

Subcommittee to Review Hit and Run Accident

The Senate Subcommittee on Discipline will meet today to review a case of a student guilty of hit and run driving in an accident Nov. 20 north of McElwain Hall on Pollock Rd.

Richard G. Forry, 22, freshman in electrical engineering from Lebanon, was arrested by the Campus Patrol and charged with failure to stop at the scene of an accident, failure to give name, address, and license, and failure to give assistance as needed at an accident.

The subcommittee on discipline will review a recommendation made Tuesday by Tribunal on Forry's case. The subcommittee hears disciplinary probation, suspension and expulsion cases recommended by Tribunal.

Accident Explained

The accident occurred at night when Forry, proceeding east on Pollock Rd. cut to the left and passed a car stopped at the intersection of Shortlidge and Pollock Rds., police said.

Passing through the intersection, Forry drove his car on the bank of the Jordan Fertility Plots, attempting to pass another car which had previously passed through the intersection, police said. Forry's car skidded off the bank into the left side of the other car.

Forry later told State College police that someone stole his car while he was attending a downtown theater.

Pleads Guilty

At a hearing Nov. 26 before Squire Guy G. Mills, Forry pleaded guilty to the three charges and was released under $200 bail. The charges were brought by the student whose car was damaged.

At Centre County Court last Tuesday, Forry was fined $50 and accident costs.

The subcommittee will also review recommendations made Tuesday by Tribunal on two students charged with entering the room of a student when he was home for a weekend.

Offenses Given

The dean of men's office will make the final decision on two other students involved in the case.

The four students were charged with entering the room, cracking a window, breaking a light, spilling coffee on linen and bedding, smearing jelly on text books, spilling cookies on the floor, spraying shaving cream around the room and pulling a brass plate from the door.

Westminster Choir Recital Changed

The date for the appearance of the Westminster Choir in State College has been changed from Feb. 20 to March 13.

The change was made necessary because of an extension of the Choir's tour in Asia, David H. McKinley, chairman of the State College Concert Association, said. The Choir will be the fifth and final number in the current concert series at the University.

Moua Lympany, English-Hungarian pianist, will present the fourth concert of the series on Jan. 10.

Station W3YA Obtains 1000-Watt Transmitter

The reconstruction of the new all-band, 1000-watt transmitter has been completed for the University's Amateur Radio Organization.

The new transmitter has enabled W3YA staffers to receive stations from such places as Manitoba and British Columbia.

The University division of ARO is headed by Gilbert L. Crossley, associate professor of electrical engineering.

Firemen Search for Clues

ALPHA FIREMEN SEARCH a muddy mountain road in the area behind Whipple Dam for possible footprints of a missing hunter. The searchers failed to find the hunter, who wandered out by himself. Story and another picture on page 1.

Official Believes University Not Liable for Fish

Robert J. Trace, deputy attorney general assigned to the State Sanitary Water Board, said in an offhand opinion yesterday that he does not think the University will have to pay for the fish killed in Spring Creek two weeks ago.

The fish were killed by a solution of sodium cyanide released by the Naval Research Ordnance laboratory at the University.

Private Firms Liable

Trace said the state has collected from private industrial firms in similar cases before, but he did not think the state could collect from the University since it was a state institution.

"I think the University is immune from suit," he said, in this instance.

Board to Discuss

Dr. Berwin Mattison, chairman of the state Sanitary Water Board, said the board will discuss the case in Harrisburg on Dec. 19 and 20.

The Board will probably make a recommendation to the Attorney General as to whether the University should pay for the fish.

Ag Economics Club

The Agriculture Economics Club will hold a bowling party preceded by a business meeting at 7:30 tonight at Alpha Zeta fraternity.

Prizes will be awarded to the leading bowlers.

Dr. William T. Morton was the first to use ether to deaden pain in an operation in Boston.

Campus Cops Reunite 'Gus' With Walkers

"Gus" Walker was returned home safe and sound yesterday after his first scrape with the Campus Patrol.

"Gus," a German shepherd owned by President Eric A. Walker, owes his safe return to an animal-loving clerk in the State College Municipal Building.

Mrs. Helen Price Wednesday afternoon received a telephone complaint that a dog was running loose near the Nittany dining hall. Mrs. Price decided it was not a borough matter and called Campus Patrol.

The Campus Patrol informed Mrs. Price it had no facilities for handling stray dogs and said the animal would have to be destroyed. Mrs. Price volunteered to take care of the dog, describing him as a "real nice German shepherd."

Wednesday evening campus patrolmen delivered "Gus" to the Prices who said they would keep him if nobody claimed him.

Yesterday morning the Campus Patrol informed the Prices that Gus has a last name.

Student Injured

Harold Miller, sophomore in business administration from Scranton, was treated for a cut over the left eye Wednesday at Centre County Hospital in Bellefonte.

Miller was hit in the eye by another student while playing handball in physical education class.

Safety Program Outlined By State Traffic Director

Dr. Amos E. Neyhart, administrative head of the Institute of Public Safety, today outlined a three-pronged program aimed at reducing the state's grim total of highway casualties.

Dr. Neyhart, newly-appointed executive director of Gov. George M. Leader's new Traffic Safety Council, said his plan called for emphasis on education, examination and inspection, according to the Associated Press. He added that his ideas "are suggestions only. The council will decide the program."

He suggested the tentative program as the council went into its first meeting here for the purpose of organization. Gov. Leader and other state officials were invited to address the meeting.

On education, Neyhart said the state should consider "employing a stiffer driver examination."

Drivers Told to Prove Worth

"And when they pass the examination I believe drivers should be on probation for two years. Let them prove they are worthy," Neyhart said.

"Anybody who gets more than two motor violations should be called before a license board to show cause why their license should not be revoked," he added.

"Many thousands of Pennsylvania drivers have never taken a test at all," Neyhart noted.

Drivers to Be Re-examined

"I believe there should be re-examination of drivers every three years," he added. "It can be done. Why can't we raise the license fee a little bit, then have a full, competent staff to re-examine drivers? It should be a staff of professional people."

Neyhart estimated the cost of setting up such a re-examination program "would cost more than a dollar" in addition to the present state license fee.

He added that proper driver examination takes about 30 minutes.

"Further, I believe the major job to be done is in education," Neyhart contended. "We need a very careful training program. It seems terrible to me to license anyone unless he has had a complete and thorough training program."

To Discuss Radar

The agenda of the initial meeting called for discussion of legalization of radar, standardization of traffic codes and possible traffic safety legislation.

So far in 1956, 1439 people have been killed on Pennsylvania highways. The total for all of 1955 was 1727 killed and 147,000 injured. (Continued on page eight)

Lost Hunter—

Searchers Combed Woods

The party, flashlights in hand, combed the woods by flank lines with the end man walking on mountain paths.

Anxiety over Hoffmire's safety increased when the searchers learned he had a heart condition.

Hoffmire, a veteran hunter, was on his first outing in the State College area.

Stayed in Cabin

He wandered the woods, he said, until he came across a cabin in the Greenlee section, about five miles from Bell Ridge. He spent part of the night in the cabin, which he broke into. He said he left a note to the owner saying he would pay for the damages.

At 6 a.m. he started walking again and landed up at Whipple Dam, where he was spotted by construction workers. They took him to the ranger's house, where he ate breakfast and called his wife.

Seven Faculty Appointments OK'd by Board

Appointments of seven members to the faculty have been approved by the executive committee of the Board of Trustees.

They include:

Dr. Edwin L. Cooper, formerly chief fisheries biologist for Wisconsin Conservation Department, associate professor of zoology, effective Dec. 1;

H. Harold Kelley, of the College of Engineering, University of Colorado, associate professor of engineering research, Ordnance Research Laboratory, effective Feb. 1;

Dr. Fred C. Snyder, who prior to his appointment earlier this year as acting assistant director of resident instruction and director of short courses in the College of Agriculture, was a teacher of vocational agriculture at Mifflinburg, General Extension, effective Jan. 1.

The following were appointed research associates in physics: Dr. Sadao Hoshino, formerly of Toyo Institute of Technology; Dr. Thomas A. Kaplan, formerly of University of Michigan; Dr. Toshio Mitsui, formerly of Hokkaido University and Dr. K. Vedam, formerly of Indian Institute of Science,
