Chest Fund Nets $98.10 From Stunt

The "Mall of Dimes" conducted yesterday by members of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, netted $98.10 for Campus Chest.

The strip of white paper that was marked in red paint for each dime that students contributed began at the Mall across from the Armory and continued downwards until it reached Main Engineering. Marking of the paper was discontinued when it reached that point because of the difficulties encountered. Persons who were guarding the "treasure chest" in which the dimes were placed were situated across from the Armory. They had to yell down the Mall to those who were marking the paper in red paint.

Lohman Comments on Stunt

However, John Lohman, chairman of the project, said that if the markings had been continued the paper would have reached the Corner Room by the time the drive ended at 5 p.m.

The "Mall of Dimes" was planned by Dorothy DeMay and Dennis McArver, Campus Chest special events chairmen. They were assisted by Alpha Phi Omega.

The "Mall of Dimes" was the third event planned by Campus Chest for an extensive year-long program of special events.

Alumni Contribute

The first was the alumni contributions collected in fraternity houses and sorority suites during Homecoming Weekend. Edward Long, tabulations chairman, said that $60 was collected that weekend.

The push cart race, sponsored by Town Independent Men on Saturday, was the second special event. Proceeds from the race netted $50 for the Campus Chest fund.

The most intense phase of Campus Chest's efforts to raise money will begin Monday when the annual solicitations campaign is launched.

$12,000 Set As Goal

The goal for this year's drive is $12,000. Robert Gellman, chairman, said that the slogan to be used during the drive is: "A Dollar per Scholar."

A preferential designation system will be used in this campaign similar to last year's. Under the system a student may specify to which of the five agencies he wants to contribute.

A Providence, R.I., insurance firm has distributed a wall calendar displaying a photograph of Old Main to its stockholders throughout the nation.

The picture, showing Old Main in winter, was taken especially for the calendar by Edward Leos, photographer with General Extension.

The calendar also includes a detailed historical and informational sketch on the University.

Published by the Automobile Mutual Insurance Company of America and the Factory Mutual Liability, Insurance Company of America, the calendar is the 10th in a series that "portrays prominent buildings of great American colleges and universities."

Copies of the calendar have been distributed to University departments and to fraternity and sorority groups.

Directories Go on Sale

Student Directories, which contain a listing of students, their home address, major, semester, and local address and telephone number, are on sale for 50 cents in the basement of Willard Hall, the Book Exchange, and Borough book stores.

Foot of Mall Sold Cheap

PAINTING THE MALL RED was the main attraction on campus yesterday. For just one dime, one could have painted a foot of the long white paper on the Mall. Money from this Alpha Phi Omega project went to the Campus Chest. Above John Earhart paints one foot for Ira Rosenbaum.

Frosh Snake Chain to Lead To BU Rally Friday Night

A snake chain of freshman men and women led by Parmi Nous, senior men's hat society, will "slink" up to Recreation Hall at 7 p.m. Friday for the Boston University-Penn State pep rally.

Frosh to Repeat Flash Card Show

The flash card system will be used for a second time at the Boston football game Saturday.

Freshmen volunteers and hat society representatives are requested to be at Beaver Field no later than 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

A short practice will be held at that time. No other practice is scheduled.

The system will be the same as the one used for the West Virginia game, Oct. 27.

John Kersh, president of the Hat Society Council, will lead the card tricks.

Physics Prof to Speak

Dr. Erwin W. Muller, professor of physics, will address the Physics Colloquium at the University of Virginia today on "Studies of Dislocations and Other Imperfections on Metal Surfaces with the Field Ion Microscope."

Police Force Okayed by UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Nov. 7 (AP)—The UN General Assembly voted tonight to create an international emergency police force for immediate use in keeping peace in the Middle East.

It acted in the face of two complications:

1. Israel has announced she will bar "a foreign force, no matter how called," from territory her troops are occupying.

2. Arab nations demanded the withdrawal of all attacking forces in advance of the arrival of the UN police force—and Britain served notice she would refuse to do so.

The resolution was approved by a vote of 64-0 with 12 nations abstaining.

Eisenhower Calls Bipartisan Meeting

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower moved swiftly today to strengthen bipartisan foreign policy. He called Congressional leaders to a White House meeting Friday on critical Middle East and European developments.

Obviously worried by Russia's more belligerent policies, Eisenhower earlier went to the Army's Walter Reed Hospital for an unusual bedside conference with Secretary of State Dulles.

Duff Concedes Defeat

HARRISBURG (AP)—U. S. Sen. James H. Duff, Republican candidate for reelection, yesterday conceded victory to his Democratic opponent, Joseph S. Clark.

Cabinet Will Vote On Court Revision

All-University Cabinet will take the second of three votes tonight on the new Supreme Court amendment which places the 24 members of Cabinet on the Court.

The original amendment eliminating the present court system was defeated last week and a revision of the court, proposed in the form of a substitute amendment, was approved at the first vote.

If Cabinet approves the new system tonight and by a two-thirds majority next week a new Supreme Court will be integrated into the University student judicial system.

All-University Cabinet will meet at 7 p.m. tonight in 203 Hetzel Union. The meeting is open to the public.

The court membership in the revised system calls for 31 seats. This would include, in addition to all Cabinet members, the chairmen of the Association of Independent Men Judicial Board of Review, Interfraternity Council Board of Control, Tribunal, Judicial, Freshman Regulations Board, Traffic Court, and the secretary of Tribunal.

To Include Appeals

Joseph Eberly, chairman of the Court Revision Committee, said last Thursday that the new system would have appellate jurisdiction over Cabinet legislation and electoral procedure after the cases have been tried by the appropriate regulatory body.

In the proposed revision each side involved in an electoral case would be allowed six peremptory challenges of members of the court so to assure absolute impartiality, Eberly said.

To Elect Chairman

The chairman of the court would be elected by the court from its own membership before each case. All members, except the chairman, are voting members. Although, in the case of a tie, the chairman would vote also.

The Supreme Court executive committee would decide whether or not the court would hear any case. The executive committee would include six court members—three from the judicial groups and three from Cabinet—to be selected by the chairmen of Tribunal and Judicial and the All-University president. A two-thirds negative vote would be necessary to refuse any case hearing.

Trial procedure would be established by the court and decisions would be rendered within one week.

When Eberly presented the revised system last Thursday night he referred to it as "the most monstrous compromise I've ever been involved in."

Van Winkles Caught At Skating Rink

Three University students, who said they were just trying to get a good night's sleep, found that the campus skating rink isn't the best place to spend a night.

The trio, complaining their dormitory was too noisy, was brought before the Association of Independent Men's Judicial Board as a result of an incident Halloween night.

Seen by Counselor

Two of the three were seen by a counselor entering the campus rink at about 1 a.m. The counselor called Campus Patrol, which caught one inside the building.

The other returned to his dormitory and was later found with the third involved in the incident. The latter had remained in his dorm.

Despite pleas in their behalf, the AIM board recommended disciplinary probation for one, office and judicial probation for one, and judicial warning for the third. The board also recommended a letter be sent to the students' parents.

One of the involved said that he had slept in the building another night.

Showers May Prevail Today

A slight chance of showers and falling temperatures are forecast for today.

Although there is a chance that some showers will fall, the outlook is not too gloomy. The skies will be slightly overcast throughout most of the day, but temperatures will remain above average during the day.

The high temperature today, according to University weather officials, should be in the lower sixties. Tonight's low thermometer reading could be more reasonable with the temperature falling below the freezing point.

Thermometers at the University weather station recorded temperatures reading in the low sixties yesterday afternoon and a crisp 35 yesterday morning.

'He-men' Registration To Be Held Sunday

Registration for "He-men" interested in entering the Mr. Penn State Contest will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday in Recreation Hall.

The contest is to be held Dec. 14 in Schwab Auditorium. The entrance fee for members of the Barbell Club is $1.50, and $2 for non-members.

Trophies will be given to the top three men.

Equipment to Be Shown

The staff of the Geophysical and Geochemical Departments will demonstrate prospecting instruments at 9 a.m. to noon Saturday in the center courtyard of the Mineral Science buildings.
