

Dartmouth Poet to Begin Alumni Fund Fall LA Lecture Series

The Liberal Arts Lecture Series will start at 8 p.m. tomorrow in 121 Sparks with Dr. Richard Eberhart, poet in residence at Dartmouth University, as the first speaker.

Dr. Eberhart, one of America's leading poets, will read from his poetry. The program is open to the public.

Eng Council Argues for Longer Yule

The engineering and architecture student council last night voted unanimously to stand in favor of an extension of the Christmas vacation.

At present, the vacation is scheduled to begin at noon Dec. 22 and end at noon Jan. 2.

Objections Heard

The council heard objections to the brevity of the holiday on the grounds that only one day would be allowed for Christmas shopping, that many students would be deprived of the opportunity to earn needed money, and that students returning to school would be forced to drive over highways already filled with holiday traffic.

Lawrence J. Perez, professor of civil engineering, said the time gained from the Christmas vacation would be used during the semester holiday. This would enable the faculty to complete transcripts before the spring semester, he said.

IBM Machine Used

IBM machines, to be used for the first time this year in transcribing grades, may reduce the time required, he said.

The council elections committee reported that balloting will be held from 1 to 3 p.m. Tuesday in Schwab Auditorium.

Cloudy, Cool Weather Seen

University Park is expected to have cloudy and somewhat cooler weather today after heavy rains Monday night and yesterday morning.

The first real rainfall that University Park has had for two weeks ended at 3:30 a.m. yesterday. The rain, which overflowed the curbs in many places, totaled 2.23 inches, according to the University weather station.

The forecast for today is partly cloudy with gradually clearing conditions. Temperatures should be somewhat cooler today, with the high forecast in the low 60's.

Yesterday found the thermometer registering a high of nearly 65 degrees. A low of 45 was recorded about 5 a.m. yesterday.

HomeEc Committee To Hold Program

"Above and Below Sea Level," a program sponsored by the international friends committee in the College of Home Economics, will be held at 7 p.m. tomorrow in 14 Home Economics.

Students from Switzerland and Holland, Mrs. Paul Gilmore, Margaret Ryser, Hetty Muller, and Gilbert Len, will speak on their home country.

Exhibits of handicrafts and slides from Holland will be shown. Refreshments will be served.

Tickets will be available at the door. Prices are 25 cents for students and 50 cents for others. Proceeds of ticket sales go to the International Fund.

UCA to Seek Members Among Faculty, Staff

The University Christian Association will conduct a faculty and staff membership drive from Monday until Nov. 3.

Members will call on faculty members during the week to explain the association's purpose and organization.

Alumni Fund Will Hold Meetings

The Alumni Fund will hold a series of meetings Friday and Saturday for chairmen and secretaries of the classes for the 1957 Alumni Fund.

The purpose of the program is to foster a better acquaintance with the fund.

The program will open Friday night with the President's dinner in the Hetzel Union ballroom. Speakers will include George S. Rose of New York, secretary of the American Iron and Steel Institute, who is general chairman for the fund, and President Eric A. Walker.

Dean to Emcee

Dr. Ossian R. MacKenzie, dean of the College of Business Administration and special assistant to the President for business affairs, will serve as toastmaster.

Michael R. Lynch, instructor in agriculture extension, will show pictures depicting "Penn State Through the Years."

At 9:30 a.m. Saturday, there will be a general session featuring an address by Walter Darling, vice president of the American City Bureau.

Chairmen to Meet

And at 10:30 a.m., class chairmen will participate in a series of workshops with deans of the various colleges. At the same time, secretaries will meet with Louis H. Bell, director of public information, serving as chairmen.

Traffic Court Fines Eleven

Traffic Court fined 11 students a total of $28 Monday night.

In addition to this sum, three students who failed to appear before the court were automatically fined a total of $13.

Traffic and parking violations still lead the amount of fines levied on students. These fines totaled $13.

Two students were fined $5 each for failing to register their cars.

Failure to report to the Campus Patrol office within the next full school day resulted in a total of $5 in fines.

Fines totaling $19 were suspended.

Zoology Prof to Speak

Dr. Hubert W. Frings, professor of zoology, will address the Zoology Club at 7 tonight in 113 Frear.

In connection with his lecture, a collection of books and individual poems by Dr. Eberhart is on display on the second floor of the Pattee Library.

Born in Austin, Minn., Dr. Eberhart has taught at the University of Connecticut and the University of Washington. In 1954 he was a poet in residence at Wheaton College, Norton, Mass.

Prom Tickets to Go on Sale

Tickets for the Junior Prom will go on sale Friday at the Hetzel Union desk for $5.

Tickets will also be sold at the door of Recreation Hall just before the dance.

Richard Doyle, junior class vice president, will crown the queen, in place of Harry Martini, junior class president, who will be unable to attend.

The prom queen was chosen last night from the five finalists: Ann McKnight, Sally Lou Rolston, Joan Kreider, Karen Bixler, and Nancy Seaman.

Faculty Selects Queen

A faculty board consisting of Dr. Albert Christ-Janer, director of the School of the Arts; Dr. Ruth W. Ayres, professor of clothing and textiles; and Captain Robert Dwinell, assistant professor of military science and tactics, chose the queen.

The prom queen will be crowned at the beginning of the second half of the dance. She and her escort will start off the first dance in the second half.

She will be presented a trophy from the junior class; a bracelet donated by a jewelry representative; and a crown of white roses donated by a borough florist. The runner-ups will each be presented with a bouquet of 15 red roses.

The junior class advisory board has requested a "no corsage" policy for the prom.

Council to Discuss 'Chest' Fund Drive

The Hat Society Council will discuss the collection of money from town students for the Campus Chest at 6:45 tonight at the Hetzel Union Building.

More plans will be formulated on the flash card system which is to be used at the West Virginia game Saturday.

An orientation week counselor chairman will be appointed tonight, according to John Kersh, president of the council.
