Fraternities May Get Housing on Campus

Bolduc Gets New Post With Patrol

Col. Lucien E. Bolduc, former professor of military science, has been named to the newly-created position of chief of the Campus Patrol, effective yesterday.

The appointment of Bolduc was necessitated by the growth of the student body, faculty, and staff, greatly increasing the number of persons using the University's rapidly-growing physical plant, according to Walter H. Wiegand, physical plant director.

Retired in August

Bolduc retired in August after more than 36 years of active duty in the Army, the last 5½ of them as commandant of the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps at the University.

In other personnel appointments, Ossian R. MacKenzie, dean of the College of Business Administration, has been made special assistant to the president of the University, in charge of business affairs.

MacKenzie will serve in the new position until June 30, 1957 and will also continue as dean of the College of Business Administration.

To Supervise Housing

His duties will include the supervision of housing, food service, purchasing, physical plant, and personnel activities. These were among the duties performed by Dr. Eric A. Walker prior to his appointment as president.

A graduate of the University of Montana, Dr. MacKenzie received his bachelor of laws degree from Fordham University Law School and was admitted to practice before the New York State Bar in 1938.

He was assistant dean and director of development program of the Graduate School of Business at Columbia University. He was also assistant to the executive director of the American Assembly, a program of conferences designed to throw impartial light on the major problems confronting America.

Dr. MacKenzie has also served as head of the tax department of West Penn Electric Co., as head

Engineer to Go On Sale Today

The Penn State Engineer will go on sale today at the Corner Room, at the Hetzel Union Building, and at a stand by Grange.

The magazine will feature Joan Kreider, junior in home economics from Lancaster, as girl-of-the-month.

Dr. Merritt A. Williamson, new dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture, will be introduced in this month's issue.

'Queen' Nominations Due at Noon Today

Noon today is the deadline for campus organizations to submit nominations for the Junior Prom queen at the Hetzel Union desk.

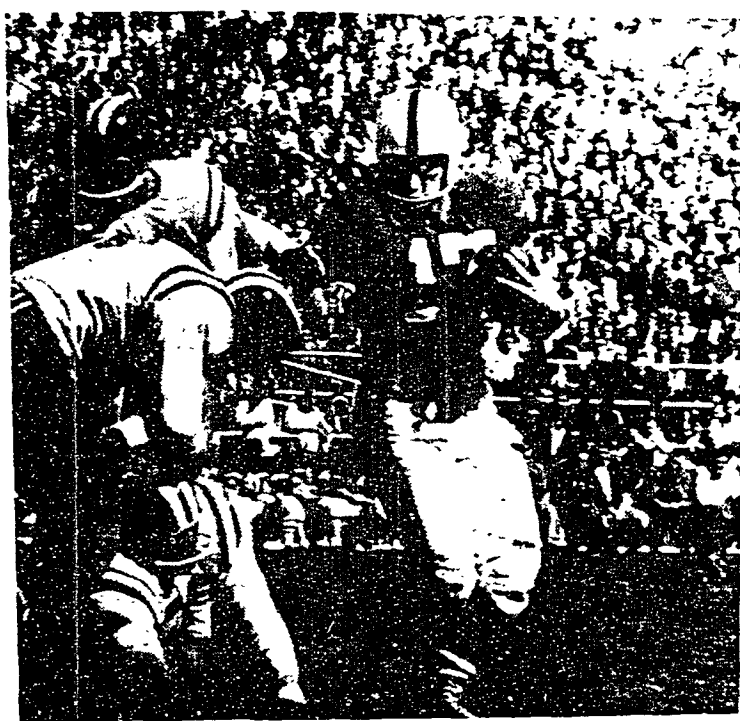

Entries should include the name and address of the candidate and the name of the sponsoring organization.

A preliminary meeting will be held Thursday to select the finalists.

Collegian Editorial Staff

Candidates for The Daily Collegian editorial staff will meet at 7 tonight at 9 Carnegie.

Helicopter Incident Termed 'Mistake'

(Editorial on page four)

The helicopter whirl beside Beaver Field Saturday afternoon while the Blue Band performed at half-time ceremonies of the game was termed an "unfortunate misunderstanding" by a Pittsburgh aviation company.

The bright yellow helicopter, carrying the sign "Young GOP says A Happy Birthday Ike," jiggled a half-hour to the music of the Blue Band over the adjoining practice field.

An official of the aviation company said the event was planned to take place at the end of the game.

"The Republican Committee members were in no way responsible," he said. "It was strictly a misunderstanding on the part of our pilot. We humbly apologize that your listening to the music of the Blue Band was interrupted."

Stuart Makes Statement

The Young Republicans' organization was held responsible for the idea of the helicopter invasion. H. L. Stuart, Centre County Republican chairman, said his organization "knew nothing about the helicopter until it arrived over the field."

Top University officials said they knew nothing about it, and had given no one permission to land on Beaver Field with a helicopter.

University Official Apologizes

A University spokesman apologized because he thought the lives of the people in the stands were in jeopardy. The University was conducting an investigation of the occurrence, he said.

State Police, who talked to the helicopter pilot at the scene, said they would turn facts over to superiors for possible action by aeronautics authorities.

'Bloodbath' Seen in Mid East

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15

(AP)—Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, a leading Democratic foreign affairs spokesman, predicted today there may well be a "bloodbath in the Middle East" unless the Western nations end what he called "stalling" in their foreign policies.

What has resulted in the negotiations over the Suez crisis to date, Mansfield said in a statement, is a "temporary respite at the price of putting off the day of reckoning."

"What has not been obtained is a just and lasting solution of that crisis," he said. "I hope that now it may not be too late."

Mansfield, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said this country's policy in the Suez crisis seems to be based on "waiting for the sands to settle." "The sands will not settle of their own accord," he said.

Mansfield said that as long ago as last April he had urged the administration to forestall a crisis in the Middle East by bringing together as many nations as possible to plan measures to preserve peace.

"Had the administration acted firmly and clearly six months ago, it is likely that we would not now be hunting for last ditch remedies. The present crisis might never have arisen."

Mansfield said he felt Secretary of State Dulles had acted as an "honest broker" between the West and Egypt in the Suez

Trustees' OK Paves Way For Building Negotiations

The Board of Trustees has authorized the administration to conduct negotiations concerning future fraternity housing on campus.

The action was taken Friday, after both the Interfraternity Council and the Association of Fraternity Counselors had asked the board to investigate the possibility of future housing for fraternities on University grounds.

In a prepared statement, a spokesman said last night, "The Board of Trustees has opened the way for negotiations for fraternity housing on campus, by authorizing the officers of the University to consider where and under what conditions fraternity houses might be constructed on University land."

Difficulties Cited

However, it was emphasized that a great many difficulties must be overcome before any long-term idea of campus housing for fraternities could be accepted.

The AFC a few weeks ago asked the board, in effect, to grant consideration of specific proposals it might submit to the board regarding the financing of future building on campus, the spokesman said.

Cost of House Estimated

He estimated the cost of the type of house a fraternity would desire, in order to keep the fraternity system in step with the growth of the University, at about $200,000 to $300,000.

He said he believes no fraternity is in a financial position at the present time to sustain such an expense.

Financial assistance, in the form of loans, bonds or some similar aid, would probably be necessary to finance on-campus construction, he said.

State Funds Not Available

It was also pointed out that state funds would not be available for any type of assistance in such construction.

The IFC last year made inquiries of the board concerning possible on-campus construction in the future.

5 Absence Leaves Granted to Faculty

Leaves of absence were granted to five members of the University faculty by the Board of Trustees this weekend.

Receiving leaves were Dr. Wayne A. Lee, professor of marketing; Paul S. Williams, professor of dairy production; Arthur W. Einstein, associate professor of marketing and retailing; Ralph C. Blainey, assistant director of agricultural and home economics extension; and professor of agricultural extension; and Ruth Krendell, extension home economist in York county.

IFC Rush Will Begin With Film

The Interfraternity Council rushing program will begin today with the distribution of Penn State Fraternities magazine and the showing of the film "A Toast to Our Brother."

About 40 fraternity rushing chairmen will conduct informal discussions Thursday in the freshmen residence halls. All fraternities will hold open houses from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Letters A-L to See Film

The film will be shown at 7 and 8:30 p.m. today and tomorrow in the Hetzel Union Building Assembly Hall.

Freshmen whose last names begin with the letters A-L will see the movie tonight. It will be shown to those whose last names begin with the letters M-Z tomorrow.

Hugh Moore, IFC Rushing Chairman, said yesterday the magazine, which will be distributed to all freshmen and new students, will "explain the fraternity system and the life of a fraternity man."

It will aid in arousing new students' interest in fraternities and will help dispel any false impressions they may have about the system, he said.

Rushing Chairmen to Speak

The fraternity rushing chairmen will speak to two groups each of freshmen and new students at 8:15 and at 9 p.m. One meeting is scheduled for 9:45.

At the end of his talk, each rushing chairman will distribute Rushing Registration cards, which will be compiled into a master list to be given each fraternity.

An open house similar to the one schedule for Sunday will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 11.

Forum to Hear Bucknell Prof

Dr. T. Z. Koo, visiting professor from Bucknell University, will speak on "Red China—And You" at an International Affairs Forum at 6:45 p.m. Thursday in the Memorial Lounge of the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel.

Dr. Koo will describe the background of the Chinese revolution, the present state of the revolution, and its significance to Americans and Christians. He will discuss what he believes will happen to Red China in both the near and distant future.

Dr. Koo is the former secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation and Chinese Young Men's Christian Association and was an adviser to the Chinese delegation at the founding of the United Nations in 1948.

The institute is sponsored by the University Christian Association and is open to the public.

West Virginia Tickets Go on Sale Tomorrow

Four thousand tickets for the West Virginia football game, Oct. 27, will go on sale at 8 a.m. tomorrow at the ticket window, 238 Recreation Hall.

Tickets will sell for $3.50. The ticket window will be open from 8 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m.
