Traffic Court Probe Postponed by AIM

Action on a recommendation requesting the Association of Independent Men to establish a committee to investigate the penalties and fines imposed by the Traffic Court was postponed Tuesday night until the next AIM meeting.

The recommendation was presented to the AIM Board of Governors by James Tipton, president of Town Independent Men.

APhiO Tops $1500 Mark For Relief

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, has collected a total of $1501.57 for Hungarian relief, and money is still coming in.

Glen Elder, president, said this money was obtained through the marathon on radio station WMAJ, parking meter collections for one day, and downtown solicitors.

In addition, $600 was donated after "Austerity Day," and more than $900 was given in a campaign by a borough doctor.

$3000 Collected

Approximately $3000 has been received through the combined efforts of students and townspeople.

A borough trucking firm has offered its trucks to transport the clothing donations to Philadelphia warehouses. From there the contributions will be shipped overseas, Elder said.

Clothing to Be Cleaned

The clothing is being cleaned free of charge by State College cleaning establishments with the necessary facilities.

Women volunteers from the borough have taken charge of mending the clothes.

Blankets are still badly needed, Elder said, and should be turned in at the borough hall through next week.

The University has contributed several boxes of blankets to the cause.

Awards Offered In WH Contest

Prizes totaling $50 will be awarded in the West Dorms area annual Christmas window display contest.

A judging committee composed of professors and students will evaluate the entries during the weekend before the Christmas holidays.

The prizes will be awarded on the basis of originality, theme, and artistic ability. Residents of the West Dorms area may compete for the prizes either individually or in groups.

Finch to Give Address

Dr. Henry A. Finch, associate professor of philosophy, will speak on "Why We Laugh" at a meeting of the Graduate English club at 8 p.m. Tuesday in 214-215 Hetzel Union.

He explained to the group that TIM had recommended this action because at least 12 students questioned their penalties from Traffic Court. At least one charged that his case had been decided before he had been heard, Tipton said.

Charges Answered

"No one is judged guilty until all extenuating circumstances have been presented," said John Dennis, a member of the AIM board and a member of Traffic Court, in answer to the charges.

Lash Howes, president of AIM, told the board, that if an investigation of Traffic Court is to be conducted he feels it should be done by the All-University Cabinet since members of the court are appointed by Cabinet.

Cabinet Action Suggested

It was suggested that a recommendation directing Cabinet to conduct an investigation of the court would be in order.

The issue will be discussed further when the AIM board meets on Tuesday night and has more information with which to work.

Tipton will present actual complaints as filed by students against the Traffic Court at next week's meeting.

Opinion Favorable

Daniel Thalimer, chairman of the AIM community living committee and West Halls Council president, presented a preliminary report of his committee which showed that opinion received from both students and University officials has been highly favorable toward the plan.

The poll conducted among 500 students of both sexes showed a favorable reaction on the part of 81 per cent of the persons questioned. The plan proposes a living program with equal numbers of men and women living in the same areas, but in separate residence halls.

On the administrative level, seven persons, including Wilmer E. Kenworthy, Otto E. Mueller, Ross Lehman, Chaplain Luther H. Harshbarger, Dean of Men Frank J. Simes, William B. Crafts, and Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, have endorsed the plan.

Letters Sent

Thalimer said letters have been sent to the National Student Association and to the National Independent Student Association requesting information on the community living plan at other universities where it has been tried.

Valentine Named To All-America

By FRAN FANUCCI
Collegian Sports Editor

Sam Valentine, one of the greatest guards and linebackers to ever don a Lion uniform, has been named to Look Magazine's All-America football team. He is the first player to attain that recognition in Coach Rip Engle's seven years here and only the ninth in the 70-year history of Penn State football.

The 5-11, 205-pound senior Captain from DuBois was the choice of the Football Writers of America for one of the guard positions on the 22-man squad.

SAM VALENTINE, All-America guard

Valentine, along with Engle and other Look All-Americans, will appear on the Perry Como television show at 8 p.m. tomorrow. The show will be telecast on channel 6.

Valentine, called "the greatest leader I've ever had under me" by Engle, was the defensive might behind the Lions great forward wall. He was responsible, along with center Dan Radakovich, for over half the team's tackles.

His sharp football savvy enabled him to diagnose opponents' plays with amazing adeptness, and he was always in the right place at the right time.

Four times he was named to the weekly All-East team, which alone indicates the consistency of his amazing play. More than once his brute tackles on the kickoff and on punts brought an entire stadium to its feet, as a fleet number 60 dodging would-be blockers, cracked through a host of defenders to crunch an opponent to the ground.

As a captain there are few comparable to him. He was probably the paramount factor why Engle lauded his team as "one full of desire and spirit."

Picked to lose seven games in pre-season ratings, the Lions, led by the amazing leadership of Valentine, swept by six opponents—including national power Ohio State—while losing only two and tying one.

Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes called the Lion defense as the toughest he saw all year, while North Carolina State assistant Coach Bill Smaltz said: "There's not a tougher line around."

Henderson to Provide Music, Crown 1956 Mil Ball Queen

Skitch Henderson and his orchestra will provide the music for the annual Military Ball from 9 to 1 tonight in Recreation Hall.

Henderson will crown the Mil Ball Queen with a coronet of white roses at 10:45 p.m. The five finalists will pass through an arch of sabres and a cordon formed by members of Scabbard and Blade and Pershing Rifles, national military honorary societies.

Gilbert Freedman, master of ceremonies and chairman of the Mil Ball Committee, will present a silver trophy and bouquets of red roses to the Queen and the members of the court.

5 Finalists Compete

The finalists are Elizabeth Corman, freshman in physical education from State College, sponsored by James Rossi, NROTC; Patricia Finley, freshman in medical technology from Pittsburgh, sponsored by William Liggett, AROTC; and Barbara Kinnier, junior in elementary education from Dansboro, sponsored by Leonard Rosenbaum, AFROTC.

The other finalists are Dorothy Lentz, sophomore in elementary education from Media, sponsored by Lee McVey, AFROTC; and Jane Mahoney, student at the Notre Dame Academy for Girls

Lion Foresees Cold Weather

The warm weather which has prevailed in the area during the past few days will not last for the weekend, according to the University weather station.

A cold front is scheduled to move into the vicinity, bringing with it low temperatures and possible snow flurries.

The Nittany Lion had looked forward to an outdoor weekend, foraging in the woodlands for small game for the winter months. But the prospect of low temperatures cancelled all the Lion's plans.

"Ah, well," he said to himself, "perhaps a little den party Saturday night. That always helps to warm things up."

The predicted high for today is 54. There is a chance of snow flurries in the afternoon, with the temperature dropping to the low 30's tonight.

Applications Available For Advisory Boards

Applications will be accepted for positions on the freshman and sophomore class Advisory Boards until 5 p.m. today at the Hetzel Union desk.

Students interested in applying should submit a letter stating their activities and reasons for wanting to be on the board. Sophomores should include their All-University average.

Reds' Use of Arms in Hungary Called "Unwarranted" by U.S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—In a sharply worded protest to Russia, the United States today denounced what it called "unwarranted" use of Red army tanks and guns against "helpless civilians" in Hungary.

Gives Verbal Protest

Deputy Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy took 10 minutes to deliver the protest verbally to Sergei Striganov of the Soviet Embassy. Twice Murphy told Striganov to pass the word to Moscow immediately.

Specifically, Murphy objected to Soviet tanks patrolling outside the U.S. legation in revolt-torn Budapest—even to the point of parking on the sidewalk—while Hungarians peacefully demonstrated.

Murphy said that was only one incident. He said the United States, like the great majority of the United Nations, is deeply concerned over Soviet military suppression of the Hungarian rebellion.

Striganov Says Little

Striganov, a small bespectacled man with straight dark hair, sat through Murphy's protestation without a word. Then he inquired whether Murphy was aware of the Soviet position in the UN.

Yes, fully aware, Murphy replied, and he repeated that he wanted the Soviet government notified immediately of the American protest.

State Department press officer Lincoln White told newsmen about the meeting between the red-haired Murphy and Striganov, Soviet embassy counselor who is in charge while Ambassador Georgi Zarubin is attending the UN sessions in New York City.

Third U.S. Protest

It was the third time since the Oct. 29 revolt that the U.S. government has protested directly to the Soviet government against Red army actions in Hungary. The other occasions involved Soviet troop interference with efforts of Americans to leave the country.
