

Booters Change Routine At Practice Sessions

By LOU PRATO

In an effort to inject some new blood into the veins of the Penn State soccer team, coach Ken Hosterman has asked "Mr. Change of Pace" to come out from his cave on top of Mount Nittany to live with the booters this week.

Hosterman decided to heed the advice of the ancient scholarly gentleman because of the soccermen's 3-2 loss to Penn Saturday morning—the first defeat in 22 games for the Nittany booters.

And so, based on the advice of the man from the hills, the Lion mentor has given his team a slight rest this week. Monday's practice session was held without the benefit of an intra-squad scrimmage, and Tuesday's workout was spent in a light scrimmage game.

Yesterday Hosterman gave the booters a holiday but this evening he will revert back to his old schedule with a hard scrimmage game on tap.

Hosterman's reason for seeking the advice of "Mr. Change of Pace" is one that is given by almost all athletic coaches during the middle of a season.

It gets to be a grind for some boys to come to practice four or five times a week and do the same thing over again, Hosterman said. This way a routine is broken that tends to make a team stale.

With the toughest half of the schedule beginning to come into view, it is no wonder that Hosterman has relaxed his training program this week.

Saturday the Lion booters visit College Park, Maryland, to face the University of Maryland—Atlantic Coast Conference champions for the past three years.

Next week Army makes its appearance in the Nittany Vale and the following weekend the Lions travel to Maryland again to meet Navy and Catholic University.

Temple and the University of Pittsburgh close out the Lion season the week of November 19th.

Hosterman is very much aware of the six games that remain on the Lion schedule. "None of the games will be easy," the Lion tutor said, "and all are away but the Army game. I'm sure those teams won't lay down and die like Bucknell and Syracuse did earlier in the year."

SOCCER SHORT—East Stroudsburg State Teachers College of Pennsylvania, is slowly rising as a top contender for national championship honors this year...

The eastern Pennsylvania college has gained much soccer prestige with victories over West Chester and Brockport State Teachers Colleges... Brockport shared the national crown with the Lions in 1955.

Hayes Eastern Mastery

Only two Eastern teams have defeated Ohio State during Woody Hayes' coaching regime at Columbus. The first was Pitt, by a 21-14 count, in 1952. The second was Penn State, by a 7-6 count, in a stunning upset two weeks ago.

IM Cagers Open Season

Eight independent quintets inaugurated the Intramural Basketball season victoriously Tuesday night at Recreation Hall.

Irvin Hall trounced the Rebels 28-13; and Aiche, missing nine out of ten foul shots, bowed to the Panthers 16-11.

Wagner's 12 points, accounting for half of the Bearcat total, were to no avail as Bob Roland sunk a field goal in the closing seconds of the contest to give Pollock 4 a 25-24 triumph over the Bearcats.

In two high-tension contests, the Black Knights squeezed past the Campus Trotters, 18-17, and the Red Knights managed to sneak away with another one point verdict, as they topped the Old Ones 21-20.

Kreams held a small, but dominating lead all the way to conquer a strong Nittany 36 team, 41-38. Kreams' Ed Simon led the scoring with 18 points.

The Bulls, paced by Francie Soroko's 17 points, stampeded in an overtime period to take a 35-30 decision from the Dutchmen; and in the only walkaway of the night, Schmoo's Boys humiliated the Dippers, 67-25. Tony DeGeorgio and Joe Washko of the Schmoo's each reached the 20-point mark in the scoring column.
