

Profs to Lead Discussion On Present World Crisis

Dr. Alfred G. Pundt, professor of European history, and Dr. John E. Pixton, assistant professor of history, will lead a discussion on "Understanding the Present World Crisis" at 8 tonight in the Memorial Lounge of the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel.

Dr. Pundt will open the meeting with a brief survey of

Coed Totals Most Points In Debate

Marian Camins, sophomore in arts and letters from Scranton, recorded the high point total for the Women's Debate Team in the Pittsburgh Cross Examination Tournament.

Arguing on the affirmative side of the national debate topic, Miss Camins scored 28 points. She was rated six, six, four, five and seven.

Donovan Second

Ellen Donovan, sophomore in arts and letters from Emporium, ran a close second to Miss Camins with 27 points, receiving ratings of six, six, four, five and six. She also argued on the affirmative side.

The University team competed against five other collegiate opponents and scored 98 points. Northwestern University took the team trophy with a total of 120 points.

Two Take Negative

The University team's negative side was composed of Arlene D'Onofrio, sophomore in arts and letters from Broomhall, and Marilyn Cohen, sophomore in education from Athens. Miss D'Onofrio was rated four, four, six, five and three; Miss Cohen received ratings of three, five, five, five and three.

The grading is as follows: seven, superior; six, excellent; five, good; four, above average; three, average; two, poor; one, very poor.

He was elected yesterday at the institute's meeting in Pittsburgh.

Harvard Prof Says:

Sociologists Need Rewards

By DAVE FINEMAN

Dr. Samuel A. Stouffer, professor of sociology and director of the Laboratory of Social Relations at Harvard University, said last night that the behavioral sciences in general, and sociology in particular, must revise their systems of "rewards" in order to speed the development of these sciences.

In a speech at the annual fall dinner meeting of the Social Science Research Center, Dr. Stouffer held that such a new outlook in a system of "rewards," or recognition for achievement, is necessary to promote two extremely important factors in good sociological research—strategy and the search for proof.

Strategic research, he said, is the examination of seemingly trivial problems, the gathering of the problems of American security. Dr. Pixton will outline American foreign policy, the emergence of the United States as a world power and the factors affecting foreign policy since 1900.

A conversational discussion will follow. The meeting, which is open to the public, is sponsored by the University Christian Association and the League of Women Voters of State College.

The Hillel Foundation Cultural Committee will present a public showing of the world famous film classic, "The Dybbuk," at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Hillel auditorium.

The two-hour film is spoken in Yiddish and has full English subtitles which more than adequately convey the rich mystical theme of the Eastern European folk legend. Students, faculty, and townspeople may attend. There is no admission charge.

The junior class members of the Lutheran Student Association will do the cooking for the Cost supper held at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Lutheran Student Center. The price of the dinner is 40 cents. It will be followed by a Candlelight Service at 6:30 p.m.

The Canterbury Association will hold an Even song at 5 tomorrow night at St. Andrew's Church. The Rev. Clarence Reimer of St. John's Episcopal Church in Bellefonte will speak on "The Christian Approach to Christmas" at the Canterbury supper and meeting which follows at 5:30 p.m.

The Newman Club will hold an open house at the Catholic Student Center tonight. The club will also have Christmas caroling tomorrow night, meeting at the Center at 7:30. Refreshments will be served at the Center afterwards.

The Westminster Foundation will hold a special Christmas Service at 6:20 p.m. tomorrow at the Presbyterian Student Center. The worship service will be a dramatic interpretation of the Scriptures. It will be followed by caroling in the State College area and end with a "warm-up party" at Sarah Bringham's home on Harris Street.

The Rev. Darrell Eddy will speak at the Calvary Baptist Church Christmas Service at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow in Woodman Hall at 112 W. Hamilton Ave.

Yule Program Scheduled By Interlandia Dancers

The Interlandia folk dance group will hold a Christmas folk dance and carol sing from 7 to 10 tonight in the Hetzel Union Ballroom.

The group will present selected favorite dances and will also introduce several new dances. Admission is free.

which, however, would prove to be a great step in the direction of finding valid principles.

However, he said, such strategic research is discouraged by the practice of minor or no recognition. He explained that this practice arises from two main ideas, seeming triviality and lack of great, innovating importance.

Understanding Needed

In order for such recognition, Dr. Stouffer said, there must be understanding of the importance of strategic research.

The other important factor suffering from lack of sufficient reward, he indicated, is proving of findings.

He explained that proof is undramatic, and often undesired. Sweeping statements that are plausible, even though they are untrue, are more readily accepted than evidence and conclusive proofs.

County Agent Coffee Hour To Be Held

The Agriculture and Home Economics Student Councils will co-sponsor the annual Ag Hill Coffee Hour for agricultural county agents and extension home economists from 4 to 5:30 p.m. Monday in the Extension Conference Center.

The coffee hour will be held in observance of an Extension Conference being held at the University from Monday through Thursday.

Speakers at the coffee hour will be Dr. Lyman E. Jackson, dean of the College of Agriculture; Dr. David R. McClay, acting assistant dean of the college, and Herbert R. Albrecht, associate dean and director of agricultural and home economics extension.

Dr. Michael A. Farrell, associate dean and director of agricultural and home economics extension, and Norman Schue, Agriculture Student Council president will also speak.

The coffee hour is open to students in the Agriculture and Home Economics colleges.

Signs to Clarify Driving Rules

Students returning from Christmas vacation will find two new signs to clarify rules on driving hours on campus.

The sign at the intersection of Burrows and Pollock Rds. and a similar sign at the intersection of Shortlidge and Pollock Rds. state students may not drive on campus during class hours.

The two new signs which will replace them will permit no student driving on campus between 7:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 7:30 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

Lucien E. Bolduc, director of the Campus Patrol, said the new signs will be installed to comply with University parking and traffic regulations.

As the signs now read, he said, students may drive on campus during the noon hour which helps create traffic problems.

Namesake--

Three Presidents Honored—Only three buildings—Burrows, Sparks, and Hetzel Union—were named after University presidents, while two—Atherton Hall and the Helen Eakin Eisenhower Chapel—were named for the wives of presidents.

The only physician to be honored was Dr. Anna O. Stephens, physician in the University Health Service.

The buildings presented by industrialists Charles M. Schwab and Andrew Carnegie carry their names. They are the only persons who were not associated with the University to be honored in this way.

"People don't want proof; they want testimony," said Dr. Stouffer, but just because this is so, it need not remain so, and should not.

Slighting of proof and reward for only plausible theories minimizes the chances for advancement of the search for truth, he said.

Another Obstacle Noted

Dr. Stouffer also stressed another obstacle to success, that of confusion in discussions of problems.

He held that sociologists must find common levels of discussion, placing their questions on much the same grounds. For an example, he stated that two sociologists working together, one with a view to the psychological side and the other thinking along strictly sociological lines, could never arrive at a mutual and accurate conclusion.

Orchestra and Choir Will Give Concerts

The Chapel Choir and University Symphony Orchestra will present their annual winter concerts tonight and tomorrow in Schwab Auditorium.

The Candlelight Worship Service of the choir will be held at 10:55 tonight and at the regular chapel hour, 10:55 a.m. tomorrow. For each service, doors to the auditorium will open 30 minutes before the beginning of the program.

The choir will sing both traditional and lesser-known Christmas songs and carols. The service will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Luther H. Harshbarger, University chaplain, and the Rev. Preston N. Williams, assistant to the chaplain.

Taylor Directs Choir

The choir is directed by Mrs. Willa C. Taylor and is accompanied by George E. Ceiga, organist.

The orchestra will give its Winter Concert at 3 p.m. tomorrow. The program will be opened with "Toccata," composed by Girolamo Frescobaldi and transcribed by Hans Kindler. The piece was originally written for the organ.

"Russian Melodies"

"Four Russian Melodies" arranged by Louis Gesensway will follow the "Toccata." The arranger has not elaborated on the haunting folksongs, but has presented them simply in orchestral guise.

The program will continue with "Adagio for Strongs" by the contemporary composer Samuel Barber. Of all American musical works, this one is probably best known abroad. Its original form was the slow movement of a string quartet, but the work has gained impact through orchestral transcription.

Open to Public

The final number will be Symphony No. 4, Op. 88 in G by Antonin Dvorik. Not as well known as Dvorak's New World Symphony, this work abounds in lush Hungarian folk songs.

The first two movements, allegro con brio and adagio, are in traditional sonata and rondo forms. The third appears as a nostalgic waltz, and the last combines theme and variation with the sonata form.

Both the orchestra and choir concerts are open to the public. No admission will be charged.

LaVie Schedules 7 Group Pictures

Seven group pictures will be taken for LaVie on Monday night at the Penn State Photo Shop.

The groups and their designated times are: Women's Judicial at 6:40, Players at 6:50, Froth at 7:00, LaVie at 7:10, Collegian at 7:40, Women's Chorus at 8 and Glee Club at 8:10.

Men are to wear dark coats and ties, and women are to wear white long-sleeved blouses.

University Approves 7 Leaves

Seven faculty members have been granted leaves of absence by the University.

Dr. Marsh W. White, professor of physics, has been granted a leave from Feb. 1 to June 30. Dr. White plans to visit a number of departments of physics in this country and Europe and to do some writing.

Dr. William E. Cobb, assistant professor in education, granted a leave from Nov. 8 to June 30, is serving as an educational research specialist with the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Harrisburg.

McGarey Sets Plans

Dr. Donald G. McGarey, professor of education, has been granted a leave from Sept. 1 to Jan. 31 to do some writing and to visit outstanding American schools.

A leave was approved for Dr. John C. Major, professor of English composition, for Feb. 1 to June 30. Dr. Major will conduct research in the field of the American writer in Europe.

Murphy to Travel

Dr. George E. Murphy, professor of education and director of the Reading Clinic, will be on leave from July 1 to June 30 and plans to travel.

Dr. Henry G. Lew, professor of aeronautical engineering, was granted a leave from Sept. 1 to June 30 to engage in research for industry in the missiles field.

A leave was granted to John W. Holl, research associate in the Ordnance Research Laboratory, from Dec. 1 to June 30. He will be enrolled at the University for graduate study.

Coeds to Make Debut At West Halls Council

Coeds will sit on West Halls Council for the first time when it meets at 7 p.m. Monday in McKee lounge.

The council will hear a report of the Waring Hall food service tour taken last week.

The final arrangements for the mixed dinner-dance have been completed for Tuesday. A dance in the Waring lounge will follow the dinner.
