

Huber Selected Winner In Hypnotic Eyes Contest

By PAT EVANS

Big dark-brown eyes fringed with thick, long, black lashes won Candace Huber, freshman in arts and letters from Wynnewood, the title of "The Girl With the Most Hypnotic Eyes."

Miss Huber won the title at a hypnotic show given Saturday night in Schwab Auditorium by Howard Klein, nationally-known hypnotist.

Sing Victors May Appear On Video

The winners of the Interfraternity Council-Panhellenic Sing may appear on television over station WFBG-TV, of Altoona, Greek Week Chairman Robert Nurock told the IFC last night.

Nurock said negotiations are currently underway with the station for a broadcast of the winning fraternity and sorority and possibly of the sing finals on March 29.

To Begin March 26

Greek Week will extend from March 26 through April 4 and will also include community day projects, a Greek Sunday church attendance program, fraternity and sorority exchange dinners, and the IFC-Panhel and the outstanding pledge banquets.

Nurock said no theme has been adopted for the week because the committee saw no specific need for it, and because themes were not carried through in previous years.

Retained Objective

However, he said, the committee has retained a stated objective, to "foster and achieve an improved relationship between the community, the University and its students and the fraternity system as a whole."

Nurock also urged all fraternities to participate in the Greek Week poster contest. He cited "limited participation" in previous years and said details of the contest will be released soon.

Foreign Grants Now Available

Three fellowships for graduate study in the Netherlands beginning next fall are available to Americans.

Each award carries a cash stipend to cover room and board expenses for the academic year. Tuition fees are waived. Grantees should have funds to pay their own travel and incidental expenses. They may apply for Fulbright travel grants if eligible.

Fellowships are open to men and women, preferably under 28 years of age. Eligibility requirements are: United States citizenship, bachelor's degree and good academic standing.

The closing date for application is March 1. Application forms may be obtained from the Institute of International Education in New York City or its regional offices.

Chem Head to Speak At Oxford University

Dr. W. Conrad Fernelius, professor and head of the Department of Chemistry, will lecture on "Polonium" at a joint meeting of the Oxford University Alembic Club and the Royal Institute of Chemistry at Oxford, England, on Feb. 25.

Dr. Fernelius is on leave of absence and is studying at Oxford under a Guggenheim fellowship.

Work to Begin On New Office In Watertower

Work will begin this afternoon on the construction of an office for the University's transportation division in the watertower near the Nittany Lion Inn.

Charles A. Lamm, head of the division of building maintenance and operation of the Department of Physical Plant, said that the major portion of the project will involve laying an asphalt tile covering on the concrete floor and the installation of lighting fixtures.

Painting is still in progress at three locations on campus. Offices of the dean of the College of Agriculture are almost completed, while painters are still less than half finished in Carnegie and White Halls.

Partitions to subdivide the office of the dean of the College of Education in 102 Burrows are nearing completion, while similar work in 110 Old Main, division of student counseling, is still under way.

Bolduc Warns Against Thefts

Col. Lucien E. Bolduc, chief of the campus patrol, has requested University employees to be more careful with wallets and other valuables as some cases of petty thievery have been reported in campus offices.

In cautioning employees against carelessness, he suggested that valuables not be left in coat pockets or visible on desks. He asked colleges and departments to repeat the warnings to employees.

State and borough police are cooperating with the campus patrol in an effort to solve the thefts.

Colonel Bolduc has also asked that personnel on campus telephone promptly to the patrol a complete description of persons acting suspiciously.

Score Topped By Ex-Student

Howard P. Burke, former student at the University, posted a perfect score in the official Marine Corps recruiting test topping anything ever before accomplished in the recruiting examination at Scranton.

Burke had first been enrolled in the School of Forestry and later changed to business administration. He decided to go into the service to "find exactly what I want to do and where I want to go."

After taking the test at Scranton, Burke was astonished to learn his score. "I never thought of myself as having any more than average intelligence," he said.

Marine personnel told him that a University graduate had held the record at the Scranton station for several years with a score of 48 out of 50 correct answers.

MI Prof Will Address Geographic Fraternity

Dr. John D. Ridge, assistant dean of the College of Mineral Industries, will address Gamma Theta Upsilon, national professional geographic fraternity, at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in 218 Mineral Science.

Dr. Ridge will give an illustrated talk on Spain and Portugal. The meeting is open to the public.

The contest and performance were sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity. Proceeds from the full house will go to the organization's scholarship fund.

Miss Huber and the other four finalists received trophies, presented to them by the hypnotist.

Finalists Listed

Runners-up were Rochelle Bernstein, freshman in education from Philadelphia; Mary Virginia Taylor, freshman in hotel administration from Pittsburgh; Sandra Finkelstein, freshman in liberal arts from Williamsport; and Carol P. Miller, freshman in arts and letters from Wynnewood.

Judges for the contest were George L. Donovan, director of associated student activities; Dr. Albert Christ-Janer, director of the School of the Arts; and Robert H. Breon Jr., professional photographer.

Only Eyes Viewed

They selected the winners by viewing only the contestants' eyes, which were shown through slits in a large screen.

Wayne Lippman, APhiO member, and coordinator of the show, was master of ceremonies.

Mascots of three fraternities also got into the act with another contest just for them.

Contestants were Aphrodite, a Saint Bernard sponsored by Alpha Tau Omega; Caesar, a boxer sponsored by Beta Theta Pi; and Dutchess, a mongrel sponsored by Zeta Beta Tau.

Aphrodite Wins Dog Title

Aphrodite won, and was titled "Dog with the Most Hypnotic Eyes." She received a can of dog food.

A photographer from Life Magazine was present at the show. He said his photographs of the contests possibly would appear in the magazine.

To begin his show, Klein selected 32 volunteers from the audience to act as subjects. Only 13 were capable of remaining in a deep sleep, however, and they participated in various stunts and demonstrations.

Hypnotism Called 'Exact Science' In an interview after the performance, Klein called hypnotism an "exact science." He has taught doctors and dentists to improve their hypnotizing techniques.

When asked his opinion of the theory behind the Bridy Murphy, Klein replied firmly, "I do not believe in reincarnation."

He has been a hypnotist for 20 years, and recently returned from entertaining passengers on a cruise to Rio de Janeiro.

Hypnotized Dempsey, Lombardo Among the famous personalities hypnotized by Klein are Jack Dempsey and Guy Lombardo. He said that hypnotism can be successful by radio and television as well as in person.

The hypnotist warned of hypnotism by amateurs. He asked students to refrain from trying the techniques used in his show.

Trustees Reorganize Administrative Work

The Board of Trustees has approved a plan to integrate more closely the work of faculty, administration and trustees.

The plan, portions of which were outlined to the faculty by President Eric A. Walker last November, has as its principal feature the establishment of counterpart committees in five major areas representing the faculty, administration and trustees.

The areas are instruction, extension, research, student affairs and long-range development.

In the area of instruction and academic affairs, the plan set up three organizations—a new Committee on Instruction to work with the Senate Committee on Education Policy which Dr. Harold K. Schilling, dean of the Graduate School, now heads; a Council of Academic Deans, to be headed by President Eric A. Walker; and an Administrative Committee on Procedures, with Lawrence E. Dennis, vice president for academic affairs, as chairman.

To Head Extension Committee An Administrative Committee on Extension, as counterpart of the Senate Committee on Extension Policy, will be headed by Edward L. Keller, director of general extension.

Dr. Michael A. Farrell, vice president for research, will head an Administrative Committee on Research.

Student affairs work will be coordinated with the Senate Student Affairs Committee by an Administrative Committee on Student Affairs, to be headed by Dr. Robert G. Bernreuter, director of the Division of Counseling.

To Study University Growth

A Long-Range Development Committee, to be made up of faculty and administrative staff members, will conduct studies pertinent to the growth and development of the University and prepare reports and recommendations for the President. The committee will be headed by C. S. Wyand, vice president for development.

A similar liaison between the Board of Trustees and the administration will be effected by an Administration Committee on Operations.

Committee Named

This committee will consist of the vice president for business administration, the Comptroller, and the directors of Employee Relations, Food Service, Housing, Personnel, Physical Plant, and Purchasing.

George E. Deike, president of the Board of Trustees, will name chairmen to seven committees to work in conjunction with the seven persons just named.

Mass to Be Explained By Newman Club Film

"The Eternal Gift," a special movie explaining the holy sacrifice of the Mass, will be shown at 7 tonight in 121 Sparks.

The film is narrated by Bishop Fulton J. Sheen.

The public may attend the program, which is sponsored by the Newman Club.

Social Study Panel Talks Scheduled

The first of a series of panel-type seminars on social science research methods will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Hetzel Union assembly hall.

The discussion will center around the topic "What Research—And Why?," dealing entirely with selecting a research problem for study.

Cutler to Moderate

Dr. Howard A. Cutler, professor and head of the Department of Economics, will moderate. Discussion leaders will be Dr. George E. Brandow, professor of agricultural economics; Dr. Neal Riemer, associate professor of political science; and Dr. Philip S. Klein, professor of American history.

This is the first symposium of a series on the general subject "Social Science and Social Values," which will be sponsored during the semester by the Social Science Research Center. Other symposiums have been set for March 21 and May 2.

Planning Committee

In charge of planning the series is a committee made up of Dr. D. G. Thevaos, associate professor of psychology, as chairman; Dr. Virginia Britton, professor of family economics; Dr. Frank Sorauf, assistant professor of political science; Dr. Roy Buck, associate professor of rural sociology; and Dr. E. S. Herman, assistant professor of economics.

The meetings will be open to the public.

Home Ec Council to Meet

The Home Economics Student Council will meet at 7 tonight in the Home Economics living center.
