

Town Acts To Alleviate Parking Ban

Temporary overnight parking stickers for specific blocks will be issued to students who show that they have made arrangements for permanent off-street spaces which are unavailable because of construction delays.

Delayed by Rains

Burgess David R. Mackey said yesterday the move was made "recognizing that many persons and groups who have made distinct efforts to meet the deadline of Nov. 1 (when the 2 to 6 a.m. parking ban went into effect in the fraternity area) have been delayed by the abnormally heavy and successive rains."

Applications for the stickers will be received from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. today and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday at the borough manager's office. They will be issued provided that the student's permanent arrangements be completed within a week or two.

125 Violations

Police found 31 cars parked in violation of the 2 to 6 a.m. ban yesterday, compared with 94 cars the day before.

Mackey advised students who have not arranged for permanent parking or have not received the temporary stickers to park on the University-provided emergency facilities on the old vegetable gardens behind the Agricultural Engineering building.

Mackey said the plan will give borough officials an idea of the off-street parking demand and facilities. "Our intent is to cooperate with every car owner on an individual basis in helping him to find a place where he can park," he said.

Warm, Cloudy Day Predicted

The Lion rolled over and opened his eyes heavily. He stood up and shook his shaggy head. "O-o-o-h-h, what a long night," he moaned, dragging himself to the door.

The Lion stood at the door and frowned at the grey sky. "And I see the weather-man hasn't done anything to help matters. Today looks like another flop."

The University weather station's forecast is a little more extensive than the Lion's. Today should be cloudy and mild, with intermittent showers expected.

High today is predicted between 65 and 70, with a low between 55 and 60 tonight.

There is a possibility of thunder storms tonight, and tomorrow forecast calls for more cloudy skies and scattered showers.

Lions in 'It' Test Today

Chances for Bowl Bid May Hang in Balance

Syracuse, N.Y., Nov. 3—Today's game is what is referred to as "it" for Penn State's football team. Before the largest crowd ever to see a Penn State-Syracuse game, 39,000, the Lions will try to win their third consecutive game over a nationally-ranked club.

If the Lions win today's game their chances of receiving a bowl bid will be considerably strengthened, but if they lose, as most experts predict, their chances will be practically nil.

No Bowl Worries Yet

But as Coach Rip Engle says: "Bowl, Bowl, who's worried about a bowl game. All we want to do is win today's game."

And to win today's game is going to take more than wishful thinking. The Orange are big, strong, experienced, and are led by a 6-2 220-pound All-American back—Jimmy Brown—who is averaging 117 yards per game and is often referred to as a "one-man team."

But the Lions have been getting these sort of lectures week in and week out and apparently it helps them, for they have swept by four opponents, including Ohio State and West Virginia. Pre-season choices to win only two games, the Lions have baffled the experts by losing only one game—that to Army, 14-7.

Records Identical

Syracuse has an identical record—4-1. It has scored wins over Maryland, West Virginia, Army, and Boston U. Its only loss was to Pittsburgh, 14-7.

In the long series between the Lions and Orange, the Lions hold a 16-12 advantage with five games ending in ties. They have won the last three years.

Thrilling Win Recalled

Last year's contest was one of the most thrilling in the series history. Trailing 14-0, the Lions fought back to cheat Syracuse out of a win, 21-20, on a blocked extra point by end Jack Farls. Brown was the offensive menace for the Orange that day, picking up 155 yards, scoring the three touchdowns, and kicking the two extra points.

Engle remembers well that performance and to prevent a recurrence today he has warned his

John Kerch, sponsored by Pi Beta Phi, attired in red nightgown, red and white striped nightcap, and flowing cotton beard, said of the carnival: "It's crazy. Got any pennies?"

Outside the building students continuously crowded to get into the carnival. Several members of Mortar Board, senior women's hat society and sponsors of the affair, said attendance was higher than it has been for many years. Last year profits amounted to $1200.

Gaudy Costumes Worn

Inside the mobbed hall, coeds dressed in everything from gaudy gold-spangled knee-length costumes to black leotards and high heels, paraded with signs and chanted like circus barkers in their attempts to induce students to patronize their booths. One group, dressed in sailor outfits, carried a large green octopus.

The booths were decorated with streamers, sheets, gigantic cats,

French, British Troops Poised To Go Into Suez Canal Zone

LONDON, Saturday, Nov. 3 (AP)—British and French troops were poised today to jump into Egypt.

The French Defense Ministry announced British-French air forces have completed softening-up attacks on Egypt and said all is set for the leap.

A junior minister in Prime Minister Eden's Cabinet said late last night:

Occupation Seen Soon

"A few hours from now British and French troops will be occupying territory in the canal zone."

Egypt already has been invaded and beaten in Sinai by Israel. Gaza, headquarters of the Egyptian-held Gaza strip, fell to Israeli forces.

Israel claims control of all the Sinai Peninsula up to points within 10 miles of the Suez Canal.

But a menace to Israel loomed to the east. Radio Israel said troops are moving into neighboring Jordan from both Iraq and Syria.

Defense Pact Links

Egypt, Syria and Jordan are linked in defense pacts against Israel and Iraq had promised aid in case of attack by the Jewish state.

An authoritative source said Britain and France will defy the United Nations Assembly's demand of Friday for an immediate cease-fire.

Eden is expected to tell Parliament today that British and French troops will occupy the Suez Canal zone until the UN establishes an international police force to keep peace in the Middle East.

The Prime Minister is making a TV address to the British people tonight.

Speaks at Rally

Harold Macmillan, chancellor of the exchequer, told a political rally:

"Things will move rapidly in the next few days . . . of course we want American cooperation . . . but I think America begins to understand our position as each day passes."

British-French headquarters on Cyprus announced allied air raids smashing airfields and destroying planes had dealt "a crippling blow" to the Egyptian air force.

For the first time the British-French headquarters reported Egyptian efforts to oppose the air assaults but the early Saturday communique said anti-aircraft fire was inaccurate and caused no damage or losses among the allies.

AIM Group To Discuss IM Playoffs

The Association of Independent Board of Governors has appointed a four-man committee to investigate the possibility of establishing playoffs between independent and fraternity winners in intramural sports.

Serving on the committee are William Dragon, Charles Welsh, Edward Leach, and Bruce Pellnitz.

The committee will speak with Clarence "Dutch" Sykes, director of intramural athletics, on the feasibility of scheduling the playoffs.

Approved Playoffs

The AIM board at its last meeting and for the second consecutive meeting, approved a recommendation favoring the playoffs.

The board voted a second approval after voting to reconsider the original recommendation.

James Tipton, Town Independent Men president, said he spoke with Sykes, who convinced him playoffs were not feasible.

Playoffs held in 1939, he said, were successful but the following year interest dropped and the playoffs were discontinued.

Bad Aspects Listed

Lack of spectators, bad weather, and scheduling difficulties were also listed by Tipton as reasons for not holding the playoffs.

Edward Leach, who introduced the motion at the previous meeting, said the purpose of intramural sports is not to attract spectators.

Leach said he felt interest could be maintained to the point that independent and fraternity winners would schedule playoffs themselves if playoffs were given publicity by AIM and other campus organizations.

Leonides Meeting To Include Movie

A mass meeting of Leonides will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Hetzel Union assembly room.

Rosetta Kearney, Leonides president, has requested that independent women sign up with their unit leader to help with Band Day from 9 a.m. to noon Nov. 10.

Judicial to Meet

The judicial committee of the Women's Student Government Association will meet at 5 p.m. Monday in 203 Hetzel Union.
