

U.S. Considers Protest On Armed Intervention

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—The United States has started consulting Britain, France and other allies to decide whether to cite Russia before the United Nations on charges of brutal military intervention in Hungary.

The State Department, in disclosing this today, also hinted this country is considering a separate diplomatic protest to Moscow denouncing Russia for using its troops against Hungarian rebels.

At a news conference, a spokesman for the department reported a new blackout of all telephone and telegraph contact with the American Legation in the revolt-torn capital of Budapest.

Press officer Lincoln White said that before communications broke off about noon yesterday, Washington time, thousands of Hungarians were gathered in front of the legation appealing for diplomats to relay word of their struggle to the outside world.

Views Exchanged
White told reporters the State Department is exchanging views with friendly governments, including Britain and France, to decide the "feasibility and advisability of bringing the situation in Hungary before the United Nations."

No decisions have been made yet, he stressed, but talks are moving ahead swiftly.

Even before White spoke, Foreign Minister Christian Pineau of France said the Western Big Three may soon ask the UN Security Council to deal with the question of what part the Soviet Union played in the Hungarian revolt.

May Accuse Russia
In response to questions at a press luncheon in Paris, Pineau disclosed the Big Three are discussing the idea of accusing the Soviet Union of employing force within another independent nation.

Pineau said the Russians, who have proclaimed themselves foes of "colonialism," made a major error in using Red troops to "exterminate" workers in Budapest.

West Shouldn't Interfere
He said the West should not interfere in Hungarian, Polish or Czech internal affairs, but should be ready to help create economic stability.

Officials here said that an American diplomatic protest to Moscow was being considered along with possible offers of American economic aid to relieve suffering in Hungary.

German Allegiance Asked by Commies

BERLIN, Oct. 26 (AP)—Communist leaders in East Germany begged their restive people tonight to resist the fever of revolt-engulfed Hungary.

The regime backed up its pleas by cancelling army leaves and putting 120,000 army troops on emergency alert to crush any anti-Soviet uprising, making 270,000 soldiers and security police now on standby orders.

Western sources reported some crack Soviet divisions of the 400,000 man Soviet garrison have gone on a war footing.

Red organizers sent black-overalled "worker fighting groups" singing and marching through East German cities in so-called loyalty demonstrations. Under the shadow of the secret police, East Germans watched in silence as the groups marched by.

The Communist party staged rallies in factories, schools and army barracks to plead for loyalty and to warn of what they call the "Fascist putsch" unleashed in Hungary. Reliable Eastern sources said some factory meetings backfired.

"Tell us the truth . . . no more lies," some workers shouted as Communist speakers declared the government in Hungary already has crushed the rebellion.

Starved for news of events in Hungary and Poland, some East German workers stole into free West Berlin to bring back Western newspapers.

The East Berlin radio and Communist newspapers gave vague and sometimes confused accounts of Hungarian developments, reflecting indecision in the minds of red leaders.

None of the newspapers or radio stations carried Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy's promise to negotiate withdrawal of Russian troops from that country.

Adlai Cites Ike's 'Madness' On Controversy of H-Bomb

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Oct. 26 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson said today President Dwight D. Eisenhower's attitude on the hydrogen bomb is "madness," and called it a "policy of trying to preserve peace by a preponderance of terror."

If Eisenhower continues to try to develop bigger and bigger bombs, Stevenson said, and the Russians keep up:

"What does Mr. Eisenhower propose then? that we go ahead with the development of the bomb to try to gain another advantage—of force that can shake the earth's axis?"

"But this is madness—this policy of trying to preserve peace by a preponderance of terror, and what is it going to do to mankind in the process—bone cancer, deformed children, sterility."

Theme Discussed Again
Thus Stevenson returned to a theme he had discussed often before, but never in such strong words.

His view—which has been hotly contradicted by the President is that a halt must be called in the testing of the super bombs.

Stevenson's comment on the hydrogen question was something of a bombshell itself. He had prepared a speech for his rally in the Fort Theatre here that had been chiefly an attempt to link the Republican scandals in Illinois with the Eisenhower administration.

He had sailed along through this—with enthusiastic applause from the capacity crowd of more than 1,600—without a hint that more serious things lay ahead.

Suddenly, near the end of his prepared address, he launched into his attack on Eisenhower's stand on the H-bomb.

Truman Slams Policy of Ike

BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 26 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman tonight called President Dwight D. Eisenhower "a part time do-nothing Republican President."

"Some people say they like Ike," Truman said in a prepared speech.

"I like Ike, too, but I don't like him as President. Ike is a good man at taking orders. I employed him, myself, a couple of times, and he does a pretty good job when he has a good boss."

"In many ways," Truman said, "the campaign this year reminds me of 1948. The main difference is that in 1948 we were running against a do-nothing Republican Congress. This year the Democrats are running against a part time do-nothing . . . President."

Report on Relapse Of Ike Refuted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (AP)—The White House said today it is "absolutely and categorically" untrue that President Dwight D. Eisenhower suffered a relapse on his Western campaign trip earlier this month.

James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, made the statement in connection with a report by columnist Drew Pearson that Eisenhower apparently suffered a mild relapse on his way to Minneapolis airport Oct. 16.

"The most amazing document of falsehood that I have ever seen," was Hagerty's description of the Pearson column, which is for publication tomorrow.

Forty Killed in Algeria

ALGIERS, Oct. 26 (AP)—Violence flared again today in Algeria with over 40 reported killed—most of them rebels against French rule.
