WATCH THAT SOCCER TEAM!

The University knows it's gifted with one of the top teams in intercollegiate sporting circles when it discusses soccer, but do the students here know that? No.

Why? There are many reasons and most of them stem from the lack of soccer activity in high schools. Most students entering the University have never seen a soccer match let alone know what the game is about, and consequently the Lion soccer team suffers from lack of fans.

In the past four years student interest concerning the soccer team has increased a hundred-fold, but it still is apathetic to see only a few hundred fans watching one of the top teams in the country performing on the Beaver Field soccer turf.

This Saturday Coach Ken Hosterman's soccer champs host Syracuse, and it would be both wise and sort of patriotic to head for Beaver Field and watch the team in action. Wise in a sense that soccer is a growing sport in the United States and the top sport in Europe, and would brighten the students' sporting mind to the fact that there are other exciting and interesting sports besides football, baseball, basketball, etc.

The game is scheduled so that it will not interfere with the football game in the afternoon. It will be played at 10 in the morning, so the only excuse students have of missing the game is Saturday classes.

So far this season the Lions have won one game and tied one. The tie, with West Chester, stopped their consecutive winning streak at 19. But this doesn't mean that the Lions are not up to par. Quite the contrary.

West Chester has one of the top teams in the country and beating the Lions is its biggest thrill of the year.

Hosterman said that his team was outplayed during most of the game at West Chester, but still thinks it is potentially one of the best clubs he has coached.

The 31-year old coach, second youngest coach at the University (lacrosse coach Ernie Boer is the youngest) should know. He has compiled a phenomenal record since taking over in 1953. In the past three seasons his teams scored 22 wins and lost only twice. And added to this year's record it emerges as one of the best records of any intercollegiate sport in the country—23-2-1.

Twice—1954-55—his teams have been named national champions, last year it was co-champion along with Brockport State Teachers College of New York.

And almost every year one of his players is honored on the All-America selections. Last season it was Dick Packer who made it for the second straight year. The year before Jack Pinezich was chosen and if you totaled all the players who made All-American since the sport began here you arrive at the fantastic number of 39.

I could go on listing record after record, telling of the amazing achievements of the soccer team, but the only way the students will find out how good the team is, is to get to Beaver Field and see them.

You will see both foreign and American players balancing the ball on their toes, passing to each other with the grace of a gymnast, and banging the ball in the net with their head. It is something that is difficult to write about, but something to watch.

Coed Hockey Tilt Called In WRA Play

Team 'C', comprised of Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Kappa Alpha Theta, and team 'D', comprised of Beta Sigma Omicron, Delta Zeta, and Delta Gamma played to a forfeit scoreless tie in the Women's Recreation Association intramural field hockey league yesterday afternoon.

Team 'C' won the forfeit because team 'D' didn't have enough players.

An alphabetical system is being used to designate the coed intramural field hockey teams that are comprised of three sororities.

Ten teams are in the league but 18 separate groups are represented.

The 'A' team includes Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Delta and Sigma Sigma Sigma.

The 'B' team includes Zeta Tau Alpha, Alpha Omicron Pi, and Delta Delta Delta.

Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Kappa Alpha Theta make up team 'C'.

Beta Sigma Omicron, Delta Zeta, and Delta Gamma make up team 'D'.

The remaining six teams are Atherton, Thompson, Little Lions, Elm Cottage, McAllister, and Women's Building.

Bums Even Series; Down Yanks in 10th

It was the first time a series game had gone 0-0 for nine innings since 1913 when the New York Giants scored three in the 10th to beat the Philadelphia A's 3-0. And it was the first extra inning struggle since the opener of the Giants-Cleveland series in 1954.

Time after time the Yankees threatened to get Labine but they never could get the base hit they needed. Only once, when Hank Bauer and Joe Collins singled with two out in the third, did any of their seven hits come in the same inning.

Labine, a bullpen artist all year, started only three games during the regular season and finished but one.

The 6-foot right-hander from Woonsocket, R.I., had worked in 62 games for the Brooks in their drive to the pennant but was making his first World Series start. He had appeared in eight previous series contests on relief.

The Yanks got two men on base in the third and sixth, each time with two out, only to have Labine close the door.

In the eighth the Yankees again put two men on when Collins doubled high off the scoreboard in right field and Mantle was walked intentionally. With only one out, Labine got Berra on a fly to Duke Snider and made Slaughter ground to Gilliam.

Brooklyn's first real chance to get Turley came in the sixth when he walked Gilliam and Snider. With only one out, Robinson and Hodges popped out.

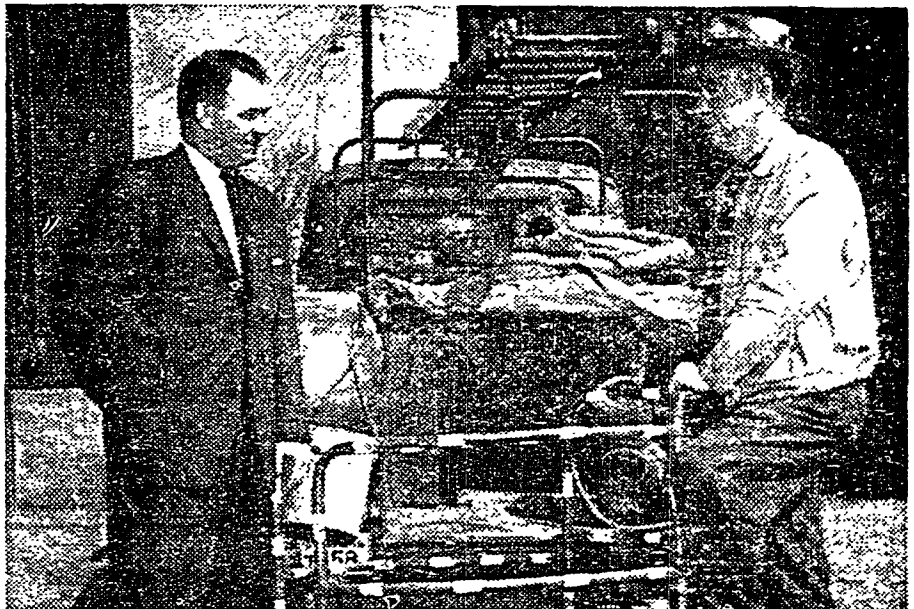

Labine's ground rule double opening the eighth again put Turley on the defensive. He struck out Gilliam, and got Reese on a fly ball. After Stengel ordered him to pass Snider intentionally, Turley took care of Robinson on a pop fly to third baseman Andy Carey.

Once again a home crowd saw its team win. Nobody has won on the road yet in this seventh series between the Yanks and Dodgers. Stengel's men now have dropped eight of their last nine at Ebbets Field, the last six in succession. The Dodgers have an identical record at Yankee Stadium.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

"I'm learning more every day—and like it"

Roger Lindblom, B.S. in General Engineering, Iowa State College, '49, is today District Plant Superintendent for the 11,000 square miles of the Huron, South Dakota, district.

"The openings are there," says Roger, "and the telephone company trains you to fill them. I joined Northwestern Bell in 1950 and spent one year learning pole line and cable construction. This, plus short periods in other departments, gave me a good telephone background.

"My experience really grew when I became an installer-repairman, then a construction crew foreman, and, in 1952, Wire Chief at South Sioux City, Nebraska. There I was responsible for the 3500 dial phones that served the town.

In March of 1954 I went to Grand Island, Nebraska, to help supervise dial conversion projects in that district. Everything I'd learned to date came in handy on that job.

"A year later I went to Omaha on a staff assignment, and in March, 1956, I moved up to my present position.

"I head a group responsible for installing and maintaining Plant equipment in the Huron district. We supervise ordering and distributing supplies, and I'm responsible for personnel and employment. I work with other department heads in the administration of our district.

"Each assignment I've had has been broader than the last, and believe me, the more I learn, the better I like it."

Roger Lindblom is one of many young men who are finding rewarding careers in Bell Telephone Companies, Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. See your placement officer for more information on career opportunities in the Bell Telephone System.
