

An Angelic Plot

Players to Open Season With 'My Three Angels'

Christmas in the tropics will be celebrated at Center Stage when Players open their season at 8 tonight with the comic hit, "My 3 Angels."

Set in a French Guiana penal colony, the story concerns a trio of angelic convicts who take it upon themselves to intrude into the lives of an honest, but impractical business man, Felix Ducotel, his loving and patient wife, Emilie, and their romantically inclined daughter, Marie Louise.

TIM Postpones Move Favoring Court Retention

A motion calling for Town Independent Men's support in favor of retention of Supreme Court was made and tabled after brief affirmative debate at Wednesday night's TIM meeting.

The motion, presented by James Goodwin, junior in physics from Philadelphia, asked "that TIM go on record as opposing the abolition of the Supreme Court. The motion also said that while TIM doesn't oppose revisions in the structure of the court, it strongly favors the retention of the court as an integral part of student government."

Cabinet's Only Restraint
Goodwin, in support of his motion, said that one case of unconstitutionality justifies the Supreme Court and cited the higher court as the only restraint on All-University Cabinet.

Goodwin said the method now used to select justices for the court was not the best and suggested that a better method be devised. He hinted a possible election of judges.

Judges now sitting on the Supreme Court are senior members of Tribunal and Judicial Board of Review, all appointed positions.

Motion Tabled
Lash Howes, member of TIM and president of Association of Independent Men, countered the proposal with a motion to table until the next TIM meeting.

Howes, who represents AIM on Cabinet, said he was for abolition of the Supreme Court. Howes' motion to table was approved.

Freshmen Senators

Janet Thompson, MacAllister Hall, and Nancy Simpson, Thompson Hall, were elected Freshman Senators of Women's Student Government Association last night.

THE BROWSE

That's what I was doing. Just browsing around in the PENNSYLVANIA BOOK SHOP when I made an amazing discovery. Books sure can be great when you don't get forced into the whole affair (like reading assignments for homework). That's what makes the PENNSYLVANIA BOOK SHOP so different. It has all kinds of books. In fact, it's the only book store in town. (I know what you're thinking, but you're wrong.) The others are student supply stores.

If you get a little fed up with the system around here, you can forget all about it for a while with "FEARLESS FOSDICK" or "THE RICH SARDINE" (a crazy bunch of droodles).

The guys can really get away from it all with this one "WILL ACTING SPOIL MARILYN MONROE." (Heaven forbid that anything should in any way injure Miss Monroe.)

In case you feel intellectual, after all you are here to learn, there are technical books above the text book level. The PENNSYLVANIA BOOK SHOP has books about everything from "ROCKETS AND GUIDED MISSILES" to "THE PRINCIPLE OF RELATIVITY" by Albert Einstein.

Getting back to the lighter things. Have you seen the selection of CRAZ-Z-ZY cards here? Have you got a friend (or enemy) whose birthday or anniversary is coming up?

Well, as I said before, I sure enjoyed browsing around the PENNSYLVANIA BOOK SHOP. Why don't you come in and browse around too?
