

Dean Reassures Students On Rating of LA College

Dr. Ben Euwema, dean of the College of the Liberal Arts, last night explained the college before its student council and told the group that his office would cooperate fully with the council's investigation of the college.

The Liberal Arts Council had set up a committee two weeks ago to evaluate the college.

Dr. Euwema said that the Middle Atlantic States Accrediting Association considers some of the accomplishments of the college "respectable if not spectacular."

The college, Dr. Euwema said, ranks high in such fields as work of graduate students of the college in other universities, publications of faculty members, and percentages of failures as compared with other colleges in the University.

Sees No Big Differences

He said there are no serious differences of opinion between the Liberal Arts faculty and the council. The only complaint he said he had about the investigation was that it had been publicized. He explained that he believes that an investigation such as this can be more successful if carried on without publicity.

A feeling of inferiority concerning the quality of the college seems to affect the council periodically, he said, but it is unfounded. He told the council that the college ranks high in the University in percentage of failures in most courses, and there was not basis for the belief that liberal arts courses are easier to pass than other courses in the University.

Explains Dismissals

Dr. Euwema was asked if faculty members were dismissed if their work was considered unsatisfactory. He replied that faculty members attained tenure after seven years on the faculty, and after this time it is very difficult to dismiss them. This is for the purpose of giving faculty members necessary academic freedom.

Before a faculty member reaches his tenure, however, he can be dismissed for sufficient reason without difficulty.

In other business, the council considered suggestions for a faculty adviser, but will investigate the availability of the men suggested before making a final decision. Also, the budget was discussed and approved.

England's Costs Mount From Egyptian Invasion

LONDON (AP) — The British Navy today added another two million pounds—$5,600,000—to the nation's bill for the invasion of Egypt.

The government published a supplementary estimate for the navy showing it needed another 11 million pounds—$30,800,000—over the original estimates for the year ending next March 31.

Informed sources say the Suez action cost the air force around one million pounds—$2,800,000.

White House in Squeeze Over Israel

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)

—President Eisenhower sped back from a Georgia vacation today to find himself and his administration caught in a terrific squeeze on the issue of sanctions for Israel.

On one side was an increasing body of congressional opinion against punishing Israel for her refusal to withdraw from Egyptian territory without nonaggression guarantee.

Arabs Cry to UN
On the other side, the Arab world—which the United States has been wooing in an attempt to block Communist expansion in the Middle East—was crying for United Nations economic sanctions if Israel doesn't pull out.

There were two major develop-

Raffle Stub Helps To Solve Crime

By DAVE FINEMAN

A raffle ticket, three beer cans and a match cover led yesterday to the solution of the $1300 burglary of the Alpha Chi Rho fraternity house which occurred Sunday morning. The trail led to the University of Maryland chapter of Theta Chi fraternity.

Alpha Chi Rho received an anonymous phone call at about 4 a.m. yesterday informing them that their missing furniture and clothing could be found stacked in a driveway at 320 E. Hamilton Ave.

The incident probably would have ended right there with Alpha Chi Rho recovering the stolen goods and the looters remaining a mystery, but several clues were also found with the stacked furniture and clothing.

Clues Found

There was a raffle ticket marked "Theta Chi," three empty beer cans from a Baltimore, Md., brewery and a match cover from the University of Maryland, all apparently left in haste.

The fraternity group then decided to have a look at the Theta Chi house here, because of the raffle ticket lead. Upon doing so, they found in the fraternity's driveway a car bearing Maryland license plates and several beer cans from the same Baltimore brewery lying on the back seat.

Police Informed

They then informed the police who immediately went to the Theta Chi house to investigate.

It was determined that four pledges had left the Theta Chi house in Baltimore Saturday night to come to State College, evidently in quest of a "prank" to pull.

While riding around State College at about 3 a.m. Sunday, they were impressed by the darkness and solitude of the area around the Alpha Chi Rho house, parked their car, and entered the fraternity undetected.

After sitting in the house for about an hour, they began loading items of furniture and clothing into their car. They then drove right back to Baltimore.

Cars Sent Back

The fraternity at Baltimore, realizing the seriousness of the pledges' act, sent two cars of volunteers to State College to return the articles.

These "volunteers" were the ones who deposited the stuff in a driveway and then telephoned Alpha Chi Rho.

One of the cars returned immediately to Baltimore, but the second car was occupied by three students who stayed overnight at the Theta Chi chapter here in State College, where they were discovered yesterday morning by Alpha Chi Rho and the police.

These three Baltimore Theta Chi's are still here, having been instructed by State College police to remain pending further investigation.

Pledges Sought

The police are trying to find the identity of the four pledges who came here early Sunday

4000 Take 18 Courses Through TV

More than 4000 students are receiving instruction by television this semester, with 18 courses offered in the instructional research program.

These courses include Psychology 2, Sociology 1, Speech 437, Music 5, Accounting 1, German 1, Psychology 17, Economics 2, Education 1, Meteorology 300, Air Science 4, French 30, French 302, Drama 481, Education 424, Chemistry 2, Electrical Engineering 1 and Electrical Engineering 9.

Television courses were offered for the first time in the spring semester of 1955. The three pioneer courses were Psychology 2, Psychology 17 and Chemistry 1.

The system of using two origin rooms so that two different courses could be taught by television during the same hour was begun last semester.

Leslie P. Greenhill, associate director of the instructional research program, said there are a few technical difficulties remaining in the simultaneous telecasts but that they should be ironed out soon.

All the TV courses are given in Sparks with the exceptions of those in chemistry, given in Osmond and electrical engineering, in Electrical Engineering.

The television system is used for laboratory work only in courses in metallurgy and Speech 200.

Two $600 Grants Open to Seniors

Applications are now being accepted at the University for two John W. White Fellowships, each worth $600.

The fellowships are offered to members of the graduating class who possess those qualities of ability and personality that will enable them to profit best by graduate study, either at the University or elsewhere.

Application forms are available at the office of the co-ordinator of scholarships, 203 Old Main, and must be submitted prior to March 5.

Hat Council To Support Fund Drive

Hat Society Council moved last night to support a fund raising program in conjunction with the National Student Association on behalf of the seven Hungarian students attending the University.

The drive will be conducted on an organizational basis.

Shaler Speaks

Dr. Amos J. Shaler, chairman of the Hungarian Student Assistance sub-committee, said of the 1000 Hungarian university students who took part in last fall's revolution, one-third are at present in the United States.

The University's share of these 300 plus '02 of 16 worth of 1900s 7 are here, he said.

The sub-committee would like to raise about $600 for each of the students here, or a total of $4200 to pay for their books, clothes and spending money until next year.

Dr. Shaler predicted that through loans and summer and part-time jobs the students should soon be on their own.

Project Termed Worthwhile

Samuel Wolcott, council president, termed the fund raising project "worthwhile," and called for a meeting to organize the campaign. The president of each hat society and two representatives from each society will attend the meeting, to be held Tuesday night.

A letter requesting contributions will be distributed to each of the more than 200 University organizations, it was announced.

At a future council meeting the flash card system will be discussed. A committee on constitutional revision was appointed to study the council's constitution.

Colder Weather Expected Today

With the prospect of colder weather in the air, the Lion remained in his den this morning.

Some of the neighbors inquired as to why the Lion was not foraging around the woodland for small game for his meal. The Lion explained that he had some food on hand, and besides he wasn't very hungry anyway.

Actually, it is common knowledge around the forest that the Lion's constant socializing has rendered him unable to catch anything faster than a one-legged tree toad, and he does not want to embarrass himself by trying.

The Lion can't be expected to be to happy anyway. The weatherman has predicted a high of only 25 to 28 this afternoon and a low of (brr!) 15 to 18. It is to be mostly cloudy with a chance of snow flurries.

Collegian Candidates

Candidates for the news and sports staffs of The Daily Collegian will meet at 7 tonight in 1 Carnegie. No previous experience is required.

5 Freshmen To Vie For 'Sno' Queen

Five finalists have been chosen in the Freshman "Sno" Ball Queen" contest.

The finalists are Lois Piercy, elementary education major from Springfield; Judith Stock, liberal arts major from Pittsburgh; Judith Eberhart, liberal arts major from Allentown; Suzanne Keener, home economics major from Greensburg; and Ann Ruthrauff, home economics major from Philadelphia.

The queen will be crowned Saturday night at the annual freshman dance, the "Sno" Ball, in the Hetzel Union ballroom.

Trophies Will Be Presented

The finalists were named during a meeting Sunday of the Freshman Class Advisory Board. The queen will be chosen by a committee of faculty members. Trophies will be presented to the queen and the other four finalists.

Free tickets for the ball may be obtained at the Hetzel Union desk. Only freshmen and their dates may attend. Music will be provided by the Association of Independent Men dance band.

Donation Planned

During Sunday's meeting, the advisory board also agreed to make a donation to the fund for Hungarian students attending the University.

Peter Arnold, vice president, was named to head a committee to seek a permanent half holiday in the University's fall semester calendar. William Swanson was appointed by George Smith, class president, to investigate extension of telephone hours in women's dormitories.

Dr. Eisenhower To Be Installed

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, former president of the University, will be installed as the eighth president of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, at Commemoration Day Services to be held there Friday.

These services are held each year to observe the anniversary of the founding of Johns Hopkins in 1876.

The University will be represented at the program by President and Mrs. Eric A. Walker, Lawrence E. Dennis, vice president for academic affairs, and Mrs. Dennis, and William E. Kenworthy, executive assistant to the President, and Mrs. Kenworthy.

Today Dr. Walker will attend a meeting of the Council of Engineering and Architectural Societies in Washington, D.C.

Guided Missile Lecture

Lt. Cmdr. L. J. Kiernan, assistant professor of naval science, will speak on guided missiles at 7 tonight in the wardroom, Engineering "B."

Campus Calendar Available

A bi-monthly calendar of coming campus events, designed for local businessmen, may be obtained by writing to 309 Old Main, or phoning AD 8-8441, ext. 2193.
