supply some of the needed leadership for his country.

Aimed at interesting foreign students who have or can be reasonably expected to have positions or responsibilities which command the respect of the other members of their community, the project is subsidized by a $128,000 grant to NSA by the Ford Foundation.

Although the students' tuition, fees, room and board would be furnished by the University and Cabinet, his travelling expenses would be furnished by NSA.

Miss Hendel told the group the foreign student would have to pay for books and clothes. Following the foreign student proposal, Cabinet members were told they would meet at 1:15 today in back of Old Main to take the sorority presidents to the University Christian Association cabin for an informal discussion.

Court Decision Upheld On Seven Newspapermen

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5 (AP)—Pennsylvania's Supreme Court today upheld contempt of court convictions of seven newspapermen for violating a photo ban and said a court's dignity and orderly administration of justice take precedent over freedom of the press.

"Whether or not freedom of the press is immaterial since such freedom is subject to reasonable rules seeking maintenance of the court's dignity and orderly administration of justice," wrote Justice John C. Arnold in a majority opinion.

The newsmen were convicted for taking photos of convicted turnpike slayer John Wesley Wable in a corridor of the Westmoreland County Courthouse at Greensburg, Pa., despite a court order banning the taking of photos in courtrooms or in corridors within 40 feet of the entrance to a courtroom. Wable, who has since been executed, was photographed as he was led through a corridor toward a courtroom for sentencing.

Justice Michael A. Musmanno filed the only full dissent to the court's decision, saying "the Supreme Court has struck a stinging blow against freedom of the press."

Justice John C. Bell Jr. filed a concurring and dissenting opinion, saying photos were properly banned in courtrooms, entrances to courtrooms and jails but not in corridors.

Each newsman had been fined and given a five-day jail term by the Westmoreland Court. The Supreme Court set aside the jail sentences but imposed the fines.

Those convicted were publishers William Block of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and David W. Mack of the Greensburg Tribune-Review, editor Andrew Bernhard of the Post-Gazette, Photographers Don Bindyke and James Klingensmith of the Post-Gazette, reporter Vince Johnson of the Post-Gazette and Robert Purdy, a Pittsburgh photographer employed by the Tribune-Review.

Bock, Mack and Bernhard each was fined $500. The others were fined $100 apiece.
