FMA Votes To Operate Until Spring

The Fraternity Marketing Association Board of Trustees last night voted to continue operations next semester until such time as the Interfraternity Council can set up a cooperative buying program of its own.

The action was taken only after IFC President Daniel Land assured the board that IFC will financially underwrite the program for next semester.

Land also revealed that President Eric A. Walker and Wilmer E. Kenworthy, director of student affairs, will appear before the Committee on Student and Staff Welfare of the University's Board of Trustees to secure official sanction of an IFC cooperative buying program.

IFC Asks Action

FMA's action was taken upon a request from the IFC executive committee. In a letter to Assistant Dean of Men Harold W. Perkins, president of the FMA board, Land asked the association to continue its present program "until IFC receives authorization to operate an IFC program."

Such a program, he said, will be established before the end of the spring semester, if authorized by the University. He also said that "it is the hope of the (IFC) executive committee that the FMA will further agree to give IFC the benefit of its knowledge and experience in the projected buying program."

Seen Closer to IFC

Joseph Eberly, IFC parliamentarian, told the trustees he envisions a group similar to the FMA board, but under closer control of IFC, operating the cooperative buying program in the future.

He said IFC will endeavor to set up such a program as soon as possible while it would still have the advantages of FMA assistance and time to become established before next year.

Land's letter also pledged IFC support to work with FMA to effect "an orderly transfer of buying functions" if the board would agree to continue its program.

'Lantern' Sale Starts Monday

The fall semester edition of the Lantern, campus literary magazine, will be on sale next Monday and Tuesday.

The Lantern will be on sale in the Hetzel Union Building, West Dorms, the Corner Room, and at the Mall Bulletin Board.

The Lantern will contain poetry, fiction, short stories, and sketches. The price of the magazine is 25 cents.

Robert Nurock, business manager of the Lantern, said that there will be 800 copies of this issue printed. Expansion of the magazine for next semester will hinge on the sale of this issue, he said.

The literary magazine has received a contribution of $25 from Chimes, junior women's hat society. This brings the total contributions to $200. The money will be used for the expansion of next semester's edition if the sales of this issue are satisfactory.

January Graduates

Seniors graduating in January may obtain their invitations and announcements at the Hetzel Union desk. Receipts must be presented.

SCRAP METAL AND DEATH FOR TWO. This is the Turnpike toll paid by two University students, including sophomore basketball standout Carmen Palmiero, 19, as they sped toward their Philadelphia homes Dec. 21 for the Christmas holidays. Also killed was Stanley Goldstein, 19-year-old sophomore in civil engineering. The scrap-pile remains of the convertible are being hoisted here by a Lebanon tow truck for removal from the crash site, three miles west of the Lebanon-Lancaster Interchange. State Trooper Leonard Jarzenbowicz inspects the death car, which crashed into the rear of a truck.

Campus Plans Set For Civil Defense

By PAT EARLEY

Tentative emergency plans for the operation of the University Civil Defense program in case of air attack, invasion or natural disaster are being set up, according to Director Joseph Intorre.

The main purpose of the plans in the event of an enemy attack is to provide an evacuation center for residents of the surrounding area. The University was chosen because it already has many of the facilities required for handling large volumes of people.

The University program, which will coincide with the State College program, will involve the organization of such departments as housing and registration, transportation and communication, food, security, medical and utilities.

The State College program, directed by Col. William R. Young, will be a separate organization.

Bomb shelters for the protection of students in case of an air raid will be set up in basements of campus buildings. For example, during World War I, women students housed in Women's Building took shelter in the basement of Burrows during practice raids.

An emergency radio service will be set up using the University's existing radio station, WD-FM, which could be converted into a shortwave station. In State College during the 1936 flood, broadcasts from the campus eased the minds of parents who had no way of getting in touch with students.

The program will include the organization of an emergency telephone net which will be used in case regular telephone service is disrupted.

Students will be recruited for various duties under the program, such as carrying messages on campus. Other jobs have not been outlined.

Included in the tentative plans will be the division of residence halls into units with a warden appointed for each unit.

Senate Proposal Aimed At Filibuster Restraint

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP)—A motion aimed at changing the Senate's rules and placing restraint on filibusters was introduced today by Sen. Clinton D. Anderson (D-N.M.) The Senate agreed to a showdown vote on the issue at 6 p.m. tomorrow.

Two developments accompanied Anderson's move to clear the way for a civil rights program-legislation which filibustering Southern senators have talked to death in the past.

Offers Motion

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas promptly offered a motion to table Anderson's proposal. A similar parliamentary maneuver four years ago succeeded in killing Anderson's 1953 attempt to change the rules.

The vote at that time was 70-21. Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California came out against the proposed method of changing the rules, although not necessarily against putting a checkrein on filibusters.

Anderson's motion, which he offered on behalf of a coalition of Northern and Western senators, was that the Senate take up for consideration the question of adopting new rules. The group's contention is that the Senate rules do not necessarily continue from one Congress to another, but may be changed at the beginning of each new Congress by simple majority vote.

'Has Continuing Rules'

But Knowland said: "I believe not only that the Senate is a continuous body but that it has continuing rules. Any other decision would lead to a

Senate Votes to Admit Reporters to Meetings

The University Senate yesterday approved a recommendation by the Rules Committee to admit reporters from student publications to Senate meetings.

Under the new rule student publications reporters will be admitted to the Senate's meeting for the rest of the academic year. After that time the Senate will have to approve it again or it becomes ineffective.

Faculty Mer. Hits University With Charges

President Eric A. Walker will review the suspension of an unidentified faculty member for alleged unfounded "derogatory and defamatory" charges against the administration of the University's athletic program.

The suspension verdict could possibly be changed, depending on the President's findings, a University spokesman said yesterday.

The University announced the faculty member's suspension Wednesday after a three-man faculty committee's investigation found the charges "were maliciously made with deliberate intention to discredit the College of Physical Education and Athletics and the University."

The University has refused to release the veteran professor's name.

Prof Admits Authorship

A University spokesman said the faculty member had admitted authorship of a series of anonymous letters and postal cards in which he accused the University of lax administration of the rules and regulations governing its intercollegiate athletic program, among other charges.

Approximately 50 charges were reportedly made by the professor, and among them:

Connivance to admit athletes illegally to the University.

Bribing instructors to give passing marks to athletes.

The exact contents of the letters and postal cards have not been revealed by the University.

Charges Made in 1952

The charges reportedly were first leveled in 1952 in a letter to the University provost and have been repeated many times since, principally in anonymous letters and postcards to legislators and other citizens of the state. Gov. George M. Leader reportedly received a letter.

A number of these communications were returned to the University for inspection and investigation, the spokesman said.

In his call for "an objective, thorough-going fact-finding investigation," President Eric A. Walker asked only that the committee pass judgment on the truth or falsity of the charges. The committee, the spokesman said, was given access to all University files and authorized to interview all members of the University. (Continued on page eight)

Student Unhurt In Auto Crash

Joseph Riley, sophomore in electrical engineering from Warren Center, escaped uninjured Wednesday after his car was forced off Route 45 into a wooded area near Lauralten.

Riley, en route to the University, said the accident occurred as he attempted to pass a car driven by Lester Hausterman of Lauralten. Hausterman, attempting to make a left turn, pulled in front of Riley forcing him off the road.

Allen Otteni and Kenneth Ishler, both sophomores in division of intermediate registration from Erie, escaped uninjured Dec. 21 when the car in which they were traveling crashed into the rear of a car operated by a State Policeman.

The policeman's car was stopped on the right side of the road to avoid a runaway truck. The truck driver swerved, missing both cars and continued, but was later apprehended by the State Policeman.

No charges were filed against the two students.
