

Nittany Booters Down Catholic U, 5-0

Coach Ken Hosterman's booters made their visit to the Nation's Capitol a short but happy one Saturday afternoon when they captured their sixth win of the season with a 5-0 victory over Catholic University.

It was a much-needed win for the Nittany Lions, who started off the two-game weekend with a Friday afternoon defeat to Navy, 2-1.

The soccermen continue their final four-game road tour this afternoon at Philadelphia against the twice-beaten booters of Temple.

As was the case in the Maryland contest two weeks ago, rain had much to do with keeping the score on a downgrade. The field was covered with several deep puddles of water and a light drizzle through the 88 minutes of play didn't help the conditions.

Mike Stollmeyer, Per Torgeson, and Steve Flamporis scored all of the Lions' goals with Stollmeyer pacing the trio with three. Flamporis' goal was his first of the season.

Stollmeyer's three points and Torgeson's single counter boosted the two sophomores into a three-way tie for team scoring honors with Tom Nute. Each man has scored 11 goals.

Nute failed to increase his scoring output over the weekend, being held scoreless by both Navy and Catholic U.

It took more than 15 minutes for the Lion attack to get started, but once it did, there was almost no stopping it.

Torgeson scored the first goal at 15:15 of the first period and Stollmeyer scored two more before the period ended. Stollmeyer added his third point in the opening minutes of the second stanza and the Lions led 3-0 at halftime.

The third quarter went scoreless but after eight minutes of the fourth frame, Flamporis tallied with a 25-yard kick from directly in front of the goal. The game could have ended right there for no more scoring could be accomplished by either team.

Despite their "international flavor" which saw only one man on the team from North America, Catholic could not launch a formidable offensive drive. They attempted 18 shots at the Nittany goal and had seven corner kicks.

The Lions, on the other hand, took 31 shots at the Cardinal goal and collected nine corner kicks.

Hosterman's eleven visits Temple today and closes out the season Saturday morning at Pittsburgh. Both the Owls and the Panthers will be out to upset the Lions.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer sells million-dollar equipment to utilities

Selling electric equipment for a utility substation—a complex unit used in power transmission and distribution—requires extensive technical knowledge of the products involved. Men who sell such complex equipment must also know a customer's requirements, what will best fill his needs, and how to sell the merits of their products to the executives who buy such apparatus.

One such man at General Electric is 31-year-old Allen J. Clay, an apparatus sales engineer serving the electrical utility companies in the Philadelphia-Allentown area.

Clay's Work Is Important, Diversified

For Clay, technical selling is not a door-to-door job. As a representative of General Electric, he must be ready to discuss customer needs with vice presidents or help solve intricate problems with skilled engineers. His recommendations are based on his own engineering background, and are backed up by the know-how of the Company's best application engineers. His interest in working with people carries over into his community life, where he takes a part in many local activities—Rotary, Community Chest, Boy Scouts, and his University Engineering Alumni Association.

27,000 College Graduates at General Electric

Allen Clay is a well-rounded individual who has come to be a spokesman for General Electric wherever he goes. Like each of our 27,000 college-graduate employees, he is being given the chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: Whenever fresh young minds are given freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the Company, and the country.

Educational Relations, General Electric Company, Schenectady 5, New York

ALLEN J. CLAY joined General Electric in 1946 after receiving a B. E. E. from the University of Virginia in 1945. A naval officer during World War II, Clay managed the Charlottesville, Virginia, office from 1950 to 1955.
