

Meat In Snowdon House Presents No Problem

Well-selected cuts of meat should be order of the day in the future home of Sandra Snowdon, junior in animal husbandry, of Allison Park.

The 20-year-old blond coed proved her adeptness in the meat field by becoming the first woman to record the highest individual score at the American Royal Livestock Show in Kansas City, Mo.

She won first place in pork judging and tied for second place in beef rating.

Miss Snowdon is one of the star members of Penn State's meat judging team. Her proud coaches, Glenn R. Kean, associate professor and acting head of the department of animal husbandry, and P. Thomas Zeigler, professor of animal husbandry, are full of praise on her outstanding abilities.

Was Promising Sophomore

Kean and Zeigler say Miss Snowdon showed promise as a sophomore last spring, turning in outstanding work in the beginners' meat judging course. She was one of six top students selected for the advanced course this fall.

In the meat judging, Miss Snowdon says she takes into consideration the confirmation (shape), finishing (fat cover), and general quality. Her abilities in rating beef, pork and lamb were developed in University courses which include selecting a different cut for each use.

No Definite Plans

She has no definite plans for the future but intends to follow the meat fields after graduation in 1958.

The coed says she isn't sure how she became interested in animal husbandry. She says it probably developed while working on her parents' eight acre farm, known as Spruce Knoll Farm, at Allison Park, near Pittsburgh.

Miss Snowdon has had a horse since she was 10.

In addition to starring on the meat judging team, she is a member of the Block and Bridle Club. She is looking forward to competition Nov. 27 at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, Ill.

Chest Drive---

The five organizations which will benefit from this year's drive are American Heart Association, American Cancer Society, World University Service, Cerebral Palsy Fund, and Penn State Student Scholarship Fund.

Trophies will be awarded to the fraternity and sorority and independent living unit that collect the most money per capita.

Executive Committee

Executive committee members in addition to Gellman and Long include:

Lawrence McCabe, solicitations; Dennis McArver and Dorothy DeMay, special events; Paul Kaufman, advertising; David Allison, men's dormitories; John Bote, freshman men's dormitories; Barbara Hendel and Beau Barnes, women's dormitories; Katherine Dickson and Anne Nitrauer, sorority women; Janet Reid and Gamma Sigma, town women; Alpha Phi Omega, town men; Judith Harkison, booklet; Addy Macamer and Adam Crist, World University Service; and Thomas Hollander, fraternities.

Elections---

Other issues supported in the Lion party platform are a half-holiday to be scheduled during each football season, extension of hours women students may receive telephone calls in the dormitories, and the extension of hours for freshman women to 1 a.m. on both Friday and Saturday nights.

The Campus party platform issues are aimed mainly at freshman students. The platform calls for a mock registration for freshmen the night members are chosen.

Campus party has taken no stand on the amendment putting Cabinet members on the Supreme Court.

Prof to Analyze Man's Behavior

Dr. B. F. Skinner, professor of psychology at Harvard University, will speak at 8 p.m. Friday in 119 Osmond on "Experimental Analysis of Behavior."

His lecture, sponsored by the Society of the Sigma Xi, will be open to the public.

During the summer of 1947, Dr. Skinner conducted an advanced course in "verbal behavior" at Columbia University. This study became the subject of a lecture series when in the fall of 1947, he was appointed by Harvard as a William James lecturer, one of the highest honors, attainable by an American psychologist.

After joining the Harvard faculty in 1948, Dr. Skinner continued this study and is currently preparing a book on verbal behavior.

Advisory Board To Hold Party

The Junior Class Advisory Board will hold a Christmas party for children of students and faculty Dec. 15 in the Hetzel Union Building.

Starting today, married students may register their children's names at the Hetzel Union desk so the advisory board may get an estimate of attendance at the party.

Movies will be shown in the HUB assembly hall and games will be played and refreshments served. Santa Claus will be present.

'Studio Nights' Planned

Plans for "studio nights" for students interested in art work have been made by a newly organized art education forum.

The studio nights are to be held from 7 to 10 p.m. each Tuesday in Temporary building.

Red Cross Plans Films

The Red Cross will show films on mother and baby care at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the State College High School.

The films are open to the public.
