More Volts To Be Used On Campus

Because of an increase in the use of electricity on campus, a complete new higher voltage system is now being installed.

The increased usage of electrical equipment has been causing temporary power failures since the beginning of the semester in Sparks Building, and during the past two weeks in Grange dormitory and the Infirmary.

According to T. B. Kneen, head of the division of utilities, a changeover to a high voltage system is in its preliminary phases.

To Be Completed in Spring
When finished, at the end of the spring semester, the system will be able to carry more voltage through the power lines and it will meet the new growth which is too large for the present equipment.

"We are trying to time the changeover so that necessary power shutoffs will occur at the end of the semesters; however, there will be some isolated cases," Kneen said.

In connection with the process, the transformer vault situated under the Mall supplies electricity to Carnegie Hall, Sparks Building and Burroughs Building, will be completely rebuilt.

Cost Is $90,000
Equipment arrived yesterday and work will start in the near future. Interruptions will be timed to give minimum inconvenience.

The cost of the entire process, which includes changes of nearly all component parts of the present system, has been estimated at $90,000.

This general strengthening of electrical equipment, with anticipation of the new building plans on campus, is also carried out in other divisions of the physical plant, which include the central heating plant, extension of sewerage, and the recently completed water tower.

Cattle Judging Team Takes Second Place

The University dairy cattle judging team won second place at the International Intercollegiate Dairy Cattle Judging contest yesterday in Chicago.

Sixteen colleges and universities were entered in the contest, which was won by the University of Kentucky with 2076 points. The University team had 2014 points. Iowa State finished third with 2006 points.

The University team was first in judging Holsteins, third in Jerseys, sixth in Guernseys, eighth in Brown Swiss, and ninth in Ayrshires.

In individual judging, Earl Berger, senior in dairy science from Leighton, won third place in Holsteins.

Gordon Miller, junior in dairy science from Clarks Summit, was fourth in Jerseys and ninth in Holsteins.

Neil Bowen, senior in dairy science from Wellsboro, finished seventh in judging all breeds, and was eighth in Brown Swiss, and tenth in Ayrshires.

Frosh Posts Open For LA Council

Freshmen may obtain self-nomination blanks for the Liberal Arts Student Council until noon Oct. 20 in 132 Sparks.

The election will be held Oct. 30 and 31 in Sparks lobby. Six positions on council are open to freshmen.

Second semester freshmen with a 2.5 All-University average are also eligible to run for a freshman office.

Nominees may hand in a wallet-sized picture of themselves, along with a list of major high school activities, before noon Oct. 20. Their names and the list of activities should be on the back of the picture.

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, and in sorority suites by Gamma Sigma, national service sorority.

The alumni contributions received in each house and suite during the weekend will be tabulated with fraternity and sorority collections in competition for the trophies.

Committee to Present Trophies
The Campus Chest committee will present trophies to the fraternity and sorority that collect the greatest amount of money per capita and to the individual solicitor in dormitories or downtown living units who collects the most money.

The annual four-day solicitations campaign will be held from Nov. 12 to Nov. 16.

The committee is sponsoring a poster contest for sororities, fraternities, and independent dormitory living units.

Winners of the poster contests in the above categories will receive points toward the trophy awards.

Unlimited Poster Entries
Any group may submit as many entries as it wishes to the Hetzel Union desk until Nov. 2, the deadline for the contest.

Robert Gellman, Campus Chest chairman, said that trophies will be judged according to those which best exemplify the aims, ideas, and goals of the Campus Chest.

WUS Secretary Speaks
Paul S. Dennis, regional secretary of World University Service, briefed committee members last night on techniques and methods of handling solicitors.

He advised the committee to hand-pick its solicitors, coach them on their tasks to prospective contributors, and instill in them conviction and belief in the cause for which they are working.

Proceeds from this year's drive will be used for the American Heart Association, American Cancer Society, World University Service, Pennsylvania Cerebral Palsy Association, and Penn State Scholarship Fund.

Correction: Sororities

Alpha Epsilon Phi, Sigma Delta Tau, and Phi Sigma Sigma will not hold open house for rushees today as was erroneously reported in the Daily Collegian. Open house will be held in these sororities tomorrow.

The Ivy Look...

Many of our customers ask us just what constitutes the "Ivy Look" ... our answer is that the Ivy influence stems from the traditional apparel worn by the men of the Ivy league schools.

For years these men have worn the button-down collar shirts, slacks with half-belt in the back, muted or charcoal tone in suiting, combined with an air of studied casualness.

Now ... CHARLES has taken a page from the Ivy book and adapted it especially for the girl who wants to look her best.
