

Lion Mat, Gym Teams To Oppose Syracuse

Syracuse will throw a potent array of underclassmen at Penn State tomorrow night at Syracuse when the Lion mat team visits Archbold gymnasium in quest of its fifth win of the season.

Not one senior will be in the Orange starting lineup which boasts five lettermen from last year's squad.

Six of Coach Joe Scandura's first line men are juniors and the other two are sophomores.

With this lineup carrying him through the major part of the year's campaign, Scandura's team has posted a 4-2 ledger.

Syracuse's only losses have been to Lehigh, 21-11, and Pittsburgh, 17-9. They opened the season with a 21-11 victory over Ithaca College, New York, and followed that success with wins over highly-touted Cornell, 14-11, Navy, 16-14, and Army, 17-13.

Only one of the Orange grapplers has swept through his matches in undefeated style but several other have chalked up a better-than-average record.

Junior Bill White, who last year was runner-up to Pitt's Ed Dewitt in the 167-pound Eastern tournament, is the lone Syracuse unbeaten artist at 177 pounds. White has recorded five decisions and a fall in his winning march.

Juniors Ed Carlin, 123, George Creason, 130, and Marty Lavanhar, 157, are right behind White when it comes to outstanding records.

Carlin is 5-1 for the season, losing only to Carmen Molino of Cornell, 10-7. One of Carlin's biggest victories was a 6-0 decision over Pittsburgh's standout Bill Hulings.

Lehigh's Leon Harbold and Pitt's defending National Champion Ed Peery are the only conquerors of Creason this season. Harbold topped the Syracuse star 6-1 but Peery had a harder time before defeating Creason, 2-1.

Lavanhar is known as the "man of all weights" around the Syracuse campus. The versatile Lavanhar has seen action in three Syracuse will field an improved gymnastic team tomorrow night, when they engage the Nittany Lions in Archbold Gymnasium, Syracuse, N.Y.

The Orangemen are tied for third place in the Eastern Gymnastic League with a 1-1 record. Penn State shows a 2-0 slate.

Syracuse topped a tough Pitt team, 49-47, for their biggest win of the season thus far. They didn't fare quite as well against Army, but still forced the Cadets to go all out, before bowing, 51-45.

Coach Paul Romeo's boys show plenty of punch in three events—tumbling, the rope climb and the side horse.

Lowell Meier, the captain of the Orangemen, is one of Romeo's leading performers. Meier is a top notch tumbler; he captured the event in the Pitt meet, and also shows agility on the parallel bars and horizontal bar.

Chuck Luttinger is another veteran stand-out. Luttinger does a fine job on the parallel bars and has been at least runner-up in every meet this season. He also does a commendable job on the side horse.

Luttinger will run into one of his strongest opponents of the year tomorrow when he hits Penn State's Armando Vega. Vega took fourth place in the recent Olympic games on the parallel bars and holds the N.C.A.A. title.

The Lions' Phil Mullen, Dick Rehm, and John Hiding have stamped themselves as the rope-climb team to beat in the league. However, Syracuse's group of Mike Shipley, Bill Hogeboom, and Jack Hall swept their competition with Pitt. Their respective times were not available so the sweep could mean that Syracuse is either excellent or that Pitt is weak on the rope.

Paul Barkal has shown plenty of prowess on the side horse along with Luttinger, while Chuck Satter follows Meier in the tumbling event, which has been a good one for the Orange.

weight divisions—157, 167, and heavyweight.

His only loss came in the heavyweight bracket when he was defeated 8-7 by Lehigh's Francis Schaeffer. Lavanhar owns a 2-0 mark in both of the other weight divisions and will probably be seen at 157 by the Lion matmen tomorrow.

The other men in the Syracuse lineup are the weak links in their chain. Bob McDermott, a sophomore, is winless in six matches at 137 and another sophomore, 147-pound Frank Musgrave has won only one.

Junior Gordon Carberry, who competes at 167, has not won in two outings and heavyweight Chuck Dinkelmeyer, an armed forces returnee, owns a 1-3-1 mark.

Sophomore Dick Miranda, who lost to Navy's Bob Daughenbaugh in his only appearance, could get the nod at 147. If that would be the case, then Musgrave would jump up to 157 and Lavanhar would move to 167.

Fort Wayne Switches NBA Team to Detroit

DETROIT, Feb. 14 (AP)—In professional basketball's first realignment in more than two seasons, the Fort Wayne Pistons today switched their franchise to Detroit, a sprawling, sports-minded city that rejected the game a decade ago.

Millionaire industrialist Fred Zollner announced at a news conference that the Pistons, champions of the National Basketball Association's Western Division two years running, will begin a six-year contract at Olympia Stadium next October.

The team, currently leading the division, will start practice in Detroit the first of October and will be known as the "Detroit Pistons." The Pistons will play most of their home games at the Olympia, which can accommodate 13,000 or more for basketball. Zollner said he hopes to play from five to seven games at his old Fort Wayne base.
