

Advisory Board Favors Longer Yule Vacation

The Junior Class Advisory Board voted unanimously last night to go on record in favor of having the Christmas vacation extend from Dec. 19, 1956 to Jan. 3, 1957 as previously scheduled in The Pennsylvania State University Bulletin of 1956-57. The University Senate revised the schedule for vacation to extend from Dec. 22 to Jan. 3.

Art Contest Entries Due By Nov. 2

Groups or individuals may enter posters for the Campus Chest contest until Nov. 2 at the Hetzel Union desk.

No specific theme has been designated for the contest, but Robert McArver, special events chairman, said that participants should submit entries that exemplify the aims and goals of Campus Chest.

The annual solicitations campaign will be conducted from Nov. 12 to 16.

Entries Unlimited

Sororities, fraternities, or individuals may enter as many posters as they want. Winners of the contest will receive points toward the trophies that the Campus Chest committee will award after the solicitations campaign.

Trophies will be awarded to the fraternity and sorority that collect the most money per capita during the campaign as well as to the individual solicitor who collects the most money.

Also included in the tabulations for the awarding of the trophies will be the alumni contributions that were collected during Homecoming weekend in sorority suites and fraternity houses.

Fill Mall with Dimes

In addition to the solicitations drive, a "Mall of Dimes" will be held during the campaign.

The object of this special event, according to McArver, is to fill the Mall with dimes from the Library to the Main Gate. Hat men are scheduled to guard the Mall from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day of the campaign.

A treasure chest will also be used on the Mall to measure the progress of the solicitations campaign.

LA Students May Apply For $100 Scholarship

Applications for a $100 Liberal Arts scholarship are available in 132 Sparks, and may be submitted there before noon Saturday.

Any liberal arts student may apply for the Liberal Arts Student Council scholarship which will be awarded on the basis of need and scholastic ability.

Members of the board suggested that this shortened vacation hinders students who wish to work in various jobs for the week preceding Christmas.

Semester Recess Lengthened

The Senate revision of the calendar allotted extra days at the semester recess.

Advisory board members expressed a desire to have a shorter semester recess and a longer Christmas vacation. They said the Christmas vacation allows more time for travel and reunions with friends, and that the semester recess does not coincide with vacations of students from other colleges and universities.

Sponsor Banner Contest

In other action the Junior Week Committee of the advisory board reported that a banner contest will be sponsored by the junior class at the West Virginia-Penn State pep rally Oct. 25.

Registration for the banner contest will be open starting tomorrow until Saturday at the Hetzel Union desk. Any fraternity, sorority, or independent social group may participate.

Regulations for the contest state that participation is not restricted only to juniors; the number of signs or banners is unlimited; the use of fire in any way is prohibited; that groups may appear in similar costume or dress; and that skits, songs, or chants may be presented by the group.

Trophies To Be Awarded

Trophies will be awarded—one to the best male group and one to the best female group. The contest will be judged on the basis of originality of slogan, artistic appearance, and cohesiveness of group participation.

As a conclusion to Junior Week activities Harry Martini, junior class president, will assist in the Chapel service on Oct. 28. A section in Schwab Auditorium will be reserved for members of the junior class so that they may attend en masse.

Professor to Participate In Art Commemoration

Dr. Albert Christ-Janer, director of the School of the Arts, is among a number of American artists invited to participate in an art exhibition commemorating the anniversary of Staten Island.

The group will meet Saturday on Staten Island to prepare contributions for an exhibition to be held Jan. 13 to March 12 in the Staten Island Museum.

Center Stage Marks Tenth Anniversary

By PAT HUNTER

Center Stage, the University's theatre-in-the-round, is celebrating its tenth anniversary this season.

Started in 1946, the arena theatre was designed to give the audience a closer feeling of participation with the actors.

The man most responsible for the birth of "theatre-in-the-round" at the University is Kelly Yeaton, associate professor of theatre arts, who studied arena production at Washington University while working on his masters degree.

Named Staging Expert
Yeaton has been mentioned as an expert in the art of arena staging in the latest edition of "A History of the Theatre" by Freedley and Reeves, and has himself written several articles on the subject, including "Arena Production" which is a section of "Producing the Play" by John Gassner.

First Play Is Success
The first arena production, "Sky Lark" was presented by Players in the banquet hall of the State College Hotel. The play provided University students with "packaged entertainment" since they followed the theatrical tradition of "supper served following Saturday's show."

Even before Hollywood announced its new sensation—stereophonic sound, students at the University had already been introduced to it in "The Gentle People" which Yeaton directed in duction, "Hotel Universe" was presented. This proved to be such a success that the Players moved their equipment out of the banquet hall and into Woodmen's Hall on West Hamilton Avenue. A campus-wide name-the-theatre contest resulted in the name "Center Stage," the same name that now applies to the arena theatre located in the University Extension Center.

3-D Sound Started
Not only did Yeaton introduce "theatre-in-the-round" to the campus, but he also receives credit for the first in the country to use "sound-in-the-round" in arena theatres.

Following "Sky Lark" the pro-
