2 Students Saved by Safety Belts

Two safety belts apparently saved the lives of two students when their car was struck head-on by a skidding auto Friday night on Route 45, 1½ miles west of Hartleton between Mifflinburg and State College.

The two students, Thomas Mears, senior in wood utilization from Cranford, N.J., and Paul Cuppett, sophomore in business administration from Johnstown, were traveling east on Route 45 at the time of the accident.

Another car, driven by Paul Aronin, regional adviser for Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity, going west, lost control and collided into the front end of Cuppett's car.

Weather conditions were poor at the time of the accident, police said.

Both Cars Were Demolished

All three were admitted to Lewisburg Evangelical Hospital. Cuppett and Mears were seriously injured and Aronin was treated for laceration of the knee and forehead and bruises of the chest.

Mears and Cuppett were prevented from more serious injuries when the safety belts, which they were both wearing, held them from being thrown from the car. Cuppett, driver of the car, suffered a broken chest bone and will be confined to the hospital for several weeks.

Mears Injured

Mears, whose head struck the windshield, suffered a deep cut around the top of his head. Multi-

Lion party needed a runoff vote to elect its own candidates for freshman class officers Sunday night, then the 121 members took the opposite road and elected a full slate of sophomore class officers by acclamation.

At the same time, Byron LaVan, clique chairman, announced the party would sponsor a referendum favoring retention of the Supreme Court.

Smith was opposed by Emanuel Gregory, Robert Macracken, and Vincent Marino. Miss Schultz ran against Phyllis Anderson and Nancy Kress.

Sophomore Candidates
Lion party sophomore class candidates, who were elected unopposed, are John R. Sopko, president; Charles Welsh, vice president; and Elinor Wessel, secretary.

Taking it for granted that All-University Cabinet will vote to abolish the Supreme Court Thursday night, LaVan told party members Sunday he feels there is a definite need for a three-branch student government. Abolishment of the court would leave legislative, judicial, and executive powers in the hands of one body: Cabinet.

Court Vote
Since it looks as if Cabinet will vote to abolish the court, he said, the Lion party, in conjunction with its platform plank backing court retention, will definitely sponsor the referendum.

Cabinet voted 14-9 to abolish the court last Thursday on the second of three necessary votes. Previously, court abolishment had been favored 13-11 on the first vote.

Two more Cabinet members must change their votes before the 16-vote two-thirds majority needed to abolish the court is reached. The third and final vote is scheduled for Thursday night.

Reasons for Abolishment
Proponents of the abolishment move claim the court is not needed, is not well-versed on campus affairs, and does not meet often enough to warrant its retention. The court met two times last year.

Cabinet members favoring retention of the court compare it to an insurance policy: Nice to have and not need, rather than to need it and not have it. In addition, these members claim, student government needs a judicial branch.

LaVan told party members all men's and women's dormitories would be canvassed for signatures for the referendum.

Egypt has been staging military maneuvers in the Sinai Desert. Its strength there is not known. A high Israeli government source said the operation was designed to wipe out Egyptian commando nests in Sinai.

Forces Stand Pat
The Israeli forces were remaining in the area, not withdrawing as in reprisal raids.

An Egyptian army communique said frontier forces reported the Israeli forces last night reached the road junction of El Kuntilla, four miles inside Egypt.

The communique made no mention of deeper penetrations reported by Israeli sources. An Israeli spokesman said "I just don't know" when asked if the operation was aimed at the Suez Canal.

The unofficial reports would indicate that the Israelis were dashing across the desert peninsula straight for the international waterway.

Fighting on 'Strip'
Fighting flared up along Egypt's Gaza strip, about 80 miles north of where the northernmost of two Israeli prongs crossed into Egypt.

Egypt said Israeli artillery opened fire on the Gaza strip. Israeli quarters said Egyptian forces attacked an Israeli patrol with small arms and mortars, but there were no casualties.

A high Israeli government source commenting on the thrust into the Sinai Desert said: "It's too big for a reprisal and too small for a war."

He said the main object of the operation is to wipe out commando bases in the Sinai Peninsula. The commandos have been operating recently like ordinary Egyptian military units, he said.

No Air Force Used
Unofficially, high government sources said that the operation is not a reprisal like recent actions against Jordan and not war, as no air force is being used.

The same sources said Israeli forces operating in the Sinai Peninsula are not withdrawing as reprisal raiders have done after raiding.

As fears rose that war might be near in the explosive Middle East, there were these rapid fire developments around the world.

Lions Emerging as 'Cinderella' Team

By FRAN FANUCCI
The Lion football team is speedily emerging as the "Cinderella" team of the East.

A pre-season pick to gain nothing but mediocrity in big-time football circles, the Lions have suddenly blossomed out as one of the top teams in the nation after their 16-6 win over West Virginia Saturday.

Following their rousing 7-6 upset of Ohio State most fans and predictors expected the Nittanians to have a letdown, but for the second consecutive week they fooled almost everyone.

The Lions did not display the sharpness and defensive play as against Ohio State, but they were good enough to beat a big and strong Mountie team.

West Virginia Coach Art Lewis said after the game: "This is the best Penn State team I've faced in my seven years at West Virginia. It's a team that makes its own breaks, then hurts you with them."

Lion Coach Rip Engle said that his boys were tired. "I don't see how they can get up like this five weeks in a row," Engle said.
