

Architects Report Work On Dorms Progressing

Architects are making good progress on plans for the new men's residence halls, but it will be at least two months before bids can be sent out to contractors, according to Walter H. Wiegand, director of the Department of Physical Plant.

The halls, which will be built on East Park Ave. between Hort Woods and Shortlidge Rd., are tentatively scheduled for occupancy in the fall of 1958.

Committee Reports On Ag Course

A committee of the Agriculture Student Council reported that little could be done to revise or change the methods of instruction or the subject matter of Agriculture I, a survey course, at the council's meeting Tuesday night.

The committee explained that the system of using a large lecture room could not be changed because there are not enough faculty members available to break the large number of students taking the course down into smaller classes.

Students Can Hear

Dr. David R. McClay, acting associate dean and teacher of the course, said that he felt the use of a microphone enabled all the students to hear the subject matter. He left that there were no other reasons which made the use of a large room detrimental to the students.

The committee also said that its studies had shown that a revision of the course material seemed to be unfeasible because the course had been taught for a number of years and had been revised many times.

Only Taught in Fall

A suggestion that the course be taught in both the fall and spring semesters of each year was also rejected by the committee. The reason for this decision was that the committee felt that freshman should take the course during the fall semester so that they would be able to change to another college of the University if they found they were unsatisfied with the agricultural course of study.

Dr. McClay urged anyone who had any other ideas for improvement of the course to present them to him.

The project will consist of four L-shaped residence halls and a central dining hall. The buildings will house approximately 1100 men.

Evergreens Removed
The division of landscape construction and maintenance has been moving bushes and evergreens from the Hort Gardens in anticipation of a parking lot to be constructed for the proposed men's halls.

Greenery is also being removed from the location of the Petroleum Refining Laboratory to make room for a proposed engineering building.

Plans for this building are also in the hands of architects, and work on them is proceeding at a good pace.

The new engineering building will be constructed parallel to West College Ave., from a point south of the engineering units "A"- "E" to just south of the east end of Mechanical Engineering.

It will be a completely unbroken unit except for a first floor tunnel, which will coincide with the division between Engineering "C" and "D".

Coed Residence Halls

Two of the four new coed residence halls will be finished and ready for occupancy by next fall. The other two will not be open until at least the 1958 spring semester.

The central dining hall for the halls will not be ready until spring, 1958, so coeds moving into the two completed buildings next fall will have to take their meals in other women's halls.

Drawing board work is proceeding on four new agriculture projects. These projects will be a turkey brooder, a turkey breeding house, a meat processing laboratory and a swine research building.

Livestock Show Drawing

The drawing for animals for the 1957 Little International Livestock Show will be held at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday in 206 Armsby, according to Joel Colvin, show manager.

Car Owners Reminded Of Regulations

University officials have reminded car owners that traffic and parking regulations are effective at night and during class hours and that effective regulations will be more strictly enforced.

Walter H. Wiegand, director of the Department of Physical Plant, explained that the confusion apparently has grown out of the fact that some regulations are not in effect after 5:30 p.m. and on weekends.

"Actually, the only restrictions lifted after 5:30 p.m. are those that do not permit student driving on Pollock Rd. and those that limit parking in campus areas to holders of permits for the specific area," Wiegand said.

Zones Are Reserved
He emphasized that zones reserved for specific vehicles are available for general use at night and also on weekends unless marked as 24-hour reservations.

"At no time may motorists park in service drives, along campus roads that are not marked for parking, or in any other area where parking is not normally permitted," Wiegand said. Tickets will be issued to violators hereafter.

Double parking on campus roads is also prohibited. Parking that causes congestion or limits access to buildings is a violation of fire regulations.

Rules Are Continuous

Speed limits, stopping at intersections, and other safe driving rules are in effect at all times. Areas where violations have been most frequent include the areas behind Old Main, the Pollock Rd. entrance to the Hetzel Union Building, the road east of West Halls and Shortlidge Rd. in the vicinity of the women's residence halls.

The daytime restrictions on parking in other than designated areas and on student use of Pollock Road are effective 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and 7:30 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays.

High School Program

The University's Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps will give 40 minute programs to senior high school students today and to junior high school students Friday at the State College High School Gymnasium.

Largest Jazz Revue Scheduled for Feb. 24

The largest assemblage of jazz musicians yet brought to University music fans, featuring such names as vocalist Chris Connor and the Gerry Mulligan Quartet, will arrive on campus Feb. 24.

The Jazz Revue, sponsored by the Penn State Jazz Club, will draw prominent modern jazz groups from the East Coast area. The Kai Winding Septet, Chris Connor, The Les Jazz Modes and The Gerry Mulligan Quartet will perform for the revue.

Tickets will go on sale Monday for $1.75 at the Hetzel Union desk. The concert is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. in Recreation Hall with limited seating capacity. There will be only one show.

Connor Here Before

Both Chris Connor and The Kai Winding Septet appeared at the University last spring, also sponsored by the Jazz Club. Miss Connor, who will sing with a rhythm group composed of musicians from the other bands, first gained fame as a Stan Kenton vocalist when she replaced June Christy for two years. Since then she has won success as a nightclub singer and a recording artist.

The Kai Winding group features a "trombone sound," developed by Winding after his split with J. J. Johnson last fall. Winding was born in Denmark and came to this country as a young man.

For several years he played trombone with Kenton, Woody Herman and other big bands before organizing his own group composed of four trombones, piano, bass and drum. Trombonist Carl Fontana, a Kenton stand-out, is the featured player.

New Band

The newest jazz band in the country to receive national recognition, the Les Jazz Modes, is an experimental group of five musicians. Organized in late 1956, the band features a "different sound" by using Julie Watkins on French horn, Oscar Pettiford on string bass or cello, a tenor saxophone, piano and drum.

Gerry Mulligan, who graduated from a Philadelphia high school in 1948, is another Stan Kenton protege. After arranging musical scores for Kenton for several years, he moved to the west coast where he performed with his baritone saxophone. Recently he has won numerous polls in Downbeat, Metronome and Playboy for his work.

Mulligan's band is the first piano-less group since Dixieland was at its peak during the 1920's. The present quartette features Bob Brookmeyer on valve trombone, bass, drum and baritone saxophone.

Orchestra Picture for LaVie

The Symphony Orchestra will have its picture for LaVie taken at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Schwab Auditorium.

Walker To Be Honored Today

President Eric A. Walker will receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Temple University at commencement exercises today for his "contributions both to science and education."

He will be presented the degree by Ray S. Tannehill, vice president of the Bell Telephone Co., a 1923 graduate of the University and former chairman of the Penn State Alumni Fund.

Dr. Walker will be presented a citation, reading:

"Mr. President, I have the privilege of presenting the new president of one of the Commonwealth's old and honored institutions of higher learning. Born in England, educated at Harvard, he came into prominence in the field of engineering sciences where he has played an important role in the research programs essential to the nation's defense."

"He has been on scientific advisory bodies for both the Army and the Navy. He has held chairmanships of the National Research Council's Committee on Undersea Warfare and of the National Science Foundation's Committee for Engineering. President (Dwight D.) Eisenhower appointed him last year to the Committee for Development of Scientists and Engineers."

"During World War II, he served Harvard's Underwater Sound Laboratory, after which he came to the University as head of the Department of Electrical Engineering and director of the Ordnance Research Laboratory. He later became dean of the College of Engineering and Architecture and then vice president of the University and a month ago its president."

High Recommendation
"In consideration of his contributions both to science and to education, I recommend for the degree of Doctor of Laws the president of the Pennsylvania State University, Dr. Eric A. Walker."

Honorary degrees will also be conferred on Dr. William H. DuBarry, executive vice president of the University of Pennsylvania; Dr. Edward H. Litchfield, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh; James P. Mitchell, U.S. Secretary of Labor; Maj. Gen. C. W. Christenberry, president of the American-Korean Foundation; Dr. Bertram Korn, rabbi of Congregation Keneth Israel; and Richard C. Bond, president of John Wanamaker's.
