

Behind the FMA Question

Twenty Fraternities List Reasons for Opposition

By BOB FRANKLIN
Third of a Series

Seven reasons—including better savings elsewhere and opposition by the cook—have been listed as reasons for not joining the Fraternity Marketing Association by 20 houses.

The reasons were listed in a report of an Interfraternity Council committee studying the association. The IFC will vote Monday on a resolution which would require automatic membership in FMA on the part of all IFC members and which calls for a review of the FMA constitution and organization.

The other reasons for fraternity opposition listed by the report were:

1. "Better deals" through alumni who are merchants.
2. Understood that the quality of goods distributed through FMA was lower.
3. Trouble raising the required deposit.
4. Brothers "leary" of the FMA program.
5. "Complete indifference" toward FMA.

The report, which was generally favorable toward continuance of the association, was prepared by a committee under the direction of IFC vice president Howard F. Thompson.

Of the 20 fraternities which are not now members of FMA, it indicated that 16 would be willing to join for at least a semester if all other fraternities did, but that four would not join under any circumstances.

One fraternity officer has said his house has received consistently better discounts over the past several years than have houses in the FMA program. He said that the organization of the association has had no influence on the discount rate given his fraternity. He also said he believed that,

LaVie Art Staff to Meet

The LaVie art staff will meet at 7:15 tonight in 201 Temporary.

ChemPhys Council Will Meet Tonight

The Chemistry and Physics Student Council will meet at 7 tonight in 209 Hetzel Union.

The meeting will be of an organizational nature, according to Joseph Eberly, council president, because five newly-elected members will be sitting on the council for the first time.

The council will discuss plans for the annual science fair and open house held in the spring, and hear a report by the organizational committee of the Chem-Phys Newsletter.

Collegian Candidates

The Daily Collegian editorial candidates will meet at 7 tonight in 111 Carnegie. Candidates have been asked to bring pencil and paper.

Choir to Present Christmas Music

Eighty members of the Chapel Choir will present a concert of Christmas music tonight at the St. John's Lutheran Church in Lewistown.

The concert is sponsored by the Lewistown Music Study Club.

The choir, which is directed by Willa C. Taylor, will be assisted by the Rev. Samuel Wicker, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, and the Rev. Luther H. Harshbarger, University chaplain.
