Soccermen Risk Streak At Philly

By LOU PRATO

Two thousand soccer fans are expected to witness the Penn State-Pennsylvania soccer game this morning in Philadelphia when the Nittany Lion booters risk their 22-game unbeaten streak against Penn's Ivy soccer league leaders. Coach Ken Hosterman's eleven, who own a 21-0-1 record over a four-year period, will be seeking its fourth victory of the season. The Lions booters hold wins over Bucknell, 8-0, Syracuse, 10-0, and Colgate, 5-2, but have been tied by West Chester State Teachers College, 0-0.

One Lineup Change

Hosterman will make only one change in the starting lineup which tripped Colgate last week. He will install Dave Davis, a senior letterman, in place of sophomore Otto Rosenberger at the left fullback post. Davis was a starter at fullback earlier in the year but was ousted from the position by Rosenberger. However, Rosenberger's play has not been up to Hosterman's standards in the last two games, paving the way for the switch.

The Nittany tutor has decided against replacing Dutch Walz in the outside left slot. Earlier in the week Hosterman was contemplating a move that would have put Haase in that position.

To Change in Game

He was thinking of the move because he believed that Walz was not fast enough to cope with Penn's strong running style of play. But Hosterman has decided to make the change only if he believes it is necessary during the game.

Hosterman will rely on Ralph Brower for the other fullback spot and Jim Hedberg for the second wing post. Brower has been a workhorse on the Lion defensive alignment while Hedberg's versatility on the forward line has added a great deal to the Nittany offensive.

Haase for the starting center forward berth in the Penn State lineup but his work in the Syracuse and Colgate victories made him the sole choice for the job.

Stollmeyer was on the booters' injury list early this week because of a recurrence of a blister to his right heel. But according to Hosterman, the sophomore lineman has fully recovered.

Torgeson, the Lion scoring leader with eight goals, was a doubtful starter before last week's encounter because of an injury to his right instep. But the situation was remedied with a taping job by the Penn State trainers which took the pressure off his foot when kicking.

Praises Halfback

Captain Steve Flamporis will start at center halfback, flanked on his left by veteran Ward Hill and on his right by sophomore Herb Hertner. All three halfbacks have earned praise from Hosterman for their season performances.

Senior letterman John Lawrence will again handle the goal tending duties. The all-American candidate missed his first shut-out of the season last week against Colgate.

In reserve strength Hosterman will be able to call on linemen Haase, Jim Benford, and Bruce Walsh; halfbacks Paul Bauer and Jim Edmonds; fullbacks Don Meyer, Rosenberger, and Tony Tremonte; and goalie Don Dougal.

Dedad 1st to Gain Indie Tennis Finals

Pete Dedad became the first player to reach the flight finals in IM tennis. Dedad notched a pair of triumphs over Ken Houch, 6-3, 6-4, and Bob Yost, 6-3, 6-4. Yost won the right to meet Dedad by eliminating Henry Sayre, 6-2, 6-2. In other IM court action, Dick Linger defeated Charles Mohn, 6-4, 6-3, and Jay Smith, 6-3, 6-2; and Jerry Nichols ousted Bruce Pellnitz, 6-1, 6-3.

Dave See nosed out Gene Greenberg, 4-6, 6-0, 10-8, to earn a semi-final match against Charles Bibleheimer.

Frosh Footballers Close Season Against Bullis Prep Today at Home

By EARL KOHNFELDER

Penn State's freshman football team closes its season today, facing Bullis Prep on Beaver Field's practice area directly behind the tennis courts. Game time is 10 a.m.

It is the first (and last) chance for Lion fans to see coach Earl Bruce's defense-minded charges who have allowed only one touchdown in two games.

With wins over the Navy and Pitt frosh, the Lion cubs seek to repeat their 13-0 win of last year over Bullis. The visitors bring an 'unofficial' 3-0 record into the game, one of those wins being a 26-21 verdict over Army's Plebes.

Joe Youngo, starting fullback in the two previous encounters, hurt a leg in the Pitt fray and is out for the season. Pat Botula, just recently recovered from a pre-season injury, will get the call and will be backed by Pat Funair, starting left halfback.

First line tackle Tom Mulraney suffered a fractured collar bone and will be replaced by Mike Romigh or Tiny Perry.

Otherwise, the starting lineup will remain intact. Andy Stynchula and Norman Neff are the ends; Charles Janerette is the other tackle; Dave Madigan and Sam Stellatella fill the guards; and Earl Kohlbas is the center.

Rick Lucas, quarterback, and Ed Caye, right half, complete the backfield. Should Funair perform at full, Dave Kraft will take the left half post. Joe DeNone is again slated for second-string quarterback duty.

Theta Chi Wins In IM Bowling

Action in the fraternity "B" bowling league saw Phi Kappa and Triangle battling to a 2-2 tie while Theta Chi defeated Kappa Sigma, 3-1.

Delta Chi, led by Joe Meredith, swept by Alpha Epsilon Pi, 3-1; Alpha Chi Sigma downed Phi Epsilon Pi, 4-0; and Delta Theta Sigma was victorious, 4-0, over Phi Mu Delta. The Alpha Sigma Phi-Sigma Chi match was postponed due to the mechanical failure of an alley.

Meredith bowled the high individual game score with 219 points and captured the three game title with 540 markers. Theta Chi scored the most points per team in a single game, 811.

Phi Kappa swept the final two matches of the three game set to tie Triangle, 2-2. Triangle was victorious, 716-629, in the first game and was high in total pins, 2114-2078. Howard Reich, Triangle, was high single game bowler while Dave Hill of Phi Kappa tallied 490 points for the night.

Pigskin Coin Flips ...

Out On a Limb

Vicious Vince Carocci thought he put one over when he handed in his selections for The Daily Collegian's sixth football poll. He had picked Notre Dame over Oklahoma!

Then came Fearless Fran Fanucci's sheet—you guessed it—Notre Dame over Oklahoma. Lucky Lou Prato and Coach J. T. White, however, stick with the Sooners.

This could be the coaches' week. White disagrees violently with the current leader, Vicious Vince. He likes Stanford over Southern Cal, Georgia over Kentucky, and Louisiana State over Florida. Not so Vicious Vince, who in addition has a sleeper of his own—Miami over Texas Christian.

Lucky Lou, tied for second with Fearless Fran, likes Purdue over Iowa. Fearless Fran makes no loner choices. He sides with Lucky Lou on Houston over Auburn and Texas A&M over Baylor, and agrees with Vicious on a Southern Cal victory.

Seven teams receiving unanimous backing are Tennessee, Michigan State, Navy, Pitt, Ohio State, Georgia Tech, and North Carolina.

Note that everyone picks Ohio State to rebound against a tough Wisconsin team. Another Big 10 sweep by the Buckeyes would make Lion fans very happy.
