

Borough Manager Sees No Acute Parking Issue

By TERRY LEACH

No acute parking problem exists in State College, according to Robert Y. Edwards, borough manager.

Edwards, speaking at yesterday's meeting of the traffic commission, said he received only 10 questionnaires from students seeking emergency parking in the University vegetable gardens east of Hort Woods.

Town students needing emergency parking were permitted to use the garden until the borough was able to provide other facilities.

Edwards said he gave telephone numbers and names of four owners of off-street parking areas to five other students seeking parking facilities.

Temporary Stickers Issued
One of the owners, he said, has not as yet been contacted. Seventy-one temporary parking stickers were issued to fraternity members and 163 to independent town students. The stickers, issued on a hardship basis, permit street parking.

"There must not really be a demand for parking facilities," Edwards said.

Lash Howes, president of the Association of Independent Men, said the 2 to 6 a.m. parking ban recently approved by borough council solved the parking problem to some extent but at an inconvenience to town students.

Howes said he was told by several town students that they left their cars home rather than fight the parking problem.

Howes questioned the commission on the feasibility of an alternate night parking plan. The plan as used in New York and Philadelphia would permit parking on alternate sides of streets on alternate nights to enable the borough to clean the streets.

Edwards said the plan would work poorly in winter because snow removal problems demand cleaning both sides of streets the same night.

"Besides," he said, "The streets are not for the storage of cars."

Is Commission Needed?
Charles Schlow, town businessman attending the meeting, replied that if streets are not used for parking, then no needs exist for a traffic commission to regulate parking on streets.

Following four consecutive motions for recommendations to further limit parking in three areas and restrict vehicles stopping in a fourth, Schlow commented that the commission seemed concerned with restricting parking privileges rather than solving the parking problem.

Improvement Is Goal
Joseph Intorre, administrative assistant to the Institution of Public Safety at the University, replying to Schlow, said the suggested restrictions could be turned around and interpreted to mean improvements for borough motorists.

Discussion of a fifth suggestion, that two-way traffic be allowed on Locust Lane, followed.

Campus Chest Total Raised to $4,284.32

The Campus Chest executive committee received an additional $500 in contributions this week as final returns slowly trickled into the office.

New contributions bring the total collected during the solicitations drive to $4,284.32. This total is $7,715.68 short of the $12,000 goal established by the executive committee at the beginning of the drive.

TIM Vetoes Regrouping Proposal

Town Independent Men Wednesday night voted down a proposal which called for reorganizing the group into a council of 30 elected men, instead of the town forum plan now used:

The proposal, which was backed by TIM President James Tipton, favored amending the constitution so the elected council would conduct the meetings and handle matters pertaining to TIM.

Motion Defeated
After extensive debate the motion to present the new plan to the constitution committee was defeated by a vote of 10 to 8.

The proposal was presented by Robert Bray. He and Tipton spoke in favor of the reorganization. Tipton said that under the council system Town Independent Men would gain more recognition and would have a better chance of gaining a seat on All-University Cabinet.

Speaking against the motion were James Goodwin and John Taladay. Goodwin said if the council were formed the town men would lose interest in their organization.

TIM to Check Court
In other business TIM went on record as favoring the establishment of an Association of Independent Men committee to investigate the actions of the Student Traffic Court, which some members felt may be unfair in its penalties.

The average contribution per capita was 62 cents, a 17-cent increase from last year's average of 45 cents.

The winner of the fraternity trophy was announced yesterday by Edward Long, tabulations chairman. Phi Epsilon Pi, with 45 men contributing $99, was the winner. The fraternity collected the most money per capita and also the donations represented 100 per cent contributions from the fraternity members. Average contribution was $2.20.

Beta Sig Gets 2nd Place
Runner-up was Beta Sigma Rho, with 47 men contributing $47.50, or averaging a dollar per person. Long said that there are still several units that have not returned money, but that he expected a listing of total returns to be ready by 8 p.m. tomorrow.

The winners of the independent living unit trophy will probably be announced next week after complete returns have been received.

The five-day solicitations drive was conducted from Nov. 12 to Nov. 16, but the greatest amount of money was returned after the drive had officially closed at 11 p.m. on Nov. 16.

Card System Used
The card preferential system was again employed in this year's drive so students could designate to which of five organizations they wished to contribute. The five organizations included the American Heart Association, the American Cancer Society, Penn State Student Scholarship Fund, Pennsylvania Society for Crippled Children and Adults, and World University Service.

University's Prize Steer Sells for Record Price

By BILL KLING

The University's grand champion steer, PS Troubador, 2nd, was sold for an all-time record price of $20.50 a pound as it went on the auction block yesterday at the 57th annual International Livestock Exposition in Chicago.

The 995-pound Shorthorn steer was bought by the Greenbriar Hotel of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., for $20,397.50.

The previous record was a price of $20 a pound set in 1953 by a 1,105-pound Hereford owned by Sue White of Big Springs, Tex.

Steer Gains 10 Pounds
The grand champ weighed 985 pounds when it won the title Tuesday, but it gained 10 pounds since then and weighed in after the sale yesterday at 995 pounds.

The reserve grand champion steer of the show, PS Eileenmere II, also shown by the University, was purchased for $3 a pound and a total of $3,510 by Arbogast and Bastian, Inc., an Allentown meat-packing company.

May Appear on TV
The agriculture information office reported that Troubador might possibly appear on the Ed Sullivan television show Sunday night.

The money from the sale of the two animals will be used to increase the University's livestock herd.

Bred in Ohio
The grand champion, a senior yearling, was bred by Cleveland industrialist Cyrus Eaton at his Acadia Farm, Northfield, Ohio. Eaton is chairman of the board of the Chesapeake and Delaware Railway, which owns the Greenbriar Hotel.

The mother of the prize-winning steer, also bred at Acadia Farm, was purchased for $1,000 by the University at Acadia's annual auction in 1955. She was sold pregnant to the service of Calrossie Troubadour. The champion steer, a result of this mating, was born at the University.

Angus Named Champ
The reserve champion, a junior yearling Angus, was named grand champion at the recent Eastern National Livestock Exposition in Timonium, Md., and was bought by the same firm, Arbogast and Bastian Inc., for $5.10 a pound but was returned to the University for the International Exposition. The University's grand champion wether lamb is scheduled for sale today.

2 Make Top Ten
Two members of the University meat judging team placed in the top ten in competition at the exposition.

Leslie Firth, junior in agricultural education from Sugargrove, placed fourth, and Sandra Snowdon, junior in animal husbandry from Allison Park, was 10th.

The third University competitor was Thomas Blose, junior in animal husbandry from Glen Campbell.
