

PhysEd Council to Ask For Skating Instructors

By MICKIE COHEN

A proposal asking for instructors for the University Skating Rink has been prepared by the College of Physical Education and Athletics Student Council and will be presented to the college for approval within a week.

In addition to requesting skating instructors, the council suggested roping off an area of the rink for figure skating and holding figure skating exhibitions. The proposals were adopted at the council's meeting Tuesday night.

Red Cross Hits 326 Pint Total In Blood Drive

A total of 326 pints of blood—274 short of the 600 goal—was collected in the two-day Red Cross blood drive which ended yesterday.

The drive was sponsored by the Air Force Reserved Officers Training Corps and the campus unit of the State College Chapter, American Red Cross.

Fifty-Seven Fail to Appear
Fifty-seven of the 150 persons scheduled to appear did not show up. Of the 326 donors, 267 were "walk-ins." Thirty-two donors were rejected for medical reasons.

Loren Tukey, assistant professor of pomology and chairman of the blood committee of the State College Red Cross, said the committee "appreciated every pint received, but wished that there could have been more."

Next Drive in Spring
Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, helped to set up the bloodmobile equipment and to take it down.

Dr. George Bender, of the University Health Service, assisted with the drive and also donated a pint of blood.

Plans are now underway for the two-day blood drive in the spring.

Time for Beginners
Alternatives to the suggestions were also considered. Harry Stack, fifth semester student in agriculture education, who worked with the council committee, proposed that the rink be opened nightly at 6:30 for beginner's instruction. This would give them a half hour of private instruction.

Stack was hired by the University last year as a skating rink guard and he will continue in that capacity this year.

The council mentioned that they also planned to have instructors at the rink daily to help anyone who asked for aid outside of the regular classes.

Fred M. Coombs, professor of physical education and council adviser, commented on the danger of figure skating in the center of the rink. He favored roping off a section of the rink for figure skating. This could be done on days when the attendance is poor or daily from 4 to 5 p.m.

The council reported that they had already received about five offers to instruct skating in exchange for free admission. It was estimated that 20 instructors would be needed.

In other action, the council voted to meet with the dean of the college and department heads at least twice a semester to discuss student and faculty problems.

Longer Yule Favored By BA Council

The Business Administration Student Council has gone on record in favor of the rescheduling the Christmas holiday from 11:50 a.m. to Dec. 20 to 8 a.m. Jan. 3.

The present schedule calls for the Christmas recess to extend from 11:50 a.m. Dec. 22 to 1:10 p.m. Jan. 2.

Travel Dangers Cited
Council members felt that the extension is necessary to allow students to take vacation jobs and eliminate the hazard of driving back to school on New Years Day.

The Council also heard a report at a meeting Monday night by Dr. R. Hadley Waters, head of the Department of Trade and Transportation, on the discussion of the special Business Administration committee on encouraging scholarship.

Exemption 'Not Desirable'
Waters told the council that the committee felt that exemption from final exams for superior students would not be desirable because the exemptions would work to the disadvantage of the less superior students.

The council members expressed agreement with the idea that an honor course similar to a graduate seminar be created for selected seniors and that industries be encouraged to create summer business fellowships for outstanding students between their junior and senior years.

In the '80s and early '90s all the students, except the few residing in or near the village of State College, roomed on the third, fourth, and fifth floors of Old Main.

Dodgers Win Again
NAGOYA, Japan, Nov. 7 (AP)—Gil Hodges wowed 25,000 Japanese baseball fans in his new role of clowning, left fielder as the Brooklyn Dodgers today won a 3-2 victory over the Japan All-Stars.

Clubs to Fraternities
Fraternities on the Penn State campus seem to have originated from "eating clubs." These clubs began around 1890 among groups of boys who boarded in the "village" of State College and did their own cooking.
