

Students Encounter Trials With Matriculation Cards

By MATT PODBESEK

Hundreds of students have walked into the Hetzel Union ballroom with their white IBM cards during the past two days and have walked right back out without their new spring matriculation cards, while thousands of others have simply neglected to pick up their new identification cards.

Most Anything-

(Continued from page four) in the days of Shakespeare performed in the council chamber of the town hall which was called the "agreeing" or "greeting" room. Through the years this may have been changed to "Green Room."

Another answer is that the room was formerly referred to as the "scene-room" and, influenced by the universal popularity and use of green carpets and furniture, later became the "green-room."

As for the Greenroom on campus, its origin and purposes are much better known. In 1935 when Schwab Auditorium was turned over to the theatre arts department, the Greenroom was used both as a gathering place and as a rehearsal hall. Its value as a rehearsal hall has recently increased since it is roughly the same size as Center Stage.

On Sundays the Greenroom serves as an attiring room for visiting ministers and Chapel speakers, and the remainder of the week it serves as an office, lounge, dressing room, reception room, information center, ticket office and library.

A vast collection of paper bound copies of plays which are loaned to high schools and community theatres is housed there, as is the Players' photography exhibit. Space is also available for poster displays and work done by students in theatre design courses.

The versatile Greenroom also serves as an emergency classroom when decorations prohibit the use of the auditorium stage.

One thing that must be mentioned is the color of the room—which contrary to the name is chartreuse. But this I was informed is an unimportant detail, for no matter if the room is pink, purple, orange, or blue and white striped—it's still a Greenroom.

... and speaking of weird colors, the Collegian office and most of Carnegie Hall is "suffering" from a between-semester face-lifting.

Included in the "modern color scheme" are bright and brilliant shades of green, blue, yellow, brown, dusty rose and white.

Their prize masterpiece, in keeping with the latest in 1957 color fads, is a three-tone (yellow, blue and brown) steam pipe.

Traffic Court Levies Fines On 38 Students

Traffic Court fined 22 students a total of $98 at its session last night.

Sixteen students who failed to appear before the court were automatically fined a total of $118. These students also lost the right to appeal their cases.

Of the fines levied, $65 was collected for failing to register the vehicle and/or not displaying the registration sticker. Fines for traffic violations amounted to $31, while fines for failure to report to the Campus Patrol office came to $3.

Fines totaling $27 were suspended by the court. These will not have to be paid unless another violation is incurred. Ten violations were also dismissed.

Richard Kurtz, chairman of the court, said the fall registration is still valid unless the car was under a temporary registration.

Budget--

(Continued from page one) 051 to three institutions—the University, the University of Pittsburgh and the University of Pennsylvania.

The increase for the University of Pennsylvania, including the medical and veterinary schools, would be $461,545, bringing the state total for the coming two years to $8,413,120.

For Pittsburgh the new state appropriation would be $10,107,546 or $1,177,106 above 1955-57. This grant includes continuation of the $50,000 special professorship in honor of Jonas E. Salk, developer of the polio vaccine.
