

Censure of Israel Termed 'Immoral'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) told Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today it would be "immoral and . . . unsupportable" to apply UN sanctions against Israel without giving Russia the same treatment.

The GOP leader in the Senate spoke out after Dulles told his news conference the United States would have to give sanctions "very serious consideration" if the United Nations called for them to force Israel out of Egyptian territory.

Dulles said, however, he had good grounds for hope that such a situation would not arise.

Knowland, who is also a member of the U.S. delegation to the UN, immediately conveyed his views to Dulles and then explained them to reporters.

"I do not believe the United States should support United Nations sanctions against Israel unless the UN is prepared to apply sanctions against the Soviet Union for its noncompliance with 10 General Assembly resolutions relative to Soviet aggression against Hungary," he told reporters.

"A double standard by the UN that would apply sanctions to a small country that has at least partially complied with the resolution of the General Assembly on the Suez-Middle East conflict, while sidestepping the question of sanctions on a Communist aggressor which has wholly ignored all the resolutions on the crime against Hungary, is both immoral and, in good conscience, unsupportable."

At his news conference Dulles was asked by a reporter whether he favored sanctions if Israel refused to pull out of the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba.

"Well, that is a question we could only answer within the context of a United Nations resolution," Dulles replied. "We would not take any action in the way of sanctions unilaterally."

"If there was action by the United Nations calling for sanctions, we would of course have to give them very serious considerations."

Dulles went on to indicate that all this was in the realm of the future.

TIM to Make Final Decision On Constitution

Town Independent Men will meet at 7 tonight in 203 Hetzel Union to take a final vote on the adoption of a new constitution for the group.

The new constitution was drawn up by a five-member committee headed by James Tipton, TIM president.

The committee recommended that town independent men be reorganized in the form of a council. The council members would be nominated by petition and elected by the town men.

If the new constitution is adopted by the group tonight, it will go into effect on a trial basis this semester, and will be put to a final vote at the last meeting of the semester.

Tipton has requested the presence of all TIM members at tonight's meeting.

Also on the agenda is a discussion of the TIM dance scheduled for March 22.

WSGA Senate to Plan Semester's Activities

The Women's Student Government Association Senate will plan its activities for the semester at a meeting at 6:30 tonight in the WSGA room in White Hall.

Martha Fleming, senior in home economics from Huntingdon, will preside over Senate meetings while WSGA President Daisy Zimmerman is student-teaching.

Instructor Wins History Award For Manuscript

Dr. Clark C. Spence, instructor in history, has been awarded the honorable mention Beveridge Award of the American Historical Society.

The award, established by the late Senator Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana, is presented annually for an outstanding manuscript in the field of Latin-American or American history.

The first prize carries an award of $1000 while the honorable mention provides for publication of the manuscript.

The paper by Dr. Spence is titled "English Investments in the American Mining Frontier" and is concerned with the period 1860-1900. The manuscript is a revision of the dissertation that Dr. Spence had submitted at the University of Minnesota for his doctor of philosophy degree.

Dr. Spence is a graduate of the University of Colorado where he received both his BA and MA degrees in history. He was appointed to the University faculty in 1955 and his primary interest is in the history of the American frontier.

This Guy Has Troubles

TURIN, Italy, Feb. 5 (AP) — A soccer fan is asking a court to stop the scrapping of 178,499 old telephone books until he can leaf through their 235 million pages. He left a football pool ticket worth $3,300 in his 1956 directory and the phone company picked the book up while he was out.

Committee Finds Beck

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP) — Dave Beck, Teamsters Union president sought for questioning by Senate labor racket investigators, today was located in Nassau, Bahamas, with air tickets for Europe.

Explosions in Reno Kill 2

RENO, Nev. Feb. 5 (AP) — Three had been found by nightfall, five shattering explosions from a leaky gas line, followed by a four-hour fire, today destroyed a business block and the Elks Club in Reno, killed at least two persons and injured about 40.

Ten business establishments were wiped out and glass from shattered windows littered a wide area. Twelve blocks were evacuated for fear of further explosions. Although witnesses told of seeing bodies all over the street with "many" dead, only two bodies had been found by nightfall, five shattering explosions from a leaky gas line, followed by a four-hour fire, today destroyed a business block and the Elks Club in Reno, killed at least two persons and injured about 40.

Tonight State Asst. Gen. James A. May and a National Guard contingent took over policing to keep out curiosity seekers and prevent possible looting of stores. Mrs. Marka Pringle, superintendent of nurses at Washoe County Medical Center, estimated the number of injured at 40.

THE DRESS PARADE

What will the American college student wear this spring? Gather round, you rascals, and light a good Philip Morris Cigarette, and puff that rich, natural tobacco, and possess your souls in sweet content, and listen.

As we know, college fashions have always been casual. This spring, however, they have become makeshift.

The object is to look madly improvised, gaily spur-of-the-moment! For example, girls, try a peasant skirt with a dinner jacket. Or matador pants with a bridal veil. Or Bermuda shorts with bronze breastplates. Be rakish! Be impromptu! Be devil-take-the-hindmeet!

And, men, you be the same. Try an opera cape with sweat pants. Or a letter-sweater with kilts. Or a strait-jacket with hip boots. Be bold! Be daring! Be a tourist attraction!

Rock and Roll is Giving way to the Minuet

But all is not innovation in college fashions this spring. In fact, one of the highlights of the season turns time backward in its flight. I refer to the comeback of the powdered wig.

This charming accoutrement, too long neglected, has already caught on with style-conscious students all over the country. On hundreds of campuses rock-and-roll is giving way to the minuet, and patriotic undergraduates are dumping British tea into the nearest harbor. This, of course, does not sit well with old King George. For that matter, a lot of our own people are steamed up too, and there has even been some talk of revolution. But I hardly think it will come to that. I mean, how can we break with the mother country when we are dependent on her for so many things — linsey-wadsey, minie balls, taper snuffers, and all like that? She, on the other hand, relies on us for turkeys, Philip Morris, Cinemascope, and other valuable exports. So I say, if Molly Pitcher and those other Bryn Mawr hotheads will calm down, we may yet find an amicable solution for our differences. But let not our British cousins mistake this willingness to negotiate for weakness. If fight we must, then fight we will! Paul Revere is saddled up, the rude bridge arches the flood, and the ROTC is ready!

But I digress. We were smoking a Philip Morris Cigarette — O, darlin' cigarette! O, happy smoke! O, firm! O, fresh! O, fragrant! O, long-size! O, regular! O, get some! — and talking of new spring fashions, let us turn now to the season's most striking new feature: pneumatic underdrawers. These inflatable rubber garments make every chair an easy chair. Think how welcome they will be when you sit through a long lecture! They are not, however, without certain dangers. Last week, for example, Rimbaud Sigafos, a University of Pittsburgh sophomore, fell out of an 18th story window in the Tower of Learning. Thanks to his pneumatic underdrawers, he suffered no injury when he struck the sidewalk, but the poor fellow is still bouncing and it is feared that he will starve to death.

Fashions come, fashions go, but year after year the Philip Morris Company, sponsors of this column, bring you the tastiest, pleasingest cigarette your money can buy — Philip Morris, of course!

2nd Arab Asks Aid In Confab With Ike

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP) — Crown Prince Amir Abdul Ilah of Iraq, President Eisenhower's second Arab visitor within a week, conferred with him for 45 minutes today and asked for more arms.

The President's other Arab guest, King Saud of Saudi Arabia, had a quiet day at Blair House, official guest residence across from the White House.

Both are members of the Arab League. Both are rich in oil. And both are feeling pinched because Saud and Ilah are expected to get together tomorrow. Their meeting could have more symbolic than practical value.

the Israeli-Egypt fighting last fall has seriously slowed the flow of their oil to Western markets.

But Saud and Ilah have their differences. Iraq is a member of the U.S. supported Baghdad Pact, whose other members are Britain, Pakistan, Iran and Turkey. Saudi Arabia opposes the Pact.

On their concurrent visits to Washington, however, Saud and Ilah already have found themselves in agreement on Eisenhower's program to curb communism in the Mideast. They also agree that each of them should get more help from the United States.

Ilah noted Iraq has been getting U.S. military assistance since April, 1954. He added: "But we want more."

American aid officials have looked with interest at Iraq for some time. Its central location — nestled in the fabled "fertile crescent" which curves along from the eastern Mediterranean shore to the head of the Persian Gulf — makes it ideal for Middle East developmental purposes.
