

Lion Cagers Visit Bucknell Tonight

One Bison down, two more to go. The Lion cagers go after their second consecutive victory over Bucknell tonight when the two clubs tangle at Lewisburg.

The varsity encounter will start immediately after a freshman preliminary.

Already assured of a winning season by virtue of a surprising victory over West Virginia last Saturday night, the Lions will be looking for win number 14. They have lost 7, with only five games remaining.

Coach John Egli is expected to start the same club that drove the Mountaineers into submission: Ron Rainey, the team's leading scorer with 310 points, and Tom Hancock at forward, Bob Edwards at center, and Captain Bob Leisher and Steve Baidy at guard.

In reserve Egli will have Dick Schwendeman, Bob Ramsay, Paul Bauer, Ted Kubista and Jim Lysek. Ramsay and Lysek are seniors, the rest sophomores.

To Use Possession Offense
Highly pleased with the cagers' performance against West Virginia—he called it the best game of the year—Egli will try to use the same type of possession game against the Bisons.

That means the Lions will be waiting for the good shot, most likely from inside the foul circle, before going for the score.

Before the Moutie game, Egli told his players they would have to control the ball and take the good shot if they wanted to win. Control the ball and take the good shot they did—only five shots in the second half were taken outside the confines of the two foul lines and the dotted, lower end of the foul circle.

Set on Defense
This fabulous shooting performance, completely checked the Moutie's fast break, their biggest scoring weapon. When the Lions did miss, and that was a rare moment Saturday night, they were set on defense by the time West Virginia brought the ball down court.

For Bucknell, the men to watch, according to Egli, are center Hal Danzig, forward Mike Beatty, and guard Joe Baccelli. Danzig and Beatty play the inside posts on offense while Baccelli stays out front setting the offensive pattern.

To Use 3-2 Zone
Egli plans to use his standard 3-2 zone tonight. He expects the Bisons, particularly Baccelli, to shoot more from the outside than they did in the first game. Baccelli, the team's best set shot, made only three attempts in the Rec Hall contest. He scored on two.

Knowing the home court is a big advantage, the Lions are expecting the Bisons to be at their toughest.

Bucknell, like Penn State, always plays best at home. Last year, the Bisons topped the Lions, 81-74, in the Lewisburg contest.

Independent Cagers Furnish IM Action

All intramural basketball action at Recreation Hall Monday night was furnished by independent teams as Gnarps kept an undefeated record intact while the Nittany Supporters and Five Nitts remained winless.

The Hungry Five, who gained a forfeit victory over the Rebels, and the Zips, who defeated Jordan 2, 38-32, are now tied for the league A lead. League B leaders, the Gnarps, downed the Bulls for their seventh straight win, and the Geechee Birds squeezed past Hamilton Five, 28-27.

The McKee Mustangs turned back McKee Five, 28-16, while the Dippers tripped the McKee Minors, 27-14. Pollock 12 victored over the Nittany Supporters, and Nittany 36 took a close one from the Bearcats, 19-18. The Twenty-Five Fives won over the Five Nitts, 20-18.

Rates Two Top Sophs

John Egli, Penn State basketball coach, rates Bob Edwards and Tom Hancock the two top sophomores on his 1957 edition. The two moved into this position when Carmen Palmiero was killed in a tragic auto accident during the holidays.

Frosh Cagers Meet Bucknell

The Lion freshman basketball team tangles with the Bucknell five tonight on the Bison's court. Penn State's frosh enter the contest with a 1-2 won-lost mark, their lone victory coming over Bucknell.

The Lion cubs' tentative starting five reads: Lou Myers and Frank Magalski, forwards; Paul Sweetland, center; Wally Collender and Mel Ramey, guards.

Collender Tops Scorers
Collender is the Lions' leading point-producer with 65 counters in the three tilts, and, along with Sweetland, Magalski and Myers, gives the Penn State quintet a sound backboard combination.

The Lions' reserve strength has been bolstered by the addition of 6-1 Bob MacDonnell, who is making his first road trip of the season.

Improving Steadily
MacDonnell has improved steadily in practice, according to Jimmy Williams, frosh assistant coach.

Penn State will employ a 3-2 zone against the driving of Bucknell sparkplug Pete Matz and Pete Sylvester's set shot.

New H-Ball Court Rules In Effect

Nick Thiel, director of required physical education, released regulations requiring reservations for the use of the 6 Recreation Hall handball courts Tuesday.

The reservations and other regulations regarding the over-used courts will go into effect at 4 p.m. today.

The new regulations are:

1. Handball courts can be reserved on a one-hour basis, starting and ending on the hour.
2. Reservations cannot be made more than 48 hours in advance.
3. Players must be on time. Reservations will be held for only 10 minutes.
4. After the 10 minute reservation period, the court can be used by anyone waiting.
5. If players are waiting, only foursomes may play. An official in charge will fill all foursomes.
6. Squash players will receive precedence over handball players in court 256.
7. Courts not in use will be assigned to waiting players only for the remainder of the hour.

To place a reservation call Adams 8-8448, ext. 2569 after 4 p.m. Wednesday. Regulation reservation hours will be from 4 to 6:30 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and from 1 to 6:30 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Senior member of the Penn State coaching staff is Charlie Speidel, now in his 31st year as wrestling chief.

Hall of Fame Award To Ex-Lion Mauthe

J. L. Pete Mauthe, as chairman of the board of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., has long dropped the "Pete" from his name, but "JL" recently became the first Penn State athlete to win college football's highest honor—election to the National Football Hall of Fame.

Former Lion coaches Hugo Bezdek, Dick Harlow and Bob Higgins were elected as coaches in 1954, but Pete is the first to be cited as a player.

Higgins, who was an all-American end as an undergraduate, has repeatedly described Pete as "the greatest all-round football player in Penn State history."

The triple-threat fullback in the "good-old-days" of the sport, captained Penn State's first unbeaten, untied team in 1912.

Pete was high scorer on the 1912 team which beat Penn, Pitt, Ohio State and Cornell enroute to its perfect season.

Pete scored 119 points himself that year as the Lions allowed only one team to cross their goal line. The 119 markers showed his all-round versatility as he amassed 11 touchdowns, 8 field goals, and 29 extra points.

Records credited to 'Pete' which still are tops in the Penn State record books include: most points per season (119), most points per career (171), field goals for a single game (3 against W & J in 1912), and most field goals for a career (56).

His punting and place-kicking are still topics of conversation and in the '12 season he averaged 38 yards in 38 punts.

Against Pitt, in the final game, he booted a 51-yard field goal.

J. L. "Pete" Mauthe
From Gridiron to Steel

"Shorty" Miller, who was the team's leading passer and ground gainer, says his own teammates turned in amazement when he called for the 51-yard boot. But Miller, who held the pigskin, claimed that Mauthe kicked the ball effortlessly.

Miller also is the authority for the statement that "Mauthe, and not me, was the best passer on the team."
